THE FIRST RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC.

OF THE NOTES.

MUSICAL sounds are represented by signs written on or between five parallel lines. These signs bear the term of Notes, and are ealled by these seven letters:

The five parallel lines, with their four intermediate spaces, are called a Staff.

When a Note in its pitch exceeds the compass which the staff affords, small lines are added, which are called Ledger lines. See example.

OF THE CLEFS.

To establish the names of the notes, so as to designate their pitch, a sign is placed at the beginning of each staff, which is called a Clef There are two kinds in common use:

1. The Bass or F Clef is marked on the 4th line, and serves for Bass voices, or Bass instruments, because it has the lowest pitch of all.

2. The G Clef, which is used for the Violin, has the highest pitch of all, and is placed on the 2d line of the staff. The uote standing on the 2d line is then called G.

NOTES AND THEIR VALUE.

Whole Note.

Halves.

Quarters.

Eighths.

Sixteenths

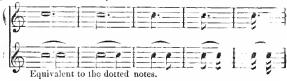

Thirty-seconds.

There are, then, six kinds of notes. The first kind is called a Wholo note, because it is the longest in duration. The second kind is called Half note, because two make a whole one. The third kind is called Quarter note, because four make a whole one. The fourth sind, Eighth note, because eight make a whole one. The fifth kind, Sixteenth note, because sixteen make a whole one. The sixth kind, Thirty-second note, because thirty-two make a whole note. It is to be understood that the value of the nates lefer to the duration of the time in which they must be performed. Whatever time you give to a whole note, two half notes require exactly the same time. Hence it is plain, that the half notes go twice as fast as a whole note; that the quarter notes go four times; the eighth notes, eight times; the sixteenth notes, sixteen times; and the 32d notes, thirty-two times as fast as a whole note.

OF THE DOT.

The Dot makes the note after which it is placed half as long again; thus, a dotted whole note will be worth three half notes. A dotted half note, three quarters. A dotted quarter note, three eighth notes. See example.

If two dots are placed after a note, the second dot has half the value of the first dot.

OF THE RESTS.

Rests are used where the performer has to cease playing. When a rest occurs, there must be a pause of the same duration as the note which it represents; therefore, there are as many kinds of rests, of the same value in duration, as there are notes. See example.

A whole rest is always marked below the line, and a half rest upon the line. See Ex.

The upper small line of a quarter rest shows always to the right side; and of an eighth rest, to the left side. See Example.

The dot is also employed with the rests, and increases their value in duration, in the same manner as with the notes.

OF TIME.

Every musical piece is divided into equal portions, called Measures; and after each measure is placed a vertical line, called a Bar. The measure is also divided into fractional parts, called Beats. How many beats a measure contains, depends on what kind of Time is marked at the beginning of a piece.

The most in use is called Common time, marked with a \bigcirc ; and each measure contains, then, the value of a whole note, which is counted by four beats, to know that by each beat a quarter, or the value of a quarter note, must be performed. This time is also marked by ‡, and called Four-quarter time, which is the same.

When common time is marked thus, $\{ \{ \} \}$, or $\{ \}$, it indicates that the measure is to be struck in two beats, instead of four beats. It is termed A-LA-BREVE time.

The beats must be counted exactly like the pendulum of a clock—not one beat fast and another slow.

Count in the common, or 2 time, equally, onc. The Three rous, each measure: to a la-breve time, equally, one, two

THE RUDIMENTS OF MUSIC.

When marked 2, it is called Two-quarter time, and each measure contains the value of two quarter notes. Count one, two, to each measure.

Six-Eight Time contains the value of six eighth notes. This time is also struck in two beats, but at each beat three eighth notes, or their equivalent, must be performed.

Three-Four Time contains the value of three quarter notes. It is counted in three heats.

Three-Eight time contains the value of three eighth notes, and at each beat the value of an eighth note is to be performed.

The figure 3 when placed over three eighth notes, or three sixteenth notes, is to mark that these three eighth or sixteenth notes must be performed in the same length of time as two eighth or sixteenth notes without a figure would require. In the same way, when the figure 6 is placed over six notes, they must be played in the time of four notes.

OF THE SHARP, FLAT, AND NATURAL.

A sign called Sharp $(\frac{x}{n})$, before a note, serves to raise it a minor half-tone; and a Flat $(\frac{x}{n})$ serves to lower it a minor half-tone. The Natural $(\frac{x}{n})$ serves to annul a sharp or a flat, and restores a note to its natural pitch. The Double is harp $(\frac{x}{n})$ raises a note two minor half-tones, and the Double Flat lowers it two minor half-tones.

OF THE MODES.

In modern music we have two modes The first is called Major, and the second Minor. The natural scale, which is called Major, is composed of five whole tones and two half-tones. The two half-tones in the major scale must be from the third to the fourth, and from the seventh to the eighth. All major scales are formed after the fundamental scale, C major, and are always the same scales—only transposed.

When starting the scale with another note than C, the two half-tones are then displaced, and to establish the same proportion in the intervals, regarding the two half-tones, we employ sharps and flats to raise and to lower the notes. See Example.

The regular succession of all the major scales with sharps, is found by beginning with C, and proceeding by exact fifths, ascending, till you come to C again, which is then C sharp, and requires seven sharps. By descending in fifths, beginning with C, you will find all major modes in the flats.

OF SIGNS, AND ARTICULATION.

A Double Bar shows the end of a strain. When dots are placed near these bars, they indicate that this part tense be graved over again. When tearboth en both sides, each strain is to be repeated. Thus:

When D. C. (DA CAPO) is marked at the end of a piece, it means it is to be played over again from the beginning till you see the word Fine, which indicates the end of the piece. The sign \mathcal{L} indicates that you are to return to a similar sign, and end at the word Fine.

A Hold nover a note or rest indicates that the same can be prolonged at pleasure.

There are two styles of articulation—the detached, and the flowing or slurred. When no sign is placed over or below the notes, they must be all detached, and, according to the character of the piece, in a more or less full manner.

Little dots placed over the notes indicate that they must be played in a short manner, employing very little bow. When two or more measures are united with a Slur, and dots are over all the notes which the slur includes, you are to play them all in one bowing, and each note must be detached in a very short manner, which is called Staccato.

An Approgramma is a grace note placed above or below a principal note, and is indicated by small notes, which are generally half the value of the principal note. See example.

A Turn is composed of three grace notes placed before or after a principal note.

The TRILL, indicated by these letters, tr, is composed of two notes, which are to be played in rapid succession, alternately, until the value of the note is ended. The end of a trill is mostly written in small notes, for it can be ended in several ways.

ABBREVIATIONS OF NOTES.

ABBREVIATIONS OF ITALIAN WORDS.

Piano, (abbreviated p) soft; Pianissimo (pp) very soft; Forte, (f) lond; Fortissimo, (ff) very loud; Crescendo, (cres.) gradually increasing in strength; Decrescendo, (decres.) gradually decreasing; Dolce, sweet, soft; Ad libitum, at pleasure; Affetuese, tender and affecting; A tempo, in time; Coda, an end or finish; Con Spirito, with spirit; Maestose, majestic; Primo, first; Rallentando, slower and softer by degrees; Mezzo, middling, medium: Solo, for a single voice or instrument; 8va. signifies that the music over which it is placed is to be played an octave higher. Loco takes away the effect of 8va.

PROGRESSIVE LESSONS.

The notes in No 1 are played with a half bow, but very darting, making a short rest between them

The following are the principal varieties of bowing that will be used in the Progressive Lessons, which the scholar must be familiar with before proceeding any farther. These, as far as No. 9, are to be practised in the following Exercise, which must be well understood before applying them. The pupil should practise diligently all the Preliminary Exercises, as it will very much facilitate his studies in the following lessons. A good beginning is sure to make a good ending, if persevered in.

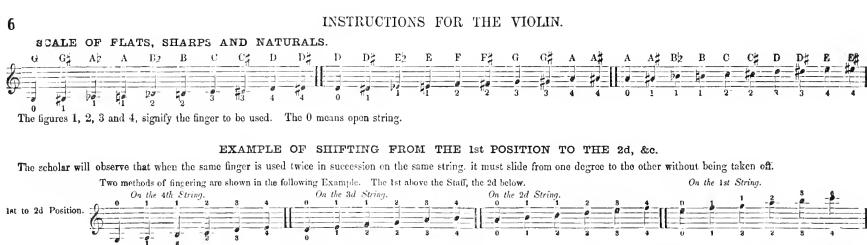

In all these varieties, use from one third to one half of the bow, except Nos. 1 and 2, which will require the whole bow. The position of the bow must be strictly attended to, in these varieties; that is, not to let the bow run off the strings at the upper end, or slide past the middle towards the hand. For instance, if an equal length of bow is used to each of the four notes in No. 7, the bow would run off the strings at the upper end; and in No. 8, where the bowing is reversed, the bow would slide past the middle, and reach the hand.

In order to keep the position of the bow on the strings, the fourth staceato note in No. 7 must receive the same length of bow up. as the three slurred notes down. In No. 8, the first note is played with the half bow down, and the other three with the half bow up. In No. 13, the seven slurred notes are played with the half bow down, and the eighth with the half bow up. In No. 14, the first note is played with the half bow down, and the seven slurred notes with the half bow up. In No. 15, two notes are played with one stroke of the bow, making a short rest between each note. The other varieties the scholar will very easily understand, with a little practice, without any further explanation.

The Crotchet and Quaver, in Six-Eight time, and a short note between two long ones, are played in three different manners, which must be equally familiar to the scholar. The first manner is to play the short note which follows the long one with the same stroke of the bow, making a kind of short rest between them, as in the following Exercise.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE VIOLIN

TUNING THE VIOLIN.

The Violin must be tuned by fifths in the following manner:

The 4th or biggest String open will be G, commonly called lower G, because it is the lowest Note on the Instrument; the 3d String open will be D; the 2d String open will be A; and the 1st String open will be E.

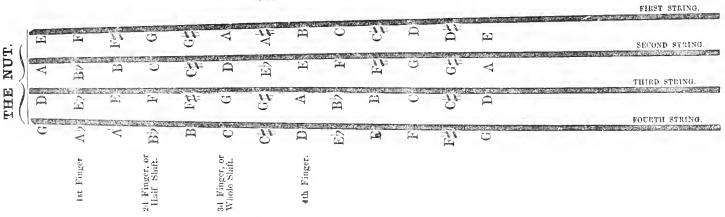

But if you cannot put the Violin in tune by the help of the former directions, measure out the 7th line or fret from the Nut, as seen in the following Diagram, and draw with a little ink a line over the finger board at the same distance from the Nut as that line; then serew up the 1st String to as high a pitch as it can moderately bear, and put your little finger on the aforesaid mark on the 2d String, and cause that String to give the same sound as the 1st String when open. Afterwards put your little finger on the same mark on the 3d string, and cause it to have the same sound as the 2d String when open. Observe the same method with the 4th string.

METHOD OF STOPPING IN TUNE.

If you cannot readily attain to stop in tune, you may then have recourse to the ensuing Diagram, wherein the Strings of the Violin are represented and divided into Frets. Mark out the lines or frets with a pair of compasses, either with ink or bits of paper, and paste it on the Finger-board of your Violin. Thus you will easily discern every note, and with practice learn to stop in tune to a very great nicety

SCALE OF THE FINGER BOARD.

HOLDING THE VIOLIN.

The Violin must rest on the follar bone, and the chin be placed on the left side of the tail-piece, inclining a little to the right, and held horizontally with the left hand. The chin should rest partly on the belly on the left side of the tail-piece, and partly on the tail-piece itself. Care should be taken not to press too hard on the tail-piece, as it will alter the tension of the strings; sufficient pressure should be given to allow the hand freedom to glide up on the high notes. The neck of the Violin must rest between the thumb and forefinger of the left hand—held gently over the first joint of the thumb and the third joint of the forefinger, so that it cannot sink down into the depths of the division between the finger and thumb. That part of the hand where the little finger is should be brought as near the finger-board as possible, in order that this shorter finger, like the others with bent joints, any fall perpendicularly on the strings. The clow of the left arm should be drawn inwards under the middle of the Violin; but let it not touch the body, because it would sink the Violin too much towards the neck. Particular care should be taken not to let the Violin rest against a watch-guard, buttons, jewelry, or any other metal substance, as it will produce a jarning, disagreeable tone, very unplusant to a good musical ear

HOLDING THE BOW.

The Bow must be held with the right point of the thumb nearly an inch above the nut, the fingers a little curved on the outside, in a natural manner, the stick erossing the second joint of the first finger. The bowing must be quite straight when beginning on the nut; the point of the bow must be rather inclined forward than backward, the stick always inclined to the finger-board. You begin by placing the hair close upon the string, being careful not to press at the beginning, which stops the vibration.

Bowing is the most important thing on the Violin. The sound must be drawn, and not pressed. The first thing is to learn the use of the bow in a slow movement, beginning a sound very soft, and swelling a against the middle of the bow, and then diminishing it; this cau be learned by playing the Scales.

When the composition begins with a note or a group of notes forming a part of the last bar of the first strain, it (or they) must be played with an up bow. When the first part of a bar ones not commence with a rest, the first note of each bar should always be played with a down bow; but when the first note is preceded by a rest, it must be played with an up bow. Avoid moving the whole arm. The shoulder may make a little motion; the elbow rather more in leaving the body; the wrist must act freely

The second manner is to play the long note with a down bow, and the short one with an up bow. Example:

The third manner is to play the long note with an up bow, and the short one with a down bow. Example:

The scholar may think that it is useless to practise so much on the different varieties of bowing in the early part of his studies; if so, he will find his mistake before he gets half through the Progressive Lessons. As the bow is considered by all great masters of this instrument to be the soul of Violin playing, a few hours spent in practising some of its varieties, in the beginning, may not be considered as thrown away. I therefore advise the scholar to practise them frequently. A long note, and the short one that follows or precedes it, give to the scholar a difficulty, both in the time and bowing; and the following examples will serve to give him a correct idea of playing all such notes, wherever they may occur. The short notes in the following examples receive the same length of bow as the long ones do, whether it be a whole, half, or quarter bow. The half bow may be used in the following examples, commencing in the middle when the note begins with an up bow

Count four twice, or eight, in a measure; three for the pointed crotchet, and one for the quaver.

Count three in a measure; two for the minim, and one for the crotchet.

FINGERING OF THE CHROMATIC SEMITONES.

The following exercise shows the manner in which the chromatic semitones are taken, with each finger, on all four of the strings. The hand must keep one position in playing, sliding the finger up and down, without taking it off the string Use the down bow from the middle, at the beginning of each finger on the several strings.

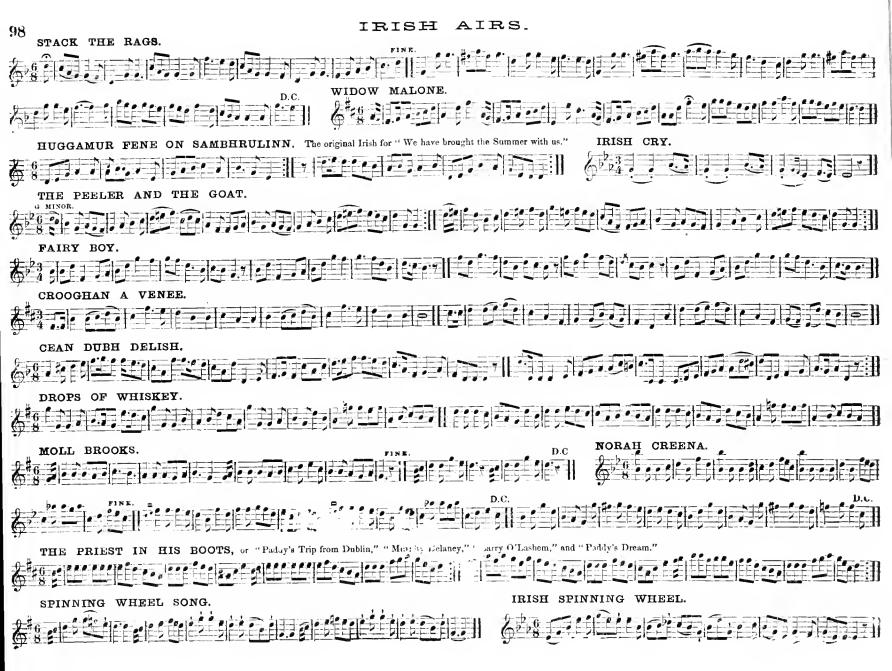

It very frequently occurs that the last note at the end of a strain finishes with an up bow, and the first note of the next strain, or the same strain repeated, is taken with an up bow. In that case the two notes must be played with one bow, but separated; the same as though the bow was shifted on each note, if they are not connected by a slur. It is the same when the last note of a strain ends with a down bow, and the first note of the next or same strain begins with a down bow; the two notes are played with one stroke of the bcw; but they must be separated, as stated above, if they are not joined together by a slur. For an explanation of playing such notes, see Varieties of bowing. No. 15.

The TRIAD or Common Choar of any Key is found by taking the first, third, and fifth of its scale.

LA BOULANGERE.

La Boulangere is a French name of great antiquity; to the present day it usually forms the concluding dance of a ball, in the same way that Sir Roger de Coverly does in England. The gentlemen and their partners place themselves in a circle, and join hands, the gentlemen facing inwards, and the ladies outwards of the circle.

They dance once round still keeping hands, and when they come back to their places, the leading couple begin the figure.

The gentleman with his right hand takes ms partner's right hand, turns once round with her, and then leaves her. After which, with his left hand he takes the left hand of the lady next in rotation, turns once round in like manner with her, and then returns to his partner, to whom he gives his right hand as before, then his left to the lady standing next in the circle, and so on to the end, always alternately dancing with his partner, who in the meantime when he leaves her, is to continue to turn by her herself inside the circle, and keeping as far as she can from him. When this couple arrive at their own place again, the whole number join hands as before, turn once round, and the next couple to the right dance the same figure when the party is very large, two couple may begin at the same time, one at the top and the other at the bottom of the room.

LE CARILLON DE DUNKERQUE.

Le Carillon de Dunkerque, like the Boulangere, is a French dance of the olden time, and is the merriest and noisiest of all country dances.

The gentlemen select their partners, and place themselves as for the Quadrille.

It is of no consequence if the number of couples is not equal, the more that dance the merrier it is.

The music plays the first eight bars, after which each gentleman takes the place of the gentleman to his right, the ladies meanwhile retaining their places.

All balance and turn with their new partners, the gentlemen finishing with their faces towards the ladies, and their backs to the centre of the Quadrille.

Then all the ladies and gentlemen clap their hands three times, and then stamp on the floor three times, and finish by turning round with their new partners. This figure is again begun and repeated until the gentlemen meet with their original partners, after which the ladies perform the figure in the same manner with the gentlemen.

POLKA MAZOURKA.

The Polka Mazourka is of Polish origin, and is a very graceful dance. It is a combination of the Polka and Mazourka steps.

Slide the left foot forward (count one); bring the right foot up to the left, at the same time raise the left foot, extending it, pointing the foot down (count two); bring the left back close to the right, at the same time springing on the right foot without touching the left on the floor (count three); then execute the Polka Redowa step (count three).

Commence the whole with the right foot; the Mazourka part is executed forward without turning; then turn half round with the Polka Redowa step; repeat, and you make the whole round.

THE CAZORTI.

In this new dance there is a pleasing combination of figure with the galep and two step waltz. The company stand up in squares of four couples each, either round or down the middle of the room, the first standing opposite the second, the fourth even with the first and opposite the third, and hold as in galops.

1st. All chassa to next corner and there turn, and repeat places. First and third couple forward and back, second and fourth couples repeat, first and third couples forward and change ladies, second and fourth couples repeat, first and third resume partners; second and fourth also.

2d. First and fourth couples chassa forward and turn in loop, second and third repeat; then all forward, back, forward, and change ladies with opposite couples; repeat this.

3d. All chassa round, eight bars, closing towards the centre. Left hands across by gentlemen, they still retaining the ladies with right, then chassa in this position; at the sixth step the gentlemen pause, while the ladies, with two steps, pass on to the gentlemen before them; repeat the star figure four times; then all turn, the gentlemen taking their ladies with left hand and hand across with the right, chassa round as before; at the sixth step, the gentlemen pause while the ladies pass on as before, four times. All valse ad libitum.

THE STATE OF THE PARTY OF THE P

LA MADRILAINNE

La Maddiannie is a graceful dance, lately composed by Madam Michau, of London. Its style is Spanish, and casteners are congain, to accompany the rensic which is in three-eight time p ayed rather slowly and well marked.

The gentleman begins with left foot, the lady with her right, the position the same as in the Waltz or Polka. Slide to the side, point the other, and bring it near to the first (one bar, repeat, and two pas de basques in turning once round (two bars,) side again, point the other, and bring it up to the first (one bar.) pas de basque (one bar.) turning half round, repeat, this to be continued as often as found agreeable, after which the first part is repeated.

L' IMPERIALE. A New Parisian Dance.

Another Parisian dance; a compound of the Galop, Mazourka and Redowa, the music in common time.

Partners hold as usual, and chassa forward, eight bars, then turn, eight bars, as in the Mazourka, the gentleman on the right foot, the lady on her left, then back your partner round the room, as in the Redowa, eight bars, and then repeat the whole.

THE ESMERALDA.

Slide two steps forward with the left foot, then execute one Polka step with the left foot (two bars,) and continue two more Polka steps, with the right and left (two bars,) recommencing the slide with the right foot, changing the test alternately every time you commence sliding.

THE SICILIENNE. In Waltz Time.

Spring on the right foot, and bring the left foot behind, (count one). Spring again on the right and bring the left in front (count two.) Spring on the right again, and extend the left foot, pointing the toe on the floor, (count three.) Spring on the right and bring the left foot back in front of the right (count four.) Slide three steps forward with the right foot in front, turning half round, making in all eight movements; repeat the same with the right foot, and so on alternately, turning as in other round dances.

ZULMA L'ORIENTALE.

The gentleman commences with the left foot and executes two Polka steps, turning round (which occupies 2 bars of music.)

Then place the point of the left foot in the fourth position (count one)—then bring the heal of the left foot back into the hollow of the right (third position—count two)—make a slight spring on the right foot and slide the left foot forward, bringing the right foot up behind the left in third position (count three)—then slide the left foot forward again and turn half round, finishing on the left foot with the right foot behind (count four)—occupying two bars. In all four bars.

For a lady the directions are the same, except reversing the feet.

JOHN ANDERSON ON THE OLD CUSHION DANCE.

A celebrated Dance very fashionable in great Brittain about 1800.

Before this dance commences, the company should be all seated round the room, then the Dance is begun by a single Gentleman: it may be by either Lady or Gentleman. If a Gentleman he takes the Cushion in his hand, or throws it over his shoulder, and dances round the room to the music, stops at any lady he pleases, and lays the Cushion at her feet, the music ceases; at the same time the Gentleman say to the Musician -

* "This Dance will no further go?" Musician-" Why Sir, say you so?" Gentleman- "Because the Lady won't come to." Musician- "She must and shall come to."

The same words are used by the laly, where she says it before the Gentleman with only this alteration, that, instead of Lady, she says—" The Gentleman wou'd come to."

The Lady must kneel down and the Gentleman salutes her. They rise, and then the Lady takes the Cushion, dances round, leading the Gentleman with her left hand; sometimes the lightly take hold of each other's dresses; she then in the same manner, lays it before a selected Gentleman, who kneels down and kisses her.

Then the second Gentleman takes the Cushion as before, and lays it at the feet of another Lady, and so on alternately, to every Lady and Gentleman till they are all joined in the dance; who then join hands, make a ring and dance round ence, then stand still, while the Gentleman (or lady as it may be) that begun the Dance, takes the Cushion as before, lays it as before, at the test of any Lady he pleases and salutes her; then raising up the Lady, bows to her and leaves the circle, the Lady saving,—"Farewell! Sir."

The Lady then takes the Cushion, they all hands round again, and all stop for the Lady to select a Gentleman to lay the Cushion to who kneels, salutes her: the Gentleman raises her up: she courtesies and retires, the Gentleman saying, "Farewell, Madam or Miss." And so on till they have all gone out of the circle one by one as they came in.

* It is sometimes danced with only saying "She won't come to," leaving out the words, "This Dance will no further go."

*SIR ROGER DE COVERLY.

The first lady and foot Gentleman forward in the centre meet and conversy and bow-first gentleman and foot lady the same, first lady and foot gentleman forward and swing with right hands—first gentleman and foot lady the same—first lady and foot gentleman forward and swing with left hands—first gentleman and foot lady the same—first lady and foot gentleman forward, swing with both hands-first gentleman and foot lady the same.

First lady and foot gentleman forward and allemande around each other-first gentleman and foot lady the same.

First couple swing each other with right hand, first lady swings second gentleman with left hand (first gentleman swings second lady with left hand at the same time), first couple swing each other with right hand again, third lady and gentleman with left hands—partners with right and so on until you reach the foot of the set—the gentleman passes his arms around his partners waist (lower their heads) all the other couples join their hands raised, and first couple promenade up followed by the other couples—down the outside to places—first couple will now be at the foot-the first couple cross their hands and galop up and down the centre.

*Also called in England, where it originated, the finishing dance, it was usually played as a finale to balls,

THE NEW POLISH DANCE LA ROSKA.

The music for this dance requires to be played in three-four time, the same as a Mazourka. The steps are composed of the Mazourka and Polka Redowa. The position is the same as any of the other round dances.

DANISH DANCE.

This dance is of recent introduction in the first circles of society, and is a very pleasing one, combining the galop, two step waltz, and Schottisch turn. In the first place avoid stamping the first four steps, as it is exceedingly vulgar, and does not belong to the dance. Slide the left foot forward; then draw the right close up in the third position; perform this forward movement four times; then slide in the contrary direction, eight galop steps. Repeat the forward and back again, twice (16 bars). Then dance the two step waltz or the Schottisch; turn (16 bars). Then recommence with the first part
