Preface.

---

THE object of this Edition is to present in an accessible form various works by English composers of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, which would otherwise be difficult to obtain.

It is intended to reprint a selection from the music hidden away in public and private libraries, which is almost unknown, except to antiquaries and collectors of rare books.

Each volume will be accompanied by Introductions, Biographical Notices, and references to the authorities whence information is obtained.

Introduction To No. xiii. Old English Edition.

THOMAS WHEELKES' book of "Balletts and Madrigals," first published in 1598, was his second printed collection. It contains twenty-four compositions, of which the first eight are given in the present volume. The other sixteen will follow in Nos. 14 and 15 of this Series.

A second edition of the book, which was "printed by Thomas Este, the assigne of William Barley" in 1608, has been made use of in the preparation of the present Edition.

The Editor has to express his thanks to Mr. W. Barclay Squire, who most kindly placed at his disposal his own MS. score of the "Balletts and Madrigals;" also to Mr. H. E. Wooldridge, who has helped him with his advice in this as in the other numbers of the Old English Edition.

BIOGRAPHICAL MEMOIR OF THOMAS WHEELKES.

VERY little is known at present of Thomas Weelkes' life. The date of his birth has not yet been discovered, but it is evident that he was still a young man when his first book was published in 1597. This volume of Madrigals he calls the "first fructs of my barren ground;" while in the dedication of his second book of 1598, he speaks of his "yeeres yet unripened." In the Grace for his degree at Oxford in 1602, he is said to have studied music for 16 years. If we may assume that he began his studies as a boy (perhaps in some choir), this will agree well enough with the other statements, and we can fix the date of his birth approximately as about the year 1576.

As to the place of his birth there is even less evidence. The only clues that can be suggested are the fact that the first book of Madrigals (1597) is dedicated to George Phillpot, who was it seems of Thruxtion<sup>a</sup>, near Andover; and secondly, his connexion with Winchester as organist of the College Chapel. These circumstances may possibly point to his being a Hampshire man.

Weelkes' second collection, the "Balletts and Madrigals," was published in 1598. He was now (as appears from the dedication of the work) in the service of Edward Darcye, "groom of her Majesty's Privy Chamber," presumably as domestic musician. He did not, however, long hold this position, for in 1600 he describes himself as "of the Colledge at Winchester, organist." This was no very profitable post<sup>b</sup>, for the "organista," who was classed with the Chaplains, received in the years 1600 to 1602 a stipend of only 13*s.* 4*d.*

<sup>a</sup> See Foster's Alumni Oxonienses. It may be worth mentioning that the Thruxtion Registers do not begin at so early a date.

<sup>b</sup> For these details, which are found in the Bursar's Books of Winchester College, I am indebted to the kindness of Mr. T. F. Kirby, Bursar to the College. Weelkes is nowhere mentioned by name.

per annum, together with his daily Commons, and perhaps (though this is doubtful) his lodging<sup>c</sup>.

Weelkes published two books of Madrigals in 1600. One of them, in the dedication to Henry, Lord Winsor, Baron of Bradenham, contains a personal allusion of some slight interest. Disclaiming the knowledge of other sciences than his own, Weelkes says: "I confess my conscience is untouched with any other arts," though other musicians try to be more than musicians. "This small faculty of mine is alone in me, and without the assistance of other more confident sciences."

The second book of this year is dedicated to Mr. George Brooke.

In 1601 Weelkes contributed a six-part Madrigal to the "Triumphs of Oriana," beginning, "As Vesta was from Latmos." With Morley, the editor of the "Triumphs," he seems to have been on terms of intimacy, for on his death he composed a setting of a verse beginning, "Death hath deprived me of my dearest friend," published in the collection of 1608. This verse, according to Oliphant (Musa Madrigalesca, p. 145), was written by John Davies of Hereford, on the death of Henry, Earl of Pembroke; but Weelkes seems to have considered it appropriate to his case, and called it "a Remembrance of his friend, Thomas Morley."

In the following year Weelkes took the degree of Bachelor of Music at Oxford. The entry in the University Register recording the granting of the Grace is dated 12 February, 1601-2<sup>d</sup>, and is as follows:—

Supplicat etc. Thomas Weekes scholaris facultatis Musices e Collegio Novo quatenus sedecim annos in studio et praxi Musices posuerit ceteraque praestiterit omnia quae per statuta hujus clarissimae Academiae requiruntur ut ei sufficient quo admittatur ad lectionem cuiuslibet libri musices Boethii. hæc

<sup>c</sup> It is not quite clear from the dedication of the first of the books of Madrigals published in 1600, whether Weelkes was actually living in the College or not.

<sup>d</sup> For this copy of the entry I am indebted to the kindness of the Rev. T. Vere Bayne, Keeper of the Archives. See also the "Registrum Univ. Oxon." edited for the Oxford Historical Society by the Rev. A. Clark, Vol. II. Part I. p. 31, where it is said that "to the 'supplicat' for Bac. Mus. of Thomas Weelkes is added this note (in M. a. 11. fol. 128), 'Intelligendum est quod nec dictus Thomas Weekes nec quisquam alias est ex fundatione sociorum in Collegio Novi si gratiam proponat aut in congregacione aut in convocatione.'" This alludes to the fact that members on the foundation of New College were exempted from the necessity of supplicating for degrees. (Ibid. p. 30.)

gratia concessa est modo hymnum Coralem (sic) componat proximis comitiis decantandum.

He was admitted July 13, 1602.

Antony Wood, in his Fasti Oxonienses, by some curious mistake calls him "William" Weelks, and asks "whether the Scribe or Registry of the University hath not set down William for Tho. Weelks?" The mistake, however, is on the part of Antony Wood, for the Register has the Christian name correctly, Thomas Weelks.

Soon after taking his degree, as it seems, Weelkes was appointed Organist to Chichester Cathedral.

The Chapter records have unfortunately perished, and nothing is known of his life at Chichester, except what can be gathered from the Subdeanery Registers. From these it appears that Weelkes was settled at Chichester with his family in 1603, for in that year we find the following entry among the Baptisms :—

"Thomas Weelkes bap. nono die Jun."

This no doubt was Weelkes' son, of whom mention is made in his Will.

In 1606 the Baptism of another child is entered in the same Registers :—

"Alles. Wilkes the daughter of Thomas Wilkes organiste. bap. the 17 September."

In 1608 appeared the book of "Ayres or Phantasticke Spirites for three voices." On the title-page Weelkes describes himself as Gentleman of his Majesty's Chapel, Bachelor of Music, and Organist of the Cathedral Church of Chichester. The first of these titles presents some difficulty, for there is no mention of Weelkes' name in the Old Cheque-book of the Chapel Royal (edited for the Camden Society by Dr. Rimbault).

In 1614 he contributed two songs to Leighton's "Tears or Lamentations of a sorrowful Soul," one being to four voices, and the other to five. Though these were his last publications, it is probable that during the period of his residence at Chichester he composed most of the numerous Anthems which are attributed to him in various MS. collections<sup>e</sup>.

<sup>e</sup> Weelkes' full Anthem, "Deliver us, O Lord," in the Barnard Collection [Sacred Harmonic Soc. Catalogue, 1642], now in the Library of the Royal College of Music, is said in the Catalogue to be inscribed, "Mr. Will. Cox, his Anthem, March 9, 1617." A list of Weelkes' unpublished works will be given in No. 15 of the Old English Edition.

In the Subdeanery Registers, among the burials in the year 1622, occurs the following entry :—

“ Eliza : Welkes : the wyfe of Mr Tho: Welkes : organist of the Cathedriall : Church was buried September the vij<sup>o</sup>. ”

A little more than a year later, Weelkes himself died. His Will, in the Probate Office at Chichester, is dated Nov. 30, and proved Dec. 5, 1623. His death must have taken place between these two dates, but the entry of his burial is not in the Subdeanery Registers, nor has it yet been discovered in the Registers of the other Churches in Chichester.

The Will, which is printed below, besides the son, Thomas, and the daughter, Alice<sup>1</sup>, mentions a daughter Katherine, born probably before the family moved to Chichester.

As to the name, it will be seen that the composer spelt it Weelkes or Weelks both in the signature to his Will, and on his various title-pages. It is also spelt Wilkes, Welkes, and Weekes.

In preparing this brief notice of Thomas Weekes I have received much valuable help. My thanks are especially due to the Rev. Prebendary Bennett, Chichester, who gave me information as to the Registers at Chichester: to the Rev. J. H. Mee, Mus.Doc., Precentor of Chichester: to T. F. Kirby, Esq., Bursar to the College, Winchester: to the Rev. T. Vere Bayne, Keeper of the Archives to the University of Oxford: and to the different Clergymen who have searched, or allowed me to search, the Registers in their custody.

Right worshipfull, it is no small comfort the Musicke professors conceiue, when they consider the euer misdeeming multitude to brand them with infamy, whom the most Honorable spirits haue alwaies honored: and although pouertie hath debarred them their fellow arts mens companie, yet nature hath set their better part at libertie, to delight them that loue Musicke. Amongst so many worthy men dayly labouring to call home againe the banished Philomele, whose purest blood the impure Minstralſe hath stained, I must presume to remember one of your worships least labours, (your greater deedes greater men must seek to requite) the entertaining into your seruice the least proficient in Musicke, who with all dutifull obseruancie, humbly commend my poore labours to your worships protection. My yeeres yet vnripened, and this worke not a little hastened, cannot promise any choice notes of Musicke, yet notwithstanding I presume that gentlenes which accepts my seruice, will neuer reiect the labours of his seruant: Thus humbly taking my leave, I leaue these to your worships fauours, and you to the keeping of him that best can keepe you.

ALL at once well met, fair Ladies,
Sing we now our love repaid is,
Fa la.

Sweethearts do not forsake us
Till night to sleep betake us,
Fa la.

Cytherea shall requite you
With delight lest sorrow fright you,
Fa la.

Then help, ye dainty Ladies,
To sing our love repaid is,
Fa la.

ii.

To shorten Winter's sadness
See where the Nymphs with gladness,
Fa la.

Disguised all are coming
Right wantonly a-mumming,
Fa la.

III.

SWEET love, I will no more abuse thee,
Nor with my voice accuse thee,
But tune my notes unto thy praise,
And tell the world love ne'er decays.
Sweet love doth concord ever cherish ;
What wanteth concord soon doth perish.

IV.

WHILST youthful sports are lasting
To feasting turn our fasting,

Fa la.

With revels and with wassails
Make grief and care our vassals,

Fa la.

For youth it well beseemeth
That pleasure he esteemeth,

Fa la.

And sullen age is hated,
That mirth would have abated,

Fa la.

v.

On the plains
Fairy trains
Were a-treading measures,
Satyrs play'd,
Fairies stay'd
At the stops set leisures.

Fa la.

Nymphs begin
To come in
Quickly thick and threefold,
Now they dance,
Now they prance,
Present there to behold.

Fa la.

vi.

SWEETHEART, arise, why do you sleep,
When lovers wanton sports do keep?
The sun doth shine, the birds do sing,
And May delight and joy doth bring.
Then join we hands and dance till night,
'Tis pity love should want his right.

vii.

GIVE me my heart and I will go,
Or else forsake your wonted no,
                                No, no.

But since my dear doth doubt me
With no, no, no, I mean to flout thee.
                                No, no.

Now is there hope we shall agree,
When double no imparteth yea,
                                No, no.

If that be so, my dearest,
With no, no, no, my heart thou cheerest.
                                No, no.

viii.

HARK, all ye lovely saints above,
 Diana hath agreed with love
 His fiery weapon to remove.        Fa la.

Do you not see
 How they agree?
 Then cease, fair Ladies, why weep ye?
 Fa la.

See, see, your Mistress bids you cease,
 And welcome love, with love's increase;
 Diana hath procur'd your peace.    Fa la.

Cupid hath sworn
 His bow forlorn
 To break and burn, ere Ladies mourn.
 Fa la.

The musical score consists of eight staves. The top four staves are for voices, each with a soprano-like melody. The bottom four staves are for a basso continuo instrument, likely harpsichord or organ, providing harmonic support with sustained notes and chords. The vocal parts alternate between 'Fa la la la' and 'la la la la la' lyrics, with some variations in pitch and rhythm. The basso continuo parts provide a steady harmonic foundation with sustained notes and simple chords.

Musical score for the first section of "Fa la la la la". The score consists of five staves. The top four staves are soprano voices, each with lyrics: "la la la la ..... Fa la la la la Dis-When", "la la la la la la la la Dis-When", "..... la la la la la la la la Dis-When", and "..... la la la la la la la la Dis-When". The fifth staff is a basso continuo (bass) staff, indicated by a brace and a bass clef, providing harmonic support.

Musical score for the second section of "Fa la la la la". The score consists of five staves. The musical score consists of two parts. The first part, 'Fa la la la la', is a continuous vocal line in G major, 2/4 time, featuring eighth-note patterns and a bass line. The second part, 'Do you Cupid', begins on the first note of the vocal line and continues with a bass line. The vocal line includes lyrics like 'Fa la la la la..... la la' and 'Fa la la la la la la la la'. The bass line features sustained notes and chords. The score is divided into two systems by a brace, with each system containing four staves. The vocal line starts on a G note and ends on a D note. The bass line starts on a C note and ends on a G note. The overall style is simple and repetitive, typical of early sheet music.
