

Copy right secured Nov. 21st 1848

Publication deposited same day

THE POET,

Written by

E. A. BRACKET

Adapted to a Melody by H. Nohi,

Arranged for the PIANO & Dedicated to

Miss Caroline Scott

BY

CHARLES GROBE.

Published by F. D. BENTEEN, Baltimore.
W. T. Mayo New Orleans.

Andante.

VOICE

PIANO

The

po... et sighs, the po... et sings, Ah, where..fore should he

1417

Entered according to Act of Congress in the Year 1848 by F. D. Benteen in the Clerks Office of the District Court of Md.

sigh Who breathes such notes . . of me . . . lo . . dy, Whose thoughts may ne . . . ver die! . . . . . Whose thoughts may ne . . . ver die!

2.
 Go ask the flower, whose rich perfume
 Upon the air is borne;
 Is not its breath more fragrant, when
 By rude hands it is torn!

3.
 Ask why above yon silvery lake
 A strain of music floats;
 It is the snow-white swan, whose life
 Is parting with its notes.

4.
 Go ask the sweet æolian harp
 Why its soft music flows;
 It only sings, when o'er the chords
 The chill wind harshly blows.

5.
 Then ask not why the poet sighs,
 Or why he sadly sings;
 For, like the harp his heart is strung,
 And sadness moves the strings.