(The remaining three stanzas are not adapted to the Music; but they are here subjoined in order to preserve the Poem complete.)

With precious freight of hopes and
We sweep the fields of space, [fears,
Decreed to dry the deepest tears,
And dim the brightest face;
A few short words writ over-night
Hundreds of miles are borne,
And scatter sorrow or delight
Far, ere the morrow morn.

Our cry is onward, onward, yet
Hard pace and little pause,—
We will not let the world forget
Her nature's motive laws:
Like her we listen, day by day,
Nor rest at any goal— [say,
The sun himself, has moved, they
Since planets round him roll.

And if, when like a net we lie,
O'er many a distant soil,
And glad the traveller's mind and eye,
Without a traveller's toil,—
From mutual virtues understood
All scorn and hate shall flee,
What instruments of God and good
Be mightier than We?
