THE RIME OF THE ANCIENT MARINER.

INTRODUCTION.—CHORUS.

An ancient Mariner meeteth three gallants bidden to a wedding-feast, and detaineth one.

It is an ancient Mariner,
And he stoppeth one of three.
'By thy long grey beard and glittering eye,
Now wherefore stopp'st thou me?

'The Bridegroom's doors are opened wide,
And I am next of kin;
The guests are met, the feast is set:
Mayst hear the merry din.'

He holds him with his skinny hand,
'There was a ship,' quoth he.
'Hold off! unhand me, grey-beard loon!'

Eftsoons his hand dropt he.

He holds him with his glittering eye—
The Wedding-Guest stood still,
And listens like a three years child;
The Mariner hath his will.

The Wedding-Guest is spell-bound by the eye of the old sea-faring man, and constrained to hear his tale.

No. 1.—CHORUS.

The ship was cheered, the harbour cleared,
Merrily did we drop
Below the kirk, below the hill,
Below the lighthouse top.

The Sun came up upon the left,
Out of the sea came he!
And he shone bright, and on the right
Went down into the sea.

The Mariner tells how the ship sailed southward with a good wind and fair weather, till it reached the Line.

No. 2.—RECITATIVE AND BRIDAL CHORUS.

The Wedding-Guest here beat his breast,
For he heard the loud bassoon.

The Wedding Guest heareth the bridal music; but the Mariner constraineth his tale.

The bride hath paced into the hall
Red as a rose is she;
Nodding their heads before her goes
The merry minstrelsy.

No. 3.—RECITATIVE AND CHORUS.

The Wedding-Guest he beat his breast,
Yet he cannot choose but hear;
And thus spake on that ancient man,
The bright-eyed Mariner.

And now the Storm-blast came, The ship drawn by a storm toward the south pole and he Was tyrannous and strong:
He struck with his o'ertaking wings,
And chased us south along.

With sloping masts and dipping prow,
As who pursued with yell and blow
Still treads the shadow of his foe
And forward bends his head,
The ship drove fast, loud roared the blast,
And southward aye we fled.

And now there came both mist and snow,
And it grew wondrous cold:
And ice, mast-high, came floating by,
As green as emerald.

At length did cross an Albatross : Till a great sea-bird, called the Albatross, came through the snow-fog, and was received with great joy and hospitality.
Through the fog it came;
As if it had been a Christian soul,
We hailed it in God's name.

No. 4.—RECITATIVE AND AIR.

And a good south wind sprung up behind;
The Albatross did follow,
And every day, for food or play,
Came to the mariners hollo!

And lo! the Albatross proveth a bird of good omen, and followeth the ship as it returned northward, through fog and floating ice

THE RIME OF THE ANCIENT MARINER.

The fair breeze continues; the ship enters the Pacific Ocean and sails northward, even till it reaches the Line. The ship hath been suddenly becalmed.

The fair breeze blew, the white foam flew,
The furrow followed free :
We were the first that ever burst Into that silent sea.

The Sun now rose upon the right ;
Out of the sea came he,
Still hid in mist, and on the left
Went down into the sea.

No. 5.—RECITATIVE AND AIR.

The ancient Mariner inhospitably killeth the pious bird of good omen.

'God save thee, ancient Mariner ! From the fiends, that plague thee thus !—
Why look'st thou so ?'—With my cross-bow
I shot the Albatross.

Down dropt the breeze, the sails dropt down,
'Twas sad as sad could be ;
And we did speak only to break The silence of the sea !

Day after day, day after day,
We stuck, nor breath nor motion ;
As idle as a painted ship
Upon a painted ocean.

And the Albatross begins to be avenged.

Water, water, every where,
And all the boards did shrink ;
Water, water, every where,
Nor any drop to drink.

No. 6.—CHORUS.

About, about, in reel and rout
The death-fires danced at night ;
The water, like a witch's oils,
Burnt green, and blue, and white.

A spirit had followed them; one of the invisible inhabitants of this planet, neither departed souls nor angels.

And some in dreams assured were
Of the spirit that plagued us so :
Nine fathom deep he had followed us
From the land of mist and snow.

No. 7.—RECITATIVE AND QUARTET.

At the rising of the Moon,

The steersman's face by his lamp gleamed white ;
From the sails the dew did drip—
Till clombe above the eastern bar
The horned Moon, with one bright star
Within the nether tip.

One after one, by the star-dogged Moon,
Too quick for groan or sigh,
Each turned his face with a ghastly pang,
And cursed me with his eye.

The souls did from their bodies fly,—
They fled to bliss or woe !
And every soul, it passed me by,
Like the whizz of my cross-bow !

No. 8.—RECITATIVE AND AIR.

Alone, alone, all, all alone,
Alone on a wide wide sea !
And never a saint took pity on My soul in agony.

I looked to Heaven, and tried to pray

But or ever a prayer had gusht,
A wicked whisper came, and made My heart as dry as dust.

Beyond the shadow of the ship,
I watched the water-snakes :
They moved in tracks of shining white,
And when they reared, the elfish light
Fell off in hoary flakes.

O happy living things ! no tongue Their beauty might declare :
A spring of love gushed from my heart,

And I blessed them unaware.
Sure my kind saint took pity on me,
And I blessed them unaware.

By the light of the Moon he beheldeth God's creatures of the great calm.

Their beauty and their happiness.

He blesseth them in his heart.

No. 9.—AIR.

Oh sleep ! it is a gentle thing,
Beloved from pole to pole !
To Mary Queen the praise be given !
She sent the gentle sleep from Heaven,

That slid into my soul.

*A slumber did my spirit seal ;
I had no human fears ;
She seemed a thing that could not feel
The touch of earthly years.

* The lines here inserted, taken from Wordsworth's poems, will be found useful in order to avoid repeating the words of the first verse; they are likewise not altogether inappropriate, as Wordsworth originally intended to have written "The Ancient Mariner" in conjunction with Coleridge, some lines by the former poet actually forming part of the poem. (See foot-note p. v.)

THE RIME OF THE ANCIENT MARINER.

No. 10.—RECITATIVE AND CHORUS.

He heareth sounds, and seeth strange sights and commotions in the sky and the element.

And soon I heard a roaring wind :
It did not come anear ;
But with its sound it shook the sails,
That were so thin and sere.
The upper air burst into life !
And a hundred fire-flags sheen,
To and fro they were hurried about !
And to and fro, and in and out,
The wan stars danced between.
The coming wind did roar more loud,
The sails did sigh like sedge ;
And the rain poured down from one black cloud ;
The Moon was at its edge.
The thick black cloud was cleft, and still
The Moon was at its side :
Like waters shot from some high crag,
The lightning fell with never a jag,
A river steep and wide.

No. 11.—RECITATIVE.

The bodies of the ship's crew are inspired, and the ship moves on;

The loud wind never reached the ship,
Yet now the ship moved on !
Beneath the lightning and the Moon
The dead men gave a groan.
They groaned, they stirred, they all uprose,
Nor spake, nor moved their eyes ;
It had been strange, even in a dream,
To have seen those dead men rise.
The helmsman steered, the ship moved on ;
Yet never a breeze up blew ;
The mariners all 'gan work the ropes,
Where they were wont to do :
They raised their limbs like lifeless tools—
We were a ghastly crew.

No. 12.—RECITATIVE AND QUARTET.

But not by the souls of the men, nor by daemons of earth or middle air, but by a blessed troop of angelic spirits, sent down by the invocation of the guardian saint.

'I fear thee, ancient Mariner !
I fear thy skinny hand !
And thou art long, and lank, and brown,
As is the ribbed sea-sand.'*

Be calm, thou Wedding-Guest !
'Twas not those souls that fled in pain,
Which to their corses came again,
But a troop of spirits blest :

For when it dawned—they dropped their arms,
And clustered round the mast ;
Sweet sounds rose slowly through their mouths,
And from their bodies passed.

Around, around, flew each sweet sound,
Then darted to the Sun ;
Slowly the sounds came back again,
Now mixed, now one by one.

Sometimes a-dropping from the sky
I heard the sky-lark sing ;
Sometimes all little birds that are,
How they seemed to fill the air
With their sweet jargoning !

And now 'twas like all instruments,
Now like a lonely flute ;
And now it is an angel's song,
That makes the Heavens be mute

No. 13.—RECITATIVE AND DUET.

Till noon we quietly sailed on,
Yet never a breeze did breathe :
Slowly and smoothly went the ship,
Moved onward from beneath.

Under the keel nine fathom deep,
From the land of mist and snow,
The spirit slid : and it was he
That made the ship to go.
The sails at noon left off their tune,
And the ship stood still also.

The lonesome spirit from the south pole carries on the ship as far as the Line, in obedience to the angelic troop, but still requireth vengeance.

Then like a pawing horse let go,
She made a sudden bound :
It flung the blood into my head,
And I fell down in a swoond.

How long in that same fit I lay,
I have not to declare ;
But ere my living life returned,
I heard and in my soul discerned
Two voices in the air.

The Polar Spirit's fellow-daemons, the invisible inhabitants of the element, take part in his wrong; and two of them relate, one to the other, that penance long and heavy for the ancient Mariner hath been accorded to the Polar Spirit, who returneth southward.

Dulverton, with him and his sister, in the Autumn of 1797, that this Poem was planned, and in part composed.

* For the last two lines of this stanza, Coleridge was indebted to Wordsworth. It was on a walk from Nether Stowey to

THE RIME OF THE ANCIENT MARINER.

First Voice.

But tell me, tell me ! speak again,
Thy soft response renewing—
What makes that ship drive on so fast ?

What is the Ocean doing ?

Second Voice.

Still as a slave before his lord,
The Ocean hath no blast ;
His great bright eye most silently
Up to the Moon is cast—

First Voice.

But why drives on that ship so fast,
Without or wave or wind ?

Second Voice.

The air is cut away before,
And closes from behind.

Fly, brother, fly ! more high, more high !

Or we shall be belated :
For slow and slow that ship will go,
When the Mariner's trance is abated.

No. 14.—RECITATIVE AND AIR.

And now this spell was snapt : once more

I viewed the ocean green,
And looked far forth, yet little saw
Of what had else been seen—

But soon there breathed a wind on me,

Nor sound nor motion made :
Its path was not upon the sea,
In ripple or in shade.

It raised my hair, it fanned my cheek
Like a meadow-gale of spring—
It mingled strangely with my fears,
Yet it felt like a welcoming.

Swiftly, swiftly flew the ship,
Yet she sailed softly too :

Sweetly, sweetly blew the breeze—
On me alone it blew.

Oh ! dream of joy ! is this indeed
The light-house top I see ?
Is this the hill ? is this the kirk ?
Is this mine own countree ?

We drifted o'er the harbour-bar,
And I with sobs did pray—
O let me be awake, my God !
Or let me sleep alway.

No. 15.—AIR.

The harbour-bay was clear as glass,
So smoothly it was strewn !
And on the bay the moonlight lay,
And the shadow of the Moon.

The Mariner
hath been cast
into a trance ;
for the angelic
power causeth
the vessel to drive northward faster than human life could endure.

The curse is finally expated.

And the ancient Mariner beholdeth his native country.

The rock shone bright, the kirk no less,
That stands above the rock :
The moonlight steeped in silentness
The steady weathercock.

No. 16.—RECITATIVE, SOLO,
AND CHORUS.

And the bay was white with silent
light,
Till rising from the same,
Full many shapes, that shadows

The angelic spirits leave the dead bodies,

were,
In crimson colours came.

A little distance from the prow

And appear in their own forms of light.

Those crimson shadows were :

I turned my eyes upon the deck—
Oh, Christ ! what saw I there !

Each corse lay flat, lifeless and flat,
And, by the holy rood !

A man all light, a seraph-man,
On every corse there stood.

This seraph-band, each waved his
hand :

It was a heavenly sight !

They stood as signals to the land,
Each one a lovely light :

This seraph-band, each waved his
hand,

No voice did they impart—

No voice ; but oh ! the silence sank
Like music on my heart.

No. 17.—FINALE.—QUARTET
AND CHORUS.

What loud uproar bursts from that door !

The wedding-guests are there :
But in the garden-bower the bride
And bride-maids singing are ;
And hark the little vesper bell,
Which biddeth me to prayer !

O sweeter than the marriage-feast,
'Tis sweeter far to me,

To walk together to the kirk
With a goodly company !—

To walk together to the kirk,
And all together pray,

While each to his great Father
bends,

Old men, and babes, and loving friends,

And youths and maidens gay !

He prayeth best, who loveth And to teach,
best by his own example,

All things both great and small ;
For the dear God who loveth us,
He made and loveth all.

love and reverence to all things that God made and loveth.

The musical score consists of three staves of music in common time, key signature of one flat. The first two staves begin with a rest followed by eighth-note patterns. The third staff begins with a sixteenth-note pattern. The lyrics are integrated into the music, appearing below the notes. The first section of lyrics is: "With slop - ing masts and dip - ping prow, As". The second section starts with "who pur-sued with yell and blow Still treads the sha -". The third section continues with "With slop - ing masts and dip - ping prow, As". The fourth section starts with "dow of his foe, Still treads the". The fifth section continues with "who pur-sued with yell and blow Still treads the". The music features various dynamics like poco stac. (poco staccato) and f (forte), and includes grace notes and slurs.

A musical score for a vocal piece, likely for three voices, with piano accompaniment. The score consists of six systems of music, each with two staves: a soprano staff (G clef) and an alto staff (C clef). The key signature changes from G major (no sharps or flats) to F# minor (one sharp) and back to G major. The time signature is common time throughout.

System 1: The vocal parts are silent (rests) for the first four measures. The piano accompaniment begins with eighth-note chords in G major. Dynamics: p, cres., dim.

System 2: The vocal parts enter with eighth-note chords. The piano accompaniment continues with eighth-note chords. Dynamics: p, cres., dim.

System 3: The vocal parts sing "The souls did from their bo-dies fly, They". The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support. Dynamics: p.

System 4: The vocal parts continue the melody. The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support. Dynamics: p.

System 5: The vocal parts sing "The souls did from their bo-dies fly, They fled to bliss or woe, . . . The". The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support. Dynamics: p.

System 6: The vocal parts sing "And ev - 'ry soul, it". The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support. Dynamics: cres., mf.

System 7: The vocal parts sing "souls did from their bo - dies fly, They fled to bliss or woe ! And ev - 'ry". The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support. Dynamics: cres., mf.

System 8: The vocal parts sing "fled to bliss or woe, They fled . . . to bliss or woe ! . . . And ev - 'ry". The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support. Dynamics: cres., mf.

System 9: The vocal parts sing "souls did from their bo - dies fly, They fled to bliss or woe ! And ev - 'ry". The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support. Dynamics: cres., mf.

System 10: The vocal parts sing "And ev - 'ry". The piano accompaniment provides harmonic support. Dynamics: mf.
