Preface.

THE object of this Edition is to present in an accessible form various works by English composers of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, which would otherwise be difficult to obtain.

It is intended to reprint a selection from the music hidden away in public and private libraries, which is almost unknown, except to antiquaries and collectors of rare books.

Each volume will be accompanied by Introductions, Biographical Notices, and references to the authorities whence information is obtained.

Introduction To No. xi. Old English Edition.

ALFONSO FERRABOSCO was most probably a native of Bologna. Robert Dowland, in his "Variety of Lute Lessons," 1610<sup>a</sup>, calls him "the most Artificiall and famous Alfonso Ferrabosco of Bologna:" and there was a Domenico Maria Ferrabosco, who was Maestro di Cappella of the Church of S. Petronio in that city in the 16th century, who may well have been a member of the same family.

Ferrabosco's first publications were Madrigals and Motets contributed to Cipriano di Rore's collection, printed at Venice in 1544.

Some time before 1567 he settled in England, perhaps at Greenwich, where the court was often held, and where his son Alfonso was born<sup>b</sup>. Master Alfonso, as he was called in England, seems to have met with a friendly welcome, and a pension was conferred on him by Elizabeth. In a letter to Cecil, dated Sept. 10, 1567, he mentions that he understands that the patent is being made out for his life; and begs that the words "de heredibus et successoribus nostris" may be inserted. (Cal. of State Papers, Dom. Ser. Eliz., vol. xliv. No. 4.) This request suggests that his son was born as early as 1567.

It is not known when Ferrabosco returned to Italy, but he was in the employment of the Duke of Savoy in 1587, when he published a volume described as his second<sup>c</sup> set of Madrigals at Venice.

<sup>a</sup> I have no doubt that the two compositions, printed by Robert Dowland, are by the eldest Alfonso Ferrabosco, and not by the second of the name, who was born in England, and was regarded by his contemporaries as an English composer. (Peacham, Compleat Gentleman, 1622.)

The admission of works by an Italian composer into what professes to be an Old English Edition may need a word of explanation.

Alfonso Ferrabosco was the first composer of European reputation who came to live in England, and there can be no doubt that his presence had a very great influence on the English School of music, which was just then in process of development. This has not been sufficiently recognised; and for this reason specimens of his work are now presented, that they may be compared with the productions of Byrd, Kirbye, and their successors.

It is not surprising that Byrd should have been influenced by the older Italian composer, with whom he was brought into personal contact. Morley, in his "Introduction to Practical Music," tells us of "the vertuous contention in loue betwixt themselves made vpon the plaine song Miserere; but a contention, as I faide, in loue: which caused them to striue euery one to surmount another, without malice, enuie, or back-biting; but by great labour, studie, and paines, each making other Cenfor of that which they had done. Which contention of theirs (specially without enuie) caused them both to become excellent in that kinde, and winne such a name, and gaine such credit, as will neuer perish so long as Musick endureth."

Each of the composers set the plainsong "Miserere" in forty different ways, which were printed by Thomas East in 1603, under the name of "Medulla Musicke." No copy of this work, however, is now known to exist.

Peacham, in his "Compleat Gentleman," first published in 1622, gives an account of another contention.

"Alphonso Ferabosco the father, while he liued, for iudgment and depth of skill (as also his sonne yet liuing), was inferior vnto none: what he did was most elaborate and profound, and pleasing enough in Aire, though Master Thomas Morley censureth him otherwise. That of his, I saw my Ladie weeping, and the Nightingale (vpon which Dittie Master Bird and he in a friendly aemulation exercized their inuention) cannot be bettered for sweetnesse of Aire, or depth of iudgement."

It has been suggested, however, that this "friendly aemulation" is 'probably another version of the story told by Morley as to the plainsong "Miserere." The writer has been misled by the fact that Byrd also set the words, "The Nightingale so pleasant and so gay." (Mr. J. A. Fuller-Maitland in the "Dictionary of National Biography.") This suggestion is the more probable as Byrd's composition is written in three parts, and Ferrabosco's in five; Orlando di Lasso also set the same words. Another "ditty," which was also set by the same three composers, is "Susanna fair" (Susann' un jour).

Alfonso Ferrabosco the son was also esteemed as a composer, especially as a writer for instruments. Antony Wood calls him "the most famous man in all y<sup>e</sup> world for Fantazias of 5 and 6 parts" [MS. Notes on Musicians]. He published a volume of Lessons for viols in 1609, and in the same year a volume of "Ayres;" he also contributed three Motets to Leighton's "Tears and Lamentacions," 1614. He held various appointments as musician at Court, and died in 1628, leaving two sons, Henry and Alfonso (the third of the name who died in 1661), also musicians. There was moreover a John Ferrabosco, organist of Ely Cathedral from 1662 to 1682, who may have been son to one of them.

[The references used in this account of Ferrabosco are taken for the most part from the articles already referred to in the "Dictionary of National Biography."]

Many of Ferrabosco's Madrigals found their way into English Collections. "Musica Transalpina," 1588, contains fourteen by him, now reprinted, it is believed, for the first time. The Second Part of "Musica Transalpina," 1597, contains six Madrigals, and Morley's collection, 1598, five more.

There are besides in MS. collections many works bearing his name, but without scoring them, it is impossible to say which belong to the father and which to the son, so that no catalogue of his works has been attempted.

"Musica Transalpina," from which these madrigals are taken, was published in 1588. It is a collection of forty-seven madrigals by the best Italian and Flemish writers, and is especially interesting as being one of the two first books of madrigals printed in England; Byrd's book of "Psalms, Sonnets, and Songs," having appeared earlier in the same year. The "Epistle Dedicatore," which tells us all that we know about the book, is printed below.

It has been thought advisable to alter the words in a few places, to make them more suitable for modern singers. As the original verses have very little literary merit, the Editor has felt no scruple in doing so.

The words of the first madrigal, "Susanna fair," have been re-written, and the opening lines of "Thirsis" have been reconstructed.

Alterations and corrections in the music have been noted where they occur. The sharps, flats, and naturals placed above notes are supplied by the Editor, and are not found in the original edition of 1588.

The Editor has to express his indebtedness to Mr. H. E. Wooldridge, who has helped him in this as in the previous numbers of this series with his advice, help, and suggestions.

The Epistle dedicatorie.

To the right honourable Gilbert Lord Talbot, sonne and heire to the right noble & puissant George Earle of Shrewesbury, Washford and Waterford, Earle Marshal of England, Lord Talbot, Furniuall, Verdune, Louetost, & Strange of Blackmeere, one of her Maiesties most honorable priuie council, Iustice of the forrests and chases by north the riuier of Trent, and Knight of the most honourable order of the garter. Nicholas Yong wisheth increase of honour, with all happineſſe.

Right honourable, since I first began to keepe house in this Citié, it hath been no ſmall comfort vnto mee, that a great number of Gentlemen and Merchants of good accompt (as well of this realme as of forreine nations) haue taken in good part ſuch entertainment of pleasure, as my poore abilitie was able to affoord them, both by the exercise of Musickē daily uſed in my house, and by furniſhing them with Bookes of that kinde yeerely ſent me out of Italy and other places, which beeing for the moft part Italian Songs, are for ſweetnes of Aire, verie well liked of all, but moft in account with them that understand that language. As for the reſt, they doe either not ſing them at all, or at the leaſt with little delight. And albeit there be ſome English ſongs lately ſet forth by a great Maiftre of Musickē, which for ſkill and ſweetnes may content the moft curioſe: yet because they are not many in number, men delighted with varietie, haue wiſhed more of the ſame ſort. For whose cauſe chiefly I endeououred to get into my hands all ſuch English Songs as were praise worthie, and amongſt others, I had the hap to find in the hands of ſome of my good friends, certaine Italian Madrigales tranſlated moft of them fiue yeeres agoe by a Gentleman for his priuate delight, (as not long before certaine Napolitans had been engliſhed by a verie honourable perfonage, and now a Councillour of eſtate, whereof I haue ſeen some, but neuer poſſeffed any). And finding the ſame to be ſingulerly well liked, not onely of thoſe for whose cauſe I gathered them, but of many ſkilfull Gentlemen and other great Musiciens, who affirmed the accent of the words to be well maintained, the deſcant not hindred (thoſh ſome fewe notes altered), and in euerie place the due decorum kept: I was ſo bolde (beeing well acquainted with the Gentleman) as to entreat the rest, who willingly gaue me such as he had (for of some he kept no Copies), and also some other more lately done at the request of his particular friends. Now when the same were seene to arise to a iust number, sufficient to furnish a great set of Books, diuers of my friends aforesaid, required with great instance to haue them printed, whereunto I was as willing as the rest, but could neuer obtaine the Gentlemans consent, though I sought it by many great meanes. For his answer was euer, that those trifles being but an idle mans exercise, of an idle subiect, written onely for priuate recreation, would blush to be seene otherwise then by twilight, much more to be brought into the common view of all men. And seeing me still importunate, he tooke his penne, and with an obstinate resolution of his former speech, wrote in one of the Bookes these verses of the Poet Martial.

Seras tutior ibis ad lucernas,
 Haec hora est tua, dum furit Lyaeus,
 Dum regnat rosa, dum madent capilli,
 Tum te vel rigidi legant Catones.

Wherefore I kept them (or the most of them) for a long time by mee, not presuming to put my sickle in an other mans corne, till such time as I heard, that the same beeing dispersed into many mens hands, were by some persons altogether vñknowen to the owner, like to be published in Print. Which made mee aduenture to set this worke in hand, he beeing neither priuie nor present, nor so neere this place as by any reasonable meanes I could giue him notice. Wherein though he may take a iust offence, that I haue laid open his labours without his licence: yet since they were in hazard to come abroad by straungers, lame and unperfect by means of false Copies, I hope that this which I haue done to auoide a greater ill, shall deserue a more fauourable excuse. But seeking yet a stronger string to my bow, I thought good in all humble and duetifull sort to offer my selfe and my bold attempt to the defence and protection of your Lordship, to whose honourable hands I present the same. Assuring my selfe, that so great is the loue and affection which hee beareth to your L. as the view of your name in the Front of the Bookes, will take away all displeasure and vnkindnes from mee. And although this may be thought a greater boldnes then the first (I being not any way able to doe your L. such a seruice, as may deserue so great a fauour) yet I hope these Songs being hitherto well esteemed of all, shalbe so regarded of your L. as I for them, and they for themselves, shall not be thought vñworthie of your honourable defence. With which hope I humbly commit your L. to the protection of the Almightie: wishing to the same, that encrease of honour which your true vertue deriuued from so noble and renowmed Ancestors doeth worthely deserue.

From London the first of October. 1588.

Your Lordship's
Most humble
at commandement,
N. YONGE.

The musical score consists of two systems of music. The first system starts with the vocal entries and continues through measure 12. The second system begins at measure 13 and concludes at measure 16. The vocal parts are labeled on the left: Treble, Alto, 1st Tenor (8<sup>ve</sup> lower), 2nd Tenor (8<sup>ve</sup> lower), and Bass. The piano accompaniment is indicated by a bracket on the right side of the page. Measure numbers 10 and 12 are placed above the vocal lines in the first system. Measure numbers 13 and 16 are placed below the vocal lines in the second system. Measure numbers 14 and 15 are placed below the piano accompaniment in the second system.

A musical score for a four-part choir. The top three voices sing in G major with a key signature of one sharp. The bass voice begins in G major but switches to B major with a key signature of two sharps at the end of the page. The vocal parts are: Alto 1, Alto 2, Tenor, and Bass. The lyrics are: "rubbles and pearls and treasure, King-dom's re-nown", repeated three times, followed by "ru-bbles and pearls... and treasure, King-dom's re-nown". The bass part continues in B major.

A musical score for a four-part setting (SATB) with piano accompaniment. The vocal parts are arranged in three staves above the piano. The top staff uses soprano C-clef, the middle staff alto F-clef, and the bottom staff bass G-clef. The piano part is in bass clef. The music is in common time, with a key signature of one flat. The vocal parts sing in unison throughout the piece. The lyrics are as follows:

A musical score for a three-part setting (SATB) with piano accompaniment. The vocal parts are in treble clef, and the piano part is in bass clef. The music consists of two systems of staves. The first system starts with a key signature of one flat, followed by a section in E major (no sharps or flats). The lyrics describe a state of despair where no comfort is found in song. The second system begins with a repeat sign and continues the theme of unrelenting despair. The score includes dynamic markings like "fort." and "p". Measure numbers 96 and 97 are indicated above the staff.

Preface.

THE object of this Edition is to present in an accessible form various works by English composers of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, which would otherwise be difficult to obtain.

It is intended to reprint a selection from the music hidden away in public and private libraries, which is almost unknown, except to antiquaries and collectors of rare books.

Each volume will be accompanied by Introductions, Biographical Notices, and references to the authorities whence information is obtained.

Introduction To No. xii. Old English Edition.

THIS volume contains the five Six-part Madrigals by Alfonso Ferrabosco the elder, which were printed in "Musica Transalpina," 1588. A brief account of Ferrabosco is prefixed to the volume of his Five-part Madrigals, No. XI. of this Edition, to which the reader is referred.

All corrections and alterations of the Music will be noted where they occur.

A few instances of the combination of the major and minor thirds upon the same root are to be found in these Madrigals. These have been altered in the text, but the original reading is duly given at the foot of the page. A note on this subject by Mr. H. E. Wooldridge is prefixed to the 5th volume of this Edition.

A musical score for voice and piano, page 19. The score consists of two systems of music. The top system starts with a treble clef, a key signature of one sharp, and a common time signature. The lyrics are: "me none o - ther sounds ..... but tunes". The piano part has a bass clef and a common time signature. The bottom system starts with a treble clef, a key signature of one sharp, and a common time signature. The lyrics are: "me - ment ..... me none o - ther sounds but - ment me none o - ther sounds ..... me .....". The piano part has a bass clef and a common time signature. The score continues with another system of music, starting with a treble clef, a key signature of one sharp, and a common time signature. The lyrics are: "of my ..... com - plain - none ..... o - ther sounds..... but tunes". The piano part has a bass clef and a common time signature. The score then changes to a key signature of two sharps. The lyrics are: "tunes of my ..... com - plain - but tunes of my ..... com - plain - ing none o - ther sounds ..... but tunes of my ..... none ..... o - ther sounds ..... but tunes". The piano part has a bass clef and a common time signature.
