THE
DEVOTIONAL HARMONIST:
A COLLECTION OF SACRED MUSIC,
COMPRISING A LARGE VARIETY OF

NEW AND ORIGINAL TUNES, SENTENCES, ANTHEMS, ETC.,

In addition to many of the most Popular Tunes in common use.

PRESENTING A GREATER NUMBER OF METRES THAN ANY BOOK HERETOFORE PUBLISHED.

TO WHICH IS PREFIXED
A Progressive System of Elementary Instruction for Schools and Private Tuition.

EDITED BY CHARLES DINGLEY,
TEACHER OF MUSIC, EDITOR OF THE FAMILY MINSTREL, SUNDAY-SCHOOL HARMONIST, ETC., ETC.

New-York:

PUBLISHED BY T. CARLTON AND Z. PHILLIPS, 200 MULBERRY-STREET.
1852.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1849, by

HOWEVER excellent the former musical publications of the Book-Room may have been, the conviction became strong in many minds, in various parts of our widely extended connexion, that another work was needed, embracing a greater number of metres than either of the preceding, and fully adapted to the new Hymn-Book. The undersigned Committee, being appointed for that purpose by the choristers of the Methodist Episcopal Churches of this city, Brooklyn, Williamsburgh, and Jersey City, present the following as, in their judgment, a work possessing the required character. How far they are right in this judgment, the publick must decide.

That the task assigned to the Committee was arduous, no one who is at all familiar with such matters will doubt. It would have been comparatively easy for them to select music which would suit themselves and their personal friends; but to cater to the almost endlessly varying tastes of a large and wide-spread connexion, and yet not offend against established rules, was a work which, if at all practicable, required a great degree of practical information and perseverance.

The materials have been drawn from all available sources, without regard to country or age. From the Harmonist, especially, they have drawn largely; believing, as they did, that it contains a large amount of matter which has been deservedly popular, they have been unwilling to present a book to the Methodist Episcopal Church which did not contain these useful tunes. They have also added a number of original tunes, contributed by various friends residing in this city and elsewhere, which the Committee hope will be found not unworthy of the place they occupy. In regard to all the material of which the work is composed, whether selected or original, it is proper to add that, to secure the utmost fairness practicable, and to avoid being swayed by the influence of prejudice for or against names or localities, the Committee acted upon each individual piece (as far as that was possible) without knowing whence it came, or the name of its author.

In order to meet, as far as possible, the expectations of all, the Committee have inserted several pieces which are not suitable for hymn tunes, nor proper to come under the head of set pieces—they appear in the latter part of the work, together with several regular metres, which were not received in time to take their appropriate positions.

The arrangement of the materials, the adjustment of the harmony, together with the superintendence of the work through the press, the Committee referred to C. DINGLEY, Esq., a gentleman of large experience as an editor of musical works, and a teacher of vocal sacred music. The work itself will show how well he has executed the task assigned him.

Hoping that, through the Divine blessing, the “DEVOTIONAL HARMONIST” may prove an aid in the cultivation of sacred song, the Committee respectfully submit the result of their labours.

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

It will be recollect that, about three years since, the undersigned announced his intention of publishing a Collection of Sacred Music, to be entitled the "Choral Harmonist," and in connexion with this announcement, an invitation was extended, to those possessing the will and the ability, to furnish materials for its pages. In compliance with this invitation, a number of excellent pieces were received. It being found impracticable to publish his proposed work at the time, he withheld the names of the respective authors, and presented these materials, together with others which had been accumulating upon his hands for several years, with a view to future publication, to the "Committee on the DEVOTIONAL HARMONIST;" and by reference to the subsequent pages of this work, it will be perceived, by those interested, that many of these contributions have been approved. It is to be presumed that the several authors will not object to this disposition of their productions, as they will now be much more extensively circulated, and of course be more useful.

In regard to the position which the undersigned, as editor, has occupied in the composition of the "DEVOTIONAL HARMONIST," he would remark, that he has endeavoured to execute the task assigned him with zeal and fidelity, and with special reference to the wants and capacities of choirs, and of the "great congregation."

Most of the tunes will be found well voiced,—great attention having been given to the melodical succession of each part, by so arranging the music as to accommodate the register of the different kinds of voices.

While the music generally is flowing and melodious in its character, it is of a style perfectly simple and intelligible, so as to be easily sung. All points of imitation and needless difficulties in the construction of the harmony have been avoided. "Simple and natural harmony,"—rich without being abstruse, pleasing without being paltry—"is vastly better adapted to impress the heart, and promote devotional feeling, than the most highly wrought pieces of chromatic skill. The most sublime and the most pathetic are always the most simple. Sacred music should be like the gospel, which commends itself, by its simplicity and sublimity, alike to the learned and the unlearned."

The musical terms Pia., Forte, Andante, &c., have been employed for the tunes only, in a few cases, because tunes intended to be sung to various words, ought to vary in expression as much as they do in sentiment, and the adding of these terms would be likely to mislead. In the Set Pieces, Anthems, &c., they are introduced with a definite meaning, applicable to the subject under consideration, and should be strictly observed.

The method and plan of instruction embraced in this, is somewhat different from that of any preceding work on music. Its arrangement, which is strictly inductive and practical, is the result of many years' experience in teaching persons of all ages and capacities. A system of musical instruction has in this way been formed, which is less liable to objection, he believes, than any hitherto presented to the public; since it is the most natural and rational, and if properly and strictly adhered to, will ensure success to those who shall pursue it. This plan of imparting instruction may be considered more valuable on account of its being constructed on the principles of the inductive system of music, originally devised and published by Pfeiffer and Nägeli, under the direction of Pestalozzi, in Germany. Many of the "Exercises on Intervals" are copied from Wilhelm's celebrated "Method of Teaching Singing," adapted to English use by John Hullah.

In closing these remarks, and his duties on the "DEVOTIONAL HARMONIST," the editor improves the occasion to express his many obligations to his professional brethren, and others, for the aid afforded him, and for valuable suggestions calculated to assist him in the discharge of his arduous and responsible labours. His chief aim has been to combine, as far as possible, variety with excellence. How far he has succeeded, he leaves the public to determine; asking only the favour of an impartial examination.

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.

SECTION I.

NATURE OF MUSICAL SOUNDS; HINTS CONCERNING THE VOICE, ETC.

1. In order to obtain a knowledge of music, we should first understand the nature of musical sounds, and then, for vocal purposes, how to unite these sounds with the peculiar qualities of speech.

2. A sound of the voice in singing is distinctly held, and continues the same from the beginning to the end. It is thus distinguished from the speaking voice, each sound of which has a change in it called an "inflection," that is, the voice when speaking is continually sliding up or down, or both, on every syllable or word; not so when singing.

[The teacher can give examples illustrating the difference, by employing some familiar word or words—"Charles," or "Jane," for instance, speaking the name with the view of asking a question; and then the name can be spoken in a commanding tone, requiring the person addressed to do something, etc. Then, to show the difference between the speaking and singing tones, sing the name; that is, continue the sound, thus, "Cha—rles," or "Ja—ne." The difference will readily be perceived.]

3. To produce music, sounds which are good in their tone or quality are connected with one another in three ways, viz.: Pitch, Length, and Accent or Force.

4. While proceeding to analyze these distinctions of sounds, and during all our future practice, let it be remembered, that the first step in learning to sing is always looked upon to be the formation of pure tone.

5. To produce a good tone, the singer should be in an easy posture, with his head upright, and his shoulders thrown back, so as to allow the muscles of the chest and the larynx to have free movement. His mouth should be fully opened in taking breath, which should be drawn as seldom as possible, without any appearance of effort, and used with economy—never employing more than the sound actually requires—always keeping the lungs well filled.

6. The sounds of the voice in singing should be delivered promptly and easily, and come with a pure and steady tone from the chest. If the voice is given out carelessly, it comes roughly through the throat, and is called guttural; and if produced in a forced manner, it is driven through the nose, and so becomes nasal.

7. Always endeavour to produce a round, full, and clear tone of voice.

(The importance of this branch of the subject demands a more ample treatment, but the limits and design of the present work will not admit it. The few hints above, however, will be of some service as general guides to the right course to be pursued in relation to it.)

QUESTIONS ON SECTION I.

1. What should we first understand, in order to obtain a knowledge of music? What next?
2. What is the difference between the singing voice and the speaking voice?
3. In how many ways are sounds connected to produce music? Name them.
4. What is the first step in learning to sing looked upon to be?
5. To produce a good tone, in what position should a singer be? Why? What is said concerning the breath?
6. How should the sounds of the voice in singing be delivered? When is the voice said to be guttural? When nasal?
7. In singing, what should we always endeavour to produce?

SECTION II.

PITCH OF SOUNDS, OR SOUNDS THAT DIFFER IN THEIR HEIGHT.

1. The first modification of musical sounds is called Pitch; and the difference of pitch between one sound and another is called the Interval between them.

2. To learn the pitch of sounds, we must make one particular sound, and then make all the others in relation to it, either higher or lower.

[Let the teacher sound Ah, or La, at any convenient pitch, and then require the pupils to imitate it.]

3. We have now made a sound of a particular degree of pitch. This for the present we will consider as the standard pitch of sound. Sing it again.

4. We will now endeavour to make other sounds higher than the one we have just made; and, for convenience, we will call all the high and low sounds by different names. We will call the standard pitch of sound, Do. Now sing it by its name.

[Most persons, in learning to sing, use some little words or syllables, to assist them in making sounds one higher than another. Those in most common use are, Do, Re, Mi, Fa, Sol, La, Si. Some, however, continue using Fa, Sol, La, Fa, Sol, La, Mi. This method, however, is rapidly going out of use, except in portions of the country where patent notes are used. Others, again, employ but one word or syllable, (La, for instance.) The teacher can, of course, make his own selection.]

5. We will sing again the standard pitch of sound by its name, and then add to it six other sounds by their names; making the sounds one above another, in regular succession, from the lowest to the highest.

[The teacher will here make such suggestions as he thinks proper, and then he will sing the seven sounds by their names; after which the pupils may repeat and sing them.]

6. To enable us, at this early stage of our practice, to sing these names more readily, it will be better to write them one above another, as we have sung them—so that the organs of seeing and hearing may mutually assist each other.

	Si pronounced See
La	" Lah
Sol	" Sole
Fa	" Fah
Mi	" Mee
Re	" Ray
Do	" Doe

7. It will be here perceived that there are seven different names, expressing seven different sounds, differing from one another in height. It will also be seen that Do, the name of the standard degree of pitch, is placed at the bottom—all the others being higher, one above another; so that in singing them we commence at the bottom and sing them upward—the contrary way from reading a book.

8. The art of making musical sounds one higher than another, by certain syllables, is called SOLMIZATION.

NOTE.—Lowell Mason, of Boston, in one of his publications, says—"It [Solmization] enables the young performer to utter a sound with fulness and freedom, and assists him to secure a correct intonation. * * * It promotes a feeling or consciousness of the precise relation of the sounds in the octave to each other, and especially to the tonic or key-note, [our standard degree of pitch.] By associating the several syllables with their corresponding sounds, this relation becomes familiar, and we acquire the habit of expressing any note with ease and certainty."

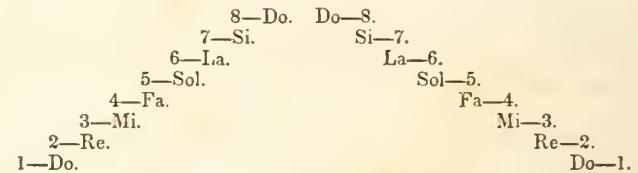

The celebrated T. Cooke, of Dublin, in his work entitled "Art of Singing Simplified," says, that "A steady perseverance in Solfaing [Solmization] will ensure improvement; and its daily practice should never be neglected, as no singer, even when arrived at the highest perfection, can with security dispense with it."

9. A regular succession of sounds, made one above another, form what is called a SCALE; which means the same as a ladder or flight of stairs. The Scale which we have just sung, is called a Scale of seven sounds. Sing it again.

10. But, to make our scale more perfect and pleasing, we will add another sound to it, making eight in all, and call it Do, the same as the first—because it is the same sound as the first, on a higher pitch.

[To illustrate this, the teacher will require his pupils to sing Do, and he may sound it an eighth higher; or the keys of a piano-forte or an organ may be referred to.]

11. We will now sing the scale of eight sounds, ascending and descending—

[Repeat this exercise several times; part of the time by the names, and part of the time by the numbers, 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8—8, 7, 6, 5, 4, 3, 2, 1.]

12. The scale of eight sounds, or degrees, is the foundation of all music. It includes all the natural relations of pitch that are used in singing, and may therefore be called the natural scale of the voice. It is termed the Diatonic Scale. It is like the alphabet. As all the words we speak are made up of some of the letters in the alphabet, so all the tunes we sing are made up from this scale.

13. If it be necessary to go higher or lower than this scale, we must repeat the same relations of sounds by the same names. Indeed, the two

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.

Do's are repetitions one of another; that is, the eighth is the same as the first, on a higher pitch; so that we have in reality only seven primary or original sounds in music.

[The teacher should possess sufficient tact to show clearly the union of two sounds, an eighth apart. These sounds should be tested at different pitches, &c.]

14. Now we will sing the sounds in an irregular manner. But we shall not know how the sounds succeed one another, unless we can see the names by which they are expressed written in the order in which they should be sung.

[The teacher should state the reason, and give two or three oral examples; then he can sing the following example, requiring the pupils to sing also, if he thinks proper.]

15. These are the names of the sounds of part of a tune which is sung in many of our churches. Let us sing them again, and endeavour to ascertain to what tune they belong.

[The teacher can now sing the last part of the second tune on page 36, by Solmization. The pupils can then be asked which way is the best. Many will, no doubt, prefer the latter. They should state why. After sufficient having been said on the length of sounds, illustrated by examples, their attention should be directed again to the names.]

16. Now, there is nothing in the appearance of the names Do, Re, Mi, &c., which indicates that any of them should be sung longer than others. Nor can this difference be well shown by words only, as they are commonly used; for sometimes Re must be sounded twice as long as Do, Fa as long again as Mi, Sol half as long as Si, &c. The consequence then is, that in singing we are continually changing the length of sounds, without reference to their names. Therefore we must use some marks, or signs, to show the length of sounds.

17. We will, however, first learn the length of sounds, and then we will learn the signs to represent them. See Section 3.

QUESTIONS ON SECTION II.

1. What is the first modification of sound called? What is the difference between two sounds, one higher than the other, called?
2. To learn the pitch of sounds, what must we make?
3. What shall we consider this one sound to be?
4. By what name is the standard pitch called?
5. What is suggested to be done, after singing the standard pitch of sound?
6. What names are given to the seven sounds, one higher than the other?
7. What do the seven different names express? Which one is placed at the bottom?
8. What is Solmization?
9. What is a Scale, in music? What is the meaning of the word Scale?
10. What is required to make this scale here more perfect and pleasing? By what name is this eighth sound called? Why?
12. What does this scale include? What then may it be called? By what term is it known?
13. If we wish to make sounds higher or lower than this scale, what names must we use for them? What is the difference between the 1st and 4th degrees of the scale?
14. What is here suggested to do?
16. What must be used to show the length of sounds?

SECTION III.

LENGTH OR DURATION OF SOUNDS, NOTES, BARS, ETC.

1. The way to learn the length of sounds is, to divide every sound into halves, from the longest to the shortest.

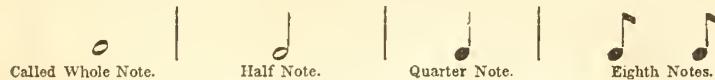

[An instrument to mark the time will be found very convenient in these exercises. When a Metronome cannot be obtained, a clock or a pendulum, made by attaching a weight to a string, will answer, regulated so as to vibrate about once every second. Or beats or motions with the right hand, at equal intervals of time, can be made.]

2. Sing Ah, and prolong the sound during the period of four seconds, or beats. This we will call a whole sound.
3. Now sing Ah, and prolong the sound during two seconds, or beats. This we will call a half sound.
4. Sing Ah again, and prolong the sound during one second, or beat. This we will call a quarter sound.
5. Now make two sounds every second, or beat, and sing La instead of Ah, on account of the articulation. These we will call eighth sounds.

[These exercises should be repeated until understood, and then proceed as follows.—]

6. The characters, or signs, for long and short sounds, in singing, are called NOTES. The notes representing the four kinds of sounds differing in length, which we have just made, are formed thus:—

7. It is thus seen that the shape of the note determines its length.

EXAMPLE FOR PRACTICE.—No. 1.

Illustrating the length of Notes.

Give four seconds or beats to the whole note; two to each half note; one to each quarter note; and one to every two eighth notes.

[Repeat this exercise, and be precise in the observance of the duration of each sound.]

8. But it must be understood that we are not always to give the same length to the several notes; that is, four seconds to the whole note, two seconds to the half note, and so on. The sounds may be made longer or shorter; but the half note must be half as long as the whole note, the quarter note a quarter as long as the whole note, or half as long as the half note, &c. Now we will sing these notes, by giving less than four seconds to the whole note, varying the other notes in the same proportion.

[This exercise should be repeated with the pendulum, lengthened or shortened, at the pleasure of the teacher; or beats or motions with the hand can be made, until the relative length of notes is perfectly understood.]

9. Besides these four kinds of notes, there are also two others in common use. One is made with two hooks, and the other with three hooks, thus:—

Called a Sixteenth Note.

A Thirty-second Note.*

10. Two sixteenth notes are equal in length to one eighth note; four sixteenth notes are equal to one quarter note, and so on. Two thirty-second notes are equal in length to one sixteenth note; four thirty-second notes are equal to one eighth note; eight thirty-second notes are equal to one quarter note, and so on.

11. There is also another note sometimes used in Chorals and slow movements. It is made thus:— || and is called a Double Note. When used, as much time is given to it as is given to two whole notes. It is introduced in the tune "Compassion," page 240.

EXERCISES FOR PRACTICE.

Illustrating further the length of Notes.

EXAMPLE No. 2.

[The syllable La may be used for these examples.]

12. In order to make it easy to give the exact measurement to the notes, and to sing them in regular time, they may be divided into equal portions by perpendicular lines, thus:—

EXAMPLE No. 3.

These perpendicular lines, drawn down between the notes, are called Bars. The heavy or double bar at the end shows the close of the example. The portions between the bars are called Measures. In each measure there are two equal divisions.

* These six different kinds of notes are also known by the following names, viz.:—The whole note is called a Semibreve; the half note a Minim; the quarter note a Crotchet; the eighth note a Quaver; the sixteenth note a Semiquaver; and the thirty-second note a Demisemiquaver. The double note is generally known by the name of Breve.

13. The initials of the words down and up show which way the hand must move in marking or beating the time. By these initials (d. u.) it will be perceived that two motions must be made in each measure; one to each half note, or two quarter notes, one down the other up. The hand should always fall at the beginning of a measure, in all kinds of time.

NOTE.—The motion of the hand is designed to assist the mental computation of time, and it unquestionably is a great assistance to the beginner. The practice is of great importance, and the pupils should become familiar with the exercise.

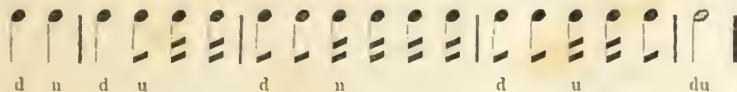

14. In beating time the hand is not to move slowly through each division, but quickly, and at the beginning of each division; and it must remain at rest while the note is sounded, or until the time of the next beat. If there be more than one note in the division, the hand must move for the first note, and remain still while the others are sung.

(Let the teacher illustrate this till understood.)

EXAMPLE NO. 4.

EXAMPLE NO. 5.

(In practising the following examples, it will be necessary to give more time to the quarter, eighth, and sixteenth notes, than to the same notes in the three preceding examples. Keep in mind what is said concerning the length of sounds in paragraph 8, page 8.)

EXAMPLE NO. 6.

EXAMPLE NO. 7.

15. In Section 2 we attended to the pitch of sounds, and in this (the 3d Section) we have been attending to the length of sounds, and learned the characters or signs to represent them. In the next Section we will again attend to the pitch of sounds, and then we will combine the length with the pitch, by employing some of the notes, and arranging them so as to express these two modifications of sound at the same time.

QUESTIONS ON SECTION III

1. In what way are we to learn the length of sounds?
2. What relation does it sustain to the whole note?
3. What are required the better to enable the performer to give the exact measurement to the notes, &c.? What are they called? What are the portions between them called? What does each measure contain?
4. What do the initials d u show?
5. Explain the relative length of notes.
6. How many notes are there in common use? Describe the 16th and 32d notes.
7. What does the shape of the note determine.
8. Explain the relation as to time they bear to the other notes.
9. Is there any other note used? When?
10. Explain the relation as to time they bear to the other notes.
11. Explain the relation as to time they bear to the other notes.
12. What are the characters, or signs, for long and short sounds in music called? Describe the form of the four notes, representing the four kinds of sounds, differing in length, which we have just been making.
13. What does the shape of the note determine.
14. In marking or beating time, how should the hand move?
15. Which modification of sound was illustrated in Section 2? Which in this, (the 3d), and what have we learned?

SECTION IV.

PITCH AND LENGTH OF SOUNDS COMBINED, THE USE OF HORIZONTAL LINES ILLUSTRATED, THE STAFF, CLEFS, ETC.

(Sing the scale of eight sounds, ascending and descending, also extend this scale two or three sounds, higher and lower. Then sing the names, as arranged on page 6.)

1. It will be perceived that, in singing the sounds of the scale, we merely make them one higher than another. Now we wish also to make some of them longer than others; and as we have already seen that the names

Do, Re, Mi, &c., will not show them, we will employ some of the notes for this purpose. (The notes, by being placed one higher or lower than another, will show the pitch of the sounds.)

EXAMPLE No. 8,

Call the first note Do, the next Si,—because it is next below Do,—the next Do, the next Re, the next Do, the next Re, the next Mi, and so on.

2. But we shall be better enabled to give the right sounds to the notes by placing them on and between parallel lines, thus:—

EXAMPLE No. 9.

The stems of notes may turn either up or down.

3. The distance between any two lines is called a Space; and, for the notes in this example, it will be perceived that five lines and four spaces are required.

[The teacher should tell the pupils upon what line and space the notes are which should be called Do. He should then require them to number the lines and spaces, and also put the names, Do, Re, Mi, Fa, &c., to them.]

4. Thus we see that the parallel lines show more clearly the distinctions of pitch; that is, what notes to call Do, Re, Mi, Fa, &c. Each line and each space is called a Degree, and also a "note-place." Consequently there are as many degrees or note-places as there are lines and spaces. In the last example it will be perceived there are places for nine notes.

5. Five lines drawn across the column, or page, are employed for all tunes. If more lines are required, short ones are added, above or below. See

EXAMPLE No. 10.

Exhibiting the Staff and Leger Lines

6. These five parallel lines, and the four intermediate spaces, are called a STAFF; the short lines above and below the staff are called Added, or Leger lines. The lines and spaces of the staff are numbered separately, by counting them upwards from the lowest. The lowest line is called the first line, the lowest space the first space, and so on. The added, or leger lines and spaces, are counted each way from the staff. Thus, the first space above, first line above, &c.; first space below, first line below, &c. See last Example. (No. 10.)

7. The lines and spaces of the staff are all named by the first seven letters of the alphabet, viz., A, B, C, D, E, F, G, repeated over and over in their alphabetical order. The order in which they are applied to the staff is determined by a character, or sign, called a CLEF, which denotes a particular letter,—one of the seven,—so that, by knowing the place of one letter, all the others may also be easily known. There are two Clefs in general use. We will first notice the one used for the letter G. See

EXAMPLE No. 11.

Showing the form of the G Clef, and its application to the Staff.

8. The G Clef is usually placed on the second line of the staff. Then, of course, the second line is G, and the other letters are to be read in direct alphabetical order, ascending from the clef. From the clef descending the letters must be read backwards. (See last example.) This clef is used in written music designed for female voices, and this part of music is called

Treble, or Soprano. (In this country, and in England and Scotland, tenor voices usually sing from the G clef.)

9. The other clef is called the F Clef, and is used in written music designed for men with low voices; and this part of music is called Bass. It is usually placed on the fourth line of the staff. The letters are to be applied in the same manner as in the G clef, except that the point of commencing is F instead of G. See

EXAMPLE No. 12.

Showing the form of the F Clef, and the manner of applying the letters to the Staff.

10. We sometimes meet with another clef, in various forms, but all meaning the same thing, viz., the letter C. It is therefore called the C clef, and is usually placed upon the first, third, or fourth line, or the third space of the staff.

[The following Tables may now be committed to memory. They should be read, for a while, upward from the lowest; then they may be read either way.]

11. We will now place the scale of eight sounds upon the staff, and, instead of writing Do, Re, Mi, &c., we will substitute points, or the heads of notes, to represent these sounds; the one to be called Do we will apply to C, its natural place in all written music.

(The following examples show, at one view, upon the lines and spaces of the staff, where the letters belong, and where the names and numbers of the diatonic scale are applied, in the key of C.)

[These examples may be practised several times, at the discretion of the teacher; requiring his pupils to determine the place of the letters in each staff, also what letters and spaces, in the key of C, must be called Do, Re, Mi, &c., 1, 2, 3, &c. The two clefs should be perfectly familiar to both males and females.]

12. The two staves in the last Example are connected by a BRACE, which shows the number of parts (Bass, Treble, &c.) that may be sung at the same time. The parts (or staves) that are connected by the brace, are called a SCORE.

QUESTIONS ON SECTION IV.

- What are to be used to show the length of sounds? How are notes to be placed to show the pitch of sounds? Describe the notes, &c.
- What will enable us better to give the right sounds to the notes? Which way may the stems of notes turn?
- What is the distance between any two lines called?
- What do parallel lines show more clearly?
- How many parallel lines and spaces constitute a staff? What is the lowest line of the staff called? The lowest space? &c. What are the short lines above and below the staff called? When are they required? Which way are they numbered?
- By what are the lines and spaces of the staff named? What determines the order in which these letters are to be applied to the staff? What one of the two clefs in general use is first noticed? Which letter belongs to the second line of the staff at the beginning of which the G clef is placed? Which to the second space? Third line? &c. First space? First line? &c.
- What is the part of music called of which we have just been speaking? For what voices are the notes designed?
- For what voices are the notes designed which are written on the staff at the beginning of which the F clef is placed? Upon what line is the F clef placed?
- Describe the difference between the scale and the staff. Upon what letter is the natural place of Do?
- What does the brace show? What is understood by the term score?

SECTION V.

ON ACCENT,* OR THE FORCE OF SOUNDS.

1. In practising Examples Nos. 2—7, in Section 3, we undesignedly made some of the sounds louder than others. (Practise them again.) This variation in the loudness, or stress of voice, is called ACCENT,—the third modification of sound mentioned on page 5.

2. As accent is an important part in singing, it is necessary to know precisely upon what notes the most forcible stress of voice should be laid.

3. Every strain, or movement, in a piece of written music, is divided into equal portions, called Measures, as stated on page 8, and every measure into accented or strong, and unaccented or weak parts. There are four different kinds of measure in common use, each one of which has an accentuation peculiar to itself. These are noticed in paragraphs 5 and 6, page 15.

4. The first note in every measure immediately after the bar must be accented; that is, sung louder than any of the other notes in the same measure. Then the bars, which divide the notes into equal portions, are the signs for the accented notes; since, without them, we should not know what notes to sing loud or soft.

5. By beating, or marking the time with the hand, while singing, as before directed, it will be easy to accent correctly. Always let the hand fall on singing the first note immediately after a bar, and raise it on singing the last, or unaccented notes. It will thus be perceived that accent occurs at regular periods, excepting in those cases where, by the signs fz., sf, >, or some other artificial means, the stress is given to some other note. These exceptions are noticed in Section 11.

6. Now sing the examples on pages 8 and 9 again, and pay particular attention to the directions concerning accent. Sing them until the nature of accent is perfectly understood. But,

7. Observe that, in singing, we shall frequently find that the accent of

* "Without accent there can be no music, because without it there can be no expression."—Busby's Musical Dictionary.

"Without accent, there is no more melody in song than in the humming of a bee."—Rees's Encyclopedia.

the music and the words do not correspond; and when this is the case, we must depart from the general rules of the accent in music, and make the accent according to the sentiment of the words.

[The teacher should often present to his pupils, by examples, &c., the nature and importance of accent. It will, no doubt, be properly appreciated by most people, after a few of the first lessons have been given.]

QUESTIONS ON SECTION V.

- What is the variation in the loudness or stress of voice called?
- What is necessary to be known in relation to accent?
- Into what is every strain or movement of written music divided? Into what is every measure divided?
- Which note in every measure is to be accented? What are the signs for accented notes called?
- In beating or marking time, when should the hand fall? When should it be raised?
- When the rules for musical accent conflict with the words to be sung, which must predominate?

SECTION VI.

OF THE RESTS, DOT, OR POINT, ETC.

1. In singing, we have very frequently to observe intervals of silence; and, as it is necessary to be precise in the duration of these intervals, there are signs used for marking them. These characters, or signs, are called RESTS. Each note has a corresponding rest, which takes its name from the note. They are formed thus:—

EXAMPLE No. 18.

The Notes and Rests at one view.

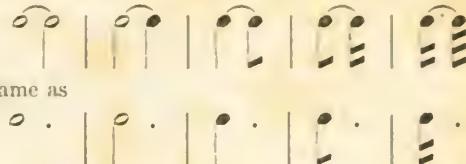

Whole Note. Rest.	Half Note. Rest.	Quarter Note. Rest.	Eighth Note. Rest.	16th Note. Rest.	32d Note. Rest.

- The Whole Rest is also called a Measure Rest when it fills a measure; and in that situation it sometimes is equivalent to three half notes, three quarter notes, two quarter notes, &c.

[See pp. 15 and 16 for examples illustrating the use of Rests.]

3. Sometimes in written music we meet with two notes on the same degree, having a curved line drawn over them, thus:—

meaning the same as

In either case, the time required to sing them is the same. Thus it will be perceived that a whole note, having a dot placed after it, is equal to a whole and a half note combined; and so is a dotted half note equal to a half and quarter note combined, and so on. It is, therefore, clearly seen, that when a dot, or point, is placed at the right hand of a note, it shows that the sound of that note is to be continued half as long again as the same note without a dot.

4. The dot, or point, is also used with rests, signifying that a is equal to ; a is equal to ; a is equal to , &c.

[See pp. 16 and 17 for examples illustrating the use of the dot or point.]

5. Whenever two dots or points are placed after a note or rest, they add to it three-quarters of its original length. For example:— is equal to ; is equal to ; is equal to . See also page 416 for an illustration.

6. When two or more notes are to be sung to one syllable of the words applied to them, this character , called a Slur, or Tie, is drawn over or under them. In written music, designed for instruments, it indicates that the notes thus connected are to be played in a smooth, disconnected manner, and in this relation are called Legato Marks.

7. A Hold, or Pause, , shows that the sound of the note, over or under which it is placed, may be continued at the pleasure of the performer. When placed over or under rests and bars, it shows that the time may be suspended at the pleasure of the performer.

QUESTIONS ON SECTION VI.

1. What are the signs for silence in music called? From what do they take their name? How many rests are there in common use, and by what names are they called?
2. By what other name is the whole rest sometimes called? When?
3. What is the name of the sign used to lengthen notes and rests? How much longer must the sound of a note with a dot be continued than the same note without it? Then what time must be given the dotted whole note? The dotted half note? The quarter note? &c. Half rest? &c.
4. How long must we be silent on a dotted note, or whole rest? Half rest? &c.
5. When is the slur to be used?
6. What does the hold, or pause, show?

SECTION VII.

OF THE DIFFERENT KINDS OF TIME IN MUSIC.

1. The figures usually placed at the commencement of the staff show the parts, and number of parts, of a whole note that are contained in a measure; the lowest figure denoting the kind, and the upper figure the number of notes that are in a measure. Thus:

 or , two half notes, or their equivalent in notes, rests, or points;  two quarter notes, &c.;  four half notes, &c.;  or , four quarter notes, &c.;  three half notes, &c.;  three quarter notes, &c.;  three eighth notes, &c.;  six quarter notes, &c.;  six eighth notes, &c.

2. The measures are usually divided into four classes, viz.:—Double, Triple, Quadruple, and Sextuple. The first class includes two varieties; the second class three, the third class two, and the fourth class two, as will be seen in the Examples which follow. Formerly, these measures were divided into three classes only, viz.:—Common or Even, (Double and Quadruple,) Triple or Odd, and Compound or Mixed, (Sextuple.)

The following are examples of the different kinds of measure, or time, in general use, with directions for beating and singing them. The meaning of Rests, and Dots or Points, is also illustrated. They should be practised thoroughly; since, for want of practice merely, singers generally fail in giving rests and dots their proper time. The syllable La can be used.

3. In performing exercises which contain rests, it will be well, for a short time, whenever one occurs, to whisper "rest." By this method we shall soon learn to think "rest." Mark the time, and observe the accent. See page 14.

4. In these Examples it will be perceived that some of the eighth and sixteenth notes are grouped; that is, joined together by their hooks: because, in these cases they take up less room in the measures. The same length of time is given to the notes with hooks, whether written singly, or joined together.

5. The Measures thus far have been Double, requiring two beats to each—accenting the first part with the downward beat. We will now consider the other three kinds of measure—first, by laying down the rules for accenting them, and then illustrating these rules by practice.

6. In Triple Measure, the first part should be accented, and the other two unaccented. In Quadruple Measure, the first part should be accented, the second unaccented, the third half accented, and the fourth still lighter than the second. In Sextuple Measure, the first part should be accented, the second and third unaccented, the fourth half accented, the fifth and sixth the weakest of all.

QUESTIONS ON SECTION VII.

1. What do the figures placed at the commencement of the staff show?
2. Into how many classes are the measures usually divided? Name them.
3. In order to think "rest," what, at first, is best to do?
4. What notes can be grouped? Are notes to be sung any quicker because they are grouped, or joined together? Describe the beats (the movement of the hand) and the nature of the accent required in each variety of measure.

SECTION VIII.

OF THE TONES AND SEMITONES, FLATS, SHARPS, AND NATURALS.

We will now examine the diatonic scale, in reference to the distances of one sound from another. Let the teacher and the pupils sing the scale of eight sounds, ascending and descending.

1. Now, in singing this scale, whether ascending or descending, we pass over an interval, or distance, in going from one degree to another, as we do in ascending or descending a ladder from one step to another.

2. These intervals, or distances between the degrees or sounds of the scale, are not all the same; some are only about half as great as the others.

(To illustrate this, the following method may be pursued, when a better one cannot be devised:—The pupils being admonished to listen to the sounds when made, the teacher (and, if he thinks proper, the pupils also) may sing first Do and Re, then Re and Mi, then Mi and Fa. After repeating this exercise two or three times, the pupils should be required to state whether they discovered any difference in the different intervals between any two of the sounds. If they do not understand this, or fail to discover any difference in the intervals, let them sing Mi and Fa, and then Do and Re, giving Do the same pitch as Mi. They will sing Re higher than Fa, and the difference in the two intervals will be readily perceived.)

3. The words tone and semitone (half-tone) are used to express the intervals, or distances, between the degrees of the scale. Read the following table upward from the bottom.

Do 8
Si 7	From Si , to Do , or 7 to 8, the interval is a semitone.
T 6	From La to Si , or 6 to 7, the interval is a tone.
La 5	From Sol to La , or 5 to 6, the interval is a tone.
Sol 4	From Fa to Sol , or 4 to 5, the interval is a tone.
Fa 3	From Mi to Fa , or 3 to 4, the interval is a semitone.
Mi 2	From Re to Mi , or 2 to 3, the interval is a tone.
Re 1	From Do to Re , or 1 to 2, the interval is a tone.
Do 8

Thus it appears that, in the diatonic scale, there are five whole tones and two semitones; the semitones falling between the 3d and 4th, (Mi and Fa), and between the 7th and 8th, (Si and Do). All scales reckoning from the fundamental note Do, no matter how high or how low they may be, are alike in this respect. See following

EXAMPLE NO. 30.

The curved lines and the letter S show where the semitones occur.

4. So we perceive that the semitones occur after two, and then after three tones, alternately. Whenever the key-note Do is upon C, the semitones are between E and F, and B and C—the first line and first space, the third line and third space, and fourth space and fifth line of the staff, at the commencement of which the G clef is placed. In the staff, at the commencement of which is placed the F clef, the semitones occur between the same letters as in the treble staff,—the first space below and first line, the second line and second space, and third space and fourth line.

5. In our practice thus far we have been governed by these intervals of the diatonic scale, which consists of five tones and two semitones. But sometimes we have to vary these sounds, either by raising or lowering them, and making new sounds, just in the middle of the large intervals or tones. These new sounds not belonging to the natural scale of the voice, are considered as artificial.

6. Whenever we wish to raise or lower the sound of any of the notes, we shall require some mark to indicate the fact, because all the notes, being the representatives of sounds, are written either on a line or in a space; and, therefore, the notes themselves cannot be removed half way between a line and space to show the difference of the sounds. The marks or signs used for this purpose are called Sharps, Flats, and Naturals.

7. The Sharp (#) indicates that the sound of the note before which it is placed should be sung or played a half tone higher than its natural sound.

8. The Flat (b) indicates that the sound of the note before which it is placed is to be lowered or depressed a half tone.

9. The Natural (♮) is employed to restore the sound of notes that have been made sharp or flat to their original sound.

10. To assist the singer in making the artificial sounds, the following method has been adopted by many teachers:—Let them be called by different names from the natural sounds. For the name of the sharp sound take the first letter of the name, and add to it i; thus, Do sharp may be called Di; Re sharp, Ri; Fa sharp, Fi, &c. And for the flats, add to the first letter ay; thus, Si flat may be called Say; La flat, Lay; Sol flat, Say, &c.

A scale of semitones is called a SEMITONIC or CHROMATIC SCALE. See Example No. 31, next page.

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.

EXAMPLE No. 31.

Semitonic Scale—ascending and descending.

An ability to execute this scale correctly will be of very great benefit to the singer.

11. When sharps or flats are placed at the commencement of a staff, next to the clef, they are called the Signature, or sign of the key-note; (for the key-note is sometimes on one letter, and sometimes on another, as will be seen by examining the tunes in this or any other music-book; the reason will be explained in Section IX.) When there are no sharps or flats at the commencement of the staff, the signature is said to be Natural, and the key-note (Do) is to be always considered upon C. See tunes Flavel, Franklin, &c.

12. When sharps, flats, and naturals are found in different parts of a tune, or piece of written music, they are called Accidentals. The effect of an accidental is not always confined to the note which immediately follows it; it extends, unless counteracted, through all the notes that occupy the same line, or space, or letter, to the next bar. And when one measure ends and the next begins with the same note, the effect extends beyond the bar.

EXERCISE FOR PRACTICE.

SHOWING THE EFFECT OF ACCIDENTALS.

EXAMPLE No. 32.

Signature Natural—Do on C.

A musical score for 'Doxology' in G major, 4/4 time. The lyrics are: Do Sol Fi Fa Mi Si La Sol Say La Si Do Di Re Mi Do. The music consists of a single melodic line with various note heads and rests, some with vertical stems and others without. The notes are primarily quarter notes, with some eighth and sixteenth notes interspersed. The lyrics are placed below the staff.

13. When a natural occurs as an accidental, to restore sounds that have been flattened in the signature, the same syllables may be applied as in the case of sharps.

NOTE.—The method of treating the Accidentals, as here explained, will be found to answer the purposes of psalmody; yet, in the opinion of many, it cannot be of universal application. "Chromatic passages," says L. Mason, in one of his early publications, "will occur, especially in modern music, to which it will be almost impossible to apply any system of solmization, and in the performance of which it may be proper to substitute the open vowel a, as in far, or as in fall, in place of the syllables in common use."

QUESTIONS ON SECTION VIII.

- What do we pass over in going from one degree to another of the scale?
 - Are all the intervals or distances between the degrees the same? What difference is there between them?
 - What words are used to express the intervals or distances in the scale? Repeat the distance between each sound of the scale. How many tones and semitones are there in the diatonic scale? Between what degrees and names do they fall?
 - When the key-note is upon C, between what letters of the staves do the semitones occur? Between what lines and spaces?
 - Do we ever have to vary the natural sounds of the scale? How?
 - When we wish to raise the sound of a note a half tone, what character is used? Where placed?
 - What is the name of the character used to indicate the lowering of sounds a half tone? Where placed?
 - When the sounds of notes have been raised or lowered a half tone, what character is used to restore them to their natural sound?
 - What method is recommended to the singer to adopt in making the artificial sounds? Of what does the Chromatic Scale consist?
 - When sharps or naturals are placed at the commencement of the staff, what are they called? When is the signature said to be natural?
 - When are sharps, flats, and naturals, considered to be accidental? How far does the effect of an accidental extend?

SECTION IX.

TRANSPOSITION OF THE SCALE.

1. In all our examples thus far, we have taken C as the starting point. But we may take any other as the first or fundamental note; indeed, it is very frequently found necessary to do so, in order that we may be better enabled to produce a certain desired effect in one key, that cannot be produced in another. Besides, if all tunes were written in the key of C, some of the notes employed in the different parts (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, or Bass) would be either too high or too low for most voices. Removing the scale from C to some other letter, is called its transposition.
 2. In transposing the scale, let it ever be kept in mind, that on whichever letter we begin, we must be careful to preserve the semitones between the third and fourth, and seventh and eighth of the scale. (See parag. 3, p. 17.)

3. All persons, however uncultivated their voices, naturally change from the key in which they may be singing, to that which is a Fifth higher, or a Fourth lower, the same thing. G is a fifth higher or a fourth lower than C; hence it is called the

FIRST TRANPOSITION BY SHARPS.

Comparative View of the Scales of C and G.

4. Here, in the scale of G, F is sharped. Let us see if we can ascertain for what reason. Remember that the order of the tones and semitones must be preserved, as before described. Now we will begin with the scale of G, and compare it with that of C.

5. From G to A is a whole tone. There should be a whole tone between 1 (Do) and 2 (Re), and therefore A needs no alteration.

6. From A to B is a whole tone. There should be a whole tone between 2 (Re) and 3 (Mi), and therefore B needs no alteration.

7. From B to C is a half tone. There should be a half tone between 3 (Mi) and 4 (Fa), and therefore C needs no alteration.

8. From C to D is a whole tone. There should be a whole tone between 4 (Fa) and 5 (Sol), and therefore D needs no alteration.

9. From D to E is a whole tone. There should be a whole tone between 5 (Sol) and 6 (La), and therefore E needs no alteration.

10. From E to F (in the scale of C) is a half tone. But in the scale of G, a whole tone is required between these letters, to correspond with the sounds of the scale of the voice; therefore F must be raised a half tone, which is indicated by placing a sharp before it. Then from E to F♯ is a whole tone, and thus we have gained the proper interval between 6 (La) and 7 (Si).

11. From F♯ to G is a half tone. There should be a half tone between 7 (Si) and 8 (Do), and this furnishes an additional reason why F should be sharped.

12. We thus perceive, that, in commencing the scale on G, a sharp is necessary to be placed before F. To avoid the necessity of placing a sharp before F in every instance in which it occurs in the tune, it is placed at the beginning of the staff once for all, on that letter, and affects every F in the tune. It is there called the signature of the key, or sign of the key-note. Every tune has a signature. (See paragraph 11, p. 18.)

13. When the scale is transposed, the order of the syllables, Do, Re, Mi, Fa, Sol, La, Si, Do, is transposed with it.* The numerals are also transposed in the same manner. But the seven letters, A, B, C, D, E, F, G, are not transposed by the transposition of the scale; they can only be transposed by the transposition of the clef. The clef may be transposed, but in modern music it is seldom or never done.

In the following examples of Transposition, let the same or a similar method of illustration be pursued as was suggested in changing the key from C to G. The curved line shows where the semitones fall in each key.

14. SECOND TRANPOSITION BY SHARPS—SCALE OF D.

15. THIRD TRANPOSITION BY SHARPS—SCALE OF A.

* We have among us teachers who do not transpose the syllables with the scale. With them Do is always on C, Re is always on D, and so on. This system has been found to answer very well where the pupils can practise with an instrument.

ELEMENTS OF VOCAL MUSIC.

16. FOURTH TRANSPOSITION BY SHARPS—KEY OF E.

E F G A B C D E E D C B A G F E
Do Re Mi Fa Sol La Si Do 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1
Do Si La Sol Fa Mi Re Do

These four transpositions by Sharps are all that are commonly used; still, others may occur. The scale may commence on B, in which case five sharps is the signature; it may commence on F♯, in which case six sharps is the signature; it may commence on C♯, in which case seven sharps is the signature.

17. In transposing the scale, we have thus far taken that letter which was a fifth higher or fourth lower, the same thing, as a new scale; in such case #1 was found necessary to preserve the order of intervals.

18. We will now commence with the scale of C, and take the letter which is a Fourth higher or Fifth lower, as 1 of a new scale. This is called TRANSPOSING BY FLATS.

19. FIRST TRANSPOSITION BY FLATS—SCALE OF F.

F G A B C D E F F E D C B A G F
Do Re Mi Fa Sol La Si Do 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

B C D E F G A B B A G F E D C B
Do Re Mi Fa Sol La Si Do 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

21. THIRD TRANSPOSITION BY FLATS—SCALE OF E♭.

E F G A B C D E E D C B A G F E
Do Re Mi Fa Sol La Si Do 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1

A B C D E F G A A G F E D C B A
Do Re Mi Fa Sol La Si Do 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1
Do Si La Sol Fa Mi Re Do

These four transpositions by Flats are all that are commonly used in Psalmody. Yet sometimes it is found necessary to adopt five flats for the signature; in which case the key-note is on DB. And then, again, six flats for the signature may be required—indicating the key-note is on Gb. And even seven flats may be employed for the signature, producing Cb as the place for the key-note.

RECAPITULATION, BOTH IN SHARPS AND FLATS.

23. If there be neither sharp nor flat for the signature,

| One sharp, the key is G. | Two flats, the key is Bb. |
| Two sharps, the key is D. | Three flats, the key is Eb. |
| Three sharps, the key is A. | Four flats, the key is Ab, &c. |

QUESTIONS ON SECTION IX.

[N. B. The teacher need not be confined to these questions, but ask others that may be suggested to the mind calculated to throw light on the subject.]

1. Why should not C always be considered as the starting point, or key-note?
2. In transposing the scale from one letter to another, what should ever be kept in mind?
3. Upon what letter of the staff is the key-note when a sharp is placed before F?
4. Describe the intervals of both scales, and state the reason particularly why they are not alike. Analyze the two scales as presented at one view, and consult paragraphs 3-11.
5. In transposing the scale by sharps, what letter have we taken on which to form a new scale?
6. Describe the intervals of the scale in the key of F, Bb, Eb, and Ab, and state in what particulars they differ.
7. In transposing the scale by flats, what letter have we taken as 1 of a new scale?
8. In what key is a piece of music written when the signature is natural? In what key when the signature is one sharp? Two sharps? Three sharps? Four sharps? One flat? Two flats? Three flats? Four flats?
9. Describe the intervals of the scale in the key

SECTION X.

THE TWO SCALES—MAJOR AND MINOR.

1. BESIDES the diatonic Major Scale, which we have used thus far, there is another, called the Minor Scale, which differs from the major, with regard to its intervals. In the first scale, the third from the key-note, ascending, is a major third, consisting of two whole tones; hence it is called the Major Scale. The other is called the Minor Scale, because its third from the key-note La is a minor third, containing but one tone and a semitone; thus, from La to Si a tone, and from Si to Do a semitone.

2. But the minor scale, however, is not used altogether in its natural state; for it is found necessary, in ascending, to make the seventh (Sol) sharp as a leading note to the key-note, (La.) and then to raise the sixth, (Fa), also a semitone, to avoid the too great interval of a tone and a half between it (the 6th) and the sharp seventh. In descending, the notes are made natural; that is, the 5th and 6th are sung a semitone lower than in ascending.

MINOR SCALE FOR PRACTICE.

Signature Natural—Key-note La on A.

3. It will be perceived that the same syllables are applied to the same degrees of the staff as in the major scale. This is true in every signature. The minor key-note will also be on the third degree below, or the sixth above the major key-note in every signature. With the same signature these two keys are called relative keys; thus, A minor is the relative key to C major, and C major the relative key to A minor; D minor is the relative key to F major, and F major the relative key to D minor, &c.

4. To determine whether a piece of music is written in the Major or Minor Scale, let it be remembered that the last note in the Bass, and usually (but not always) in the Soprano or Treble, is the key note of the tune; and if this be Do, the scale is major—if La, minor. The character of the music will also generally determine the scale; as the major is, for the most part, bold and animating, while the minor is pathetic and mournful. The different situations of the semitones in relation to the key-note, is what produces the different effects of these scales.

NOTE. The teacher is recommended to pursue the same plan for practising the transposition of the Minor Scale that has been proposed for the Major.

QUESTIONS ON SECTION X

1. What determines the character of the major scale? What of the minor?
2. In ascending the minor scale, what notes must be raised? Why? In descending, how is the scale to be sung? Then what is the difference in ascending and descending the minor scale?
2. What syllables are applied to the degrees of the staff in the minor scale? What is the difference between the place of the key-note in the major and minor scale?
4. By what method can it be determined whether a tune is major or minor? What is the character of the music written in the major scale? What in the minor? What produces the different effects of the two scales?

SECTION XI.

DYNAMICS—DEGREES OF SOUND.

1. DYNAMICS “is that department in the practice of music which consists in giving each note that stress which the subject requires, including the loud and the soft, the swell and the diminish, the abrupt and the gentle, the staccato and the legato.”

2. The varieties of stress (power of sounds) may be considered as consisting of five regular gradations, viz.: the middling, the loud, the very loud, the soft, and very soft. For these degrees of stress the following signs are used:—

For middling, the Italian word Mezzo, or its initial M.

For loud, the word Forte, (or For..) or its initial F.

For very loud, the word Fortissimo, or FF.

For soft, the word Piano, (or Pia..) or its initial P.

For very soft, the word Pianissimo, or PP.

3. When no sign of stress is used over the music, the middling should be employed. And where one is introduced, it is to be observed until another occurs to contradict it.

4. The Crescendo (\ll) shows by its form, that the quantity of tone or force required in performing gradually increases from the point where the lines meet, towards the opening. It may apply to one note, or extend over any number of notes.

5. The Diminuendo (\gg) is exactly the reverse of Crescendo.

6. The Crescendo and Diminuendo are sometimes combined in one sound. Then this sign ($\swarrow\searrow$), called a Swell, is used.

7. A sudden and forcible swell, short and emphatic, is called the Pressure Tone. It is marked thus, $<$, or $>$.

8. A very short tone, produced with force and immediately diminished, is called the Explosive Tone. It is marked Forzando, Sforzando, Fz., Sfz., or $>$.

9. When a tone has equal strength throughout, it is called the Organ Tone, and is marked _____.

10. These signs or marks (•••• or !!!!) are called Staccato Marks. The notes over or under which they are placed, should be sung in a very short and distinct manner. When they are placed over or under quarter notes, the notes are to be sung like eighths; making an eighth rest between. In like manner all staccato notes should be sung. See example.

SECTION XII.

VARIOUS MUSICAL CHARACTERS.

1. The figure 3, when placed over or under three notes, shows that each note must be diminished one-third of its ordinary length, thus:—

³ are to be sung in the same time of

2. The small notes (usually called Appoggiaturas) may be performed or omitted. If sung, they must be treated just as though they were large; and the large notes that they stand with should be diminished in length to the same amount. See example.

As written. As performed.

In the first measure they are considered as After-notes; in the second and third, as Fore-notes.

3. When a small note precedes a pointed note, two-thirds of the time of the pointed note is to be given to the small note. See example.

As written. As performed.

4. A Repeat, :::, or ::::, shows what parts of the music are to be performed twice. See the melody in C, on page 23; also tune "Archdale," page 87, and "Anthem for Easter," page 398.

5. A heavy bar, thus, |, is called a Double Bar, or Period Bar. It shows the end of a strain, or a line of the poetry.

6. The figures 1 and 2 are sometimes used to mark a double close. The notes marked 1

¹ ²

is performed; the notes marked 2 are sung the second time, when those marked 1 are omitted. See the melody in C, on p. 23, and tune "Archdale," page 87.

7. A Close, thus, ||, or |||, or ||||, shows the end of a tune, or piece of music.

A musical score for three voices (Soprano, Alto, Bass) in common time (indicated by 'C'). The key signature is common (no sharps or flats). The soprano part starts with a melodic line: 'Ah, whi - ther shall I go?' The alto part follows with: 'My soul from end - less death!'. The bass part provides harmonic support throughout.

The musical score continues with three more stanzas. The second stanza begins with: '1. Why do wo mourn for dy - ing friends, Or shake at death's a - arms?'. The third stanza begins with: '2. Are wo not tend - ing up - ward too, As fast as time can move?'. The fourth stanza begins with: 'Tis but the voico that Jo - sus sends, To call them to his arms,— To call them to his arms,— To call them to his arms.'

The musical score concludes with two more stanzas. The fifth stanza begins with: 'Nor should we wish the hours more slow, To keep us from our love,— To keep us from our love,— To keep us from our love.'

REST. L. M. 133

Ex - ceeds a thou - sand days of mirth,—Exceeds a thou - sand days of mirth.

Should tempt my feet to leave thy door,—Should tempt my feet to leave thy door.

1 Re - turn, my soul, en - joy thy rest,

2. O that our thoughts and thanks may rise,

Improve the day thy God hath blest : A - no - ther six days' work is done ; A - no - ther Sabbath is be - gun,— A - no - ther Sab - bath is be - gun

As grate - ful in - cense to the skies ; And draw from Christ that sweet re - pose, Which none but he that feels it knows.—Which none but he that feels it knows.

1. The temp - ter to my soul hath said,—There is no help in God for thee: Lord, lift thou up thy ser-vant's head; My glo - ry, shield, and so - lace be.

2. Thus to the Lord I raised my cry;—He heard me from his ho - ly hill; At his com-mand the waves roll'd by ; He beckon'd,—and the winds were still.

HAYDN'S MORNING HYMN. L. M.

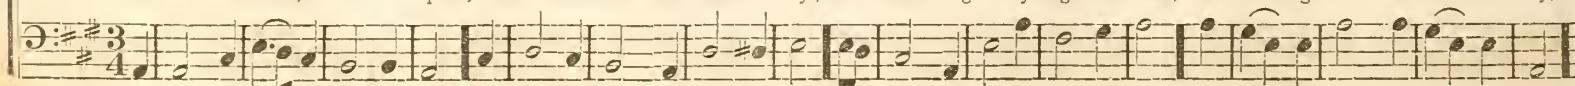

HAYDN.

1. How sweet-ly flow'd the gos-pel's sound From lips of gen - tle - ness and grace, While list'n-ing thousands gather'd round, And joy and rev'rence fill'd the place,—

2. From heav'n he came, of heav'n he spoke, To heav'n he led his foll'wer's way ; Dark clouds of gloo-my night he broke, Un - veil - ing an im - mor - tal day,—

ROTHWELL. L. M.

WINDHAM.* L. M.

1. Show pi - ty, Lord, O Lord, for-give; Let a re - pent-ing re -bel live: Are not thy mer - cies large and free? May not a sin - ner trust in thee?

2. My erimes are great, but don't sur - pass The power and glo - ry of thy gracie; Great God, thy na - ture hath no bound,—So let thy pard'ning love be found.

* Among compilers there exists a difference of opinion in regard to the real author of this old favourite choral. Many ascribe it to "Read," others to "Jesl Read." One states that Daniel Read, late of New Haven, Ct., wrote it; and another introduces it thus—"Sub A German Choral, by M. Luther—a ranged by Read."

1. Stay, thou in-sult - ed Spi - rit, stay, Tho' I have done thee such des - pite; Nor cast the sin - ner quite a - way, Nor take thine ev - er - last - ing flight.

2. Though I have steel'd my stub-born heart, And shaken off my guil - ty fears ; And vex'd, and urged thee to de - part, For ma-ny long re - bell-ious years.

1. Sa-viour, Prince of Is - rael's race, Save me;—from thy loft - ty throne Give the sweet re-lent-ing grace; Sof-ten this ob-du-rate stone;

2. By thy Spi-rit, Lord, re-prove; All mine in-most sins ro-veal; Sins a-gainst thy light and love, Let me see, and let me feel;

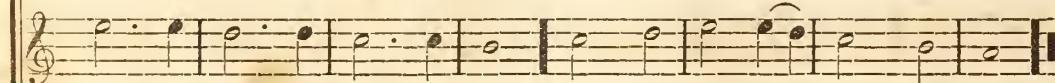

3. Je-sus, seek thy wand-ring sheep; Make me rest-less to re-tum; Bid me look on thee, and weep, Bit-ter-ly as Pe-ter mourn:

Stone to flesh, O God, con-vert; Cast a look, and break my heart!

Sins that cru-ci-fied my Lord,— Spilt a-gain thy pre-cious blood.

Till I say, by grace re-stored,— Now, thou know'st, I love thee, Lord.

4. Might I in thy sight appear
As the publican distress'd;
Stand, not daring to draw near;
Smite on my unworthy breast;
Groan the sinner's only plea,—
God be merciful to me!

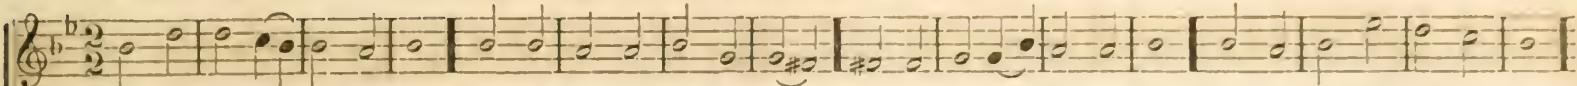

5. O remember me for good:
Passing through the mortal vale,
Show me the atoning blood;
When my strength and spirits fail,
Give my fainting soul to see
Jesus crucified for me.

1. Hearts of stone, ro - lent, ro - lent ! Break, by Jo - sus' cross sub - dued ; See his bo - dy man-gled, rent, Stain'd and cov'er'd with his blood !

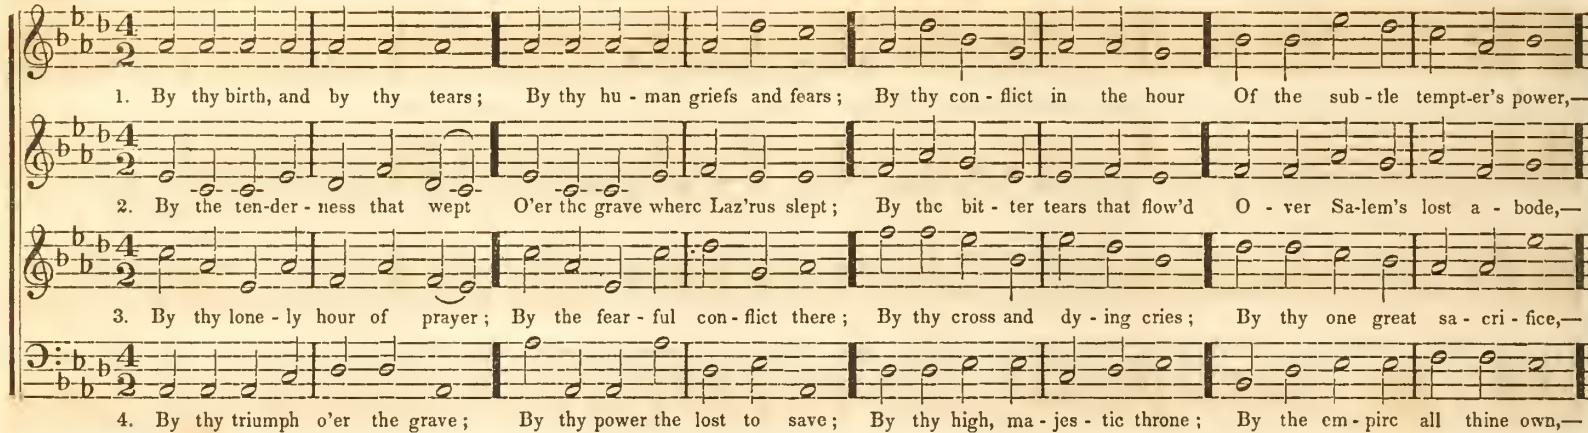

Sin - ful soul, what hast thou done ? Cru - ci - fied the' e - ter - nal Son.

2. Yes, thy sins have done the deed ;
Driven the nails that fix'd him there ;
Crown'd with thorns his sacred head ;
Plunged into his side the spear ;
Made his soul a sacrifice,
While for sinful man he dies.

3. Wilt thou let him bleed in vain ?
Still to death thy Lord pursue ?
Open all his wounds again,
And the shameful cross renew ?
No ; with all my sins I'll part ;
Saviour, take my broken heart.

Christ, from whom all blessings flow,
Hear us, who thy na-ture share,—

Per-fect-ing the saints be-low,
Who thy mys-tic bo-dy are.

} Join us, in one spi-rit join;
Let us still re-ceive of thine:

Still for more on thee we call,
Thou who fill-est all in all.

2. Move, and actuate, and guide :
Divers gifts to each divide :
Placed according to thy will,
Let us all our work fulfil :
Never from our office move :
Needful to each other prove :
Let us daily growth receive,—
More and more in Jesus live.
3. Sweetly may we all agree,
Touch'd with softest sympathy ;
Kindly for each other care ;
Every member feel its share.
Many are we now and one,
We who Jesus have put on :
Names, and sects, and parties fall :
Thou, O Christ, art all in all

3. Thou, O Christ, art all I want:
More than all in thee I find:
Raise the fallen, cheer the faint,
Heal the sick, and lead the blind.
Just and holy is thy name;
I am all unrighteousness:
False, and full of sin I am;
Thou art full of truth and grace.

4. Plenteous grace with thee is found,—
Grace to cover all my sin:
Let the healing streams abound;
Make and keep me pure within.
Thou of life the fountain art;
Freely let me take of thee:
Spring thou up within my heart;
Rise to all eternity.

1. Glo - ry be to God a - bove,— God, from whom all bless-ings flow; } Call'd to - ge - ther by his grace, We are met in Je - sus' name;
Make we men-tion of his love; Pub - lish we his praise be - low: }

See with joy each oth - er's face, Foll - 'wers of the bleed - ing Lamb.

2. Let us then sweet counsel take,
How to make our calling sure;
Our election how to make,
Past the reach of hell, seeure:
Build we each the other up;
Pray we for our faith's increase;
Solid comfort, settled hope,
Constant joy, and lasting peace.
3. More and more let love abound:
Let us never, never rest,
Till we are in Jesus found,
Of our paradise possess'd:—
He removes the flaming sword,
Calls us back, from Eden driven;
To his image here restored,
Soon he takes us up to heaven.

1 No need of the sun in that day Which nev-er is fol-low'd by night, Where Je - sus's beau-ties dis-play A pure and a per-ma-nent light.

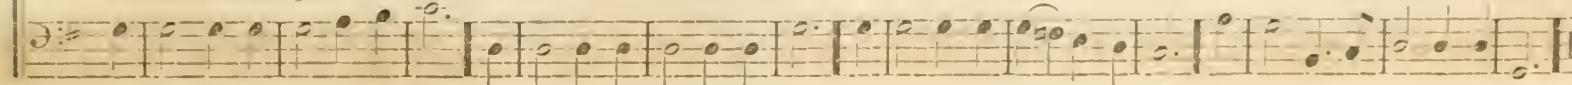

2 The saints in his pres-ence re-ceiv-o Their great and e - ter - nal re - ward; In Je - sus, in hea-ven, they live,— They reign in the smile of their Lord

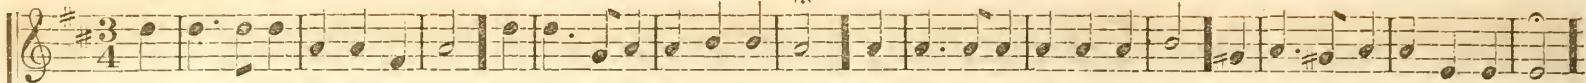

The Lamb is their Light and their Sun, And, lo! by re - flec-tion they shine; With Je-sus in - ef - fa-bly one, And bright in ef - ful-gence di-vine.

The flame of an - gel - i - cal love Is kin-dled at Je - sus's face; And all the en - joy - ment a - bore, Con-sists in the rap-tu - rous gaze.

1. Thou Shepherd of Is - rael, and mine, The joy and de-sire of my heart, For clo - ser com-mu-nion I pine; I long to re-side where thou art:

2. 'Tis there, with the lambs of thy flock, There on-ly, I cov - et to rest; To lie at the foot of the rock, Or rise to be hid in thy breast:

The pas - ture I lan - guish to find, Where all, who their Shep-herd o - bey, Are fed, on thy bo-som re - clined, And screen'd from the heat of the day.

'Tis there I would al - ways a - bide, And nev-er a mo-ment de - part,— Conceal'd in the cleft of thy side, E - ter-nal-ly held in thy heart.

1. O when shall we sweetly re-move, O when shall we en-ter our rest,— Return to the Zi-on a-bove, The mo-ther of spi-rits distre-d'd,—

2. But an-gels them-selves cannot tell The joys of that ho-li-est place, Where Je-sus is pleased to re-veal The light of his hea-ven-ly face:

3. Thou know'st in the spi-rit of prayer We long thy ap-pearing to see, Re-sign'd to the bur-den we bear, But long-ing to tri-unph with thee

That ci-ty of God the great King, Where sor-row and death are no more, Where saints our Im-ma-nu-el sing, And che-rub and se-raph a-dore!

When, caught in the rap-tu-rous flame, The sight be-a-ti-fie they prove; And walk in the light of the Lamb, En-joy-ing the beams of his love.

'Tis good at thy word to be here; 'Tis bet-ter in thee to be gone, And see thee in glo-ry ap-pear, And rise to a share in thy throne.

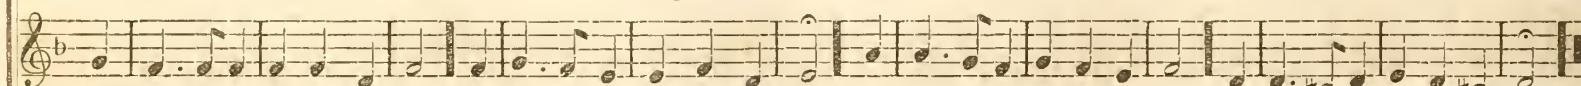

1. O Je-sus, in pi - ty draw near; Come quickly to help a lost soul: To com-fort a mourn-er, ap - pear, And make a poor pe-ni - tent whole:

2. I sink, if thou long-er de - lay Thy par-don-ing mer - cy to show: Come quick-ly, and kind - ly dis - play The power of thy pas-sion be - low:

The balm of thy mer-cy ap-apply; (Thou seest the sore an-guish I feel;) Save, Lord, or I pe-riish, I die; O save, or I sink in - to hell.

By all thou hast done for my sake, One drop of thy blood I im - plore; Now, now let it touch me, and make The sin-ner—a sin-ner no more.

3. The God of Abrah'm praise,
Whose all-sufficient grace
Shall guide me all my happy days

In all his ways ;
He calls a worm his friend :
He calls himself my God !
And he shall save me to the end,
Through Jesus' blood.

4. He by himself hath sworn :
I on his oath depend ;
I shall, on eagles' wings upborne,
To heaven ascend :
I shall behold his face ;
I shall his power adore,
And sing the wonders of his grace
Forever more.

1. Pro - claim the lof - ty praise Of Him who once was slain, But now is risen, through end - less days To live and reign.
 2. All hon - our, power, and praise, To Je - sus' Name be - long; With hosts se - ra - phic, glad we raise The sa - cred song!
 3. He lives to bless and save The souls re-deem'd by grace, And res - cue from the drea - ry grave The fall - en race;

He lives and reigns on high, Who bought us with His blood,— En-throned a - bove the far - thest sky, Our Sa - viour God.
 Wor - thy the Lamb, they cry, That on the cross was slain; But now, as - cend - ed up on high, He lives to reign.
 And soon we hope, a - bove, A loud - er strain to sing,— With all our powers to praise and love Our Sa - viour King.

3. And when, through grace, our course is run,
The battle fought, the vict'ry won,
Then crowns unfading we shall wear,
The glory of thy kingdom share,
With thee, our glorious Leader, there,
In endless day.

4. Then, in thy presence, heavenly King,
In loftier strains thy praise we'll sing,
When with the blood-bought hosts we meet,
Triumphant there, in bliss complete,
And cast our crowns before thy feet,
In endless day.

PIA. FOR.

This musical score consists of two staves of music. The top staff is for the piano (PIA) and the bottom staff is for the voice (FOR). The key signature is A major (two sharps), and the time signature is common time (indicated by a '4'). The music features eighth-note patterns and some sixteenth-note figures. The vocal line follows a melodic path with several upward leaps, notably at the beginning and around measure 10.

1. Father of spirits! hear our prayer; Our life, our hope, our comforter, Our strong abode: To thee our thankful hearts we raise, And humbly, gladly hymn thy praise, Preserver, God!

PIA. FOR.

This section continues the musical score for ODELL. The piano part (PIA) has a steady eighth-note bass line, while the vocal part (FOR) continues the melody with eighth-note patterns.

2. Thy gentle hand hath smooth'd our way; Fed and sustain'd us day by day; In thee we move: O may thy mercies, Lord, inspire Our hearts with gratitude, and fire Our souls with love.

This section concludes the musical score for ODELL. The piano part (PIA) provides harmonic support with sustained notes and chords, while the vocal part (FOR) concludes the hymn with a final cadence.

This musical score consists of two staves of music. The top staff is for the piano (PIA) and the bottom staff is for the voice (FOR). The key signature is A major (two sharps), and the time signature is common time (indicated by a '4'). The piano part features a continuous eighth-note bass line, while the vocal part follows a similar melodic path to the previous hymn.

1. Father of spirits! hear our prayer; Our life, our hope, our comforter, Our strong abode: To thee our thankful hearts we raise, And humbly, gladly hymn thy praise, Preserver, God!

This section continues the musical score for PALMER. The piano part (PIA) maintains its eighth-note bass line, and the vocal part (FOR) continues the melody.

This section concludes the musical score for PALMER. The piano part (PIA) provides harmonic support, and the vocal part (FOR) concludes the hymn.

2. Thy gentle hand hath smooth'd our way; Fed and sustain'd us day by day; In thee we move: O may thy mercies, Lord, inspire Our hearts with gratitude, and fire Our souls with love.

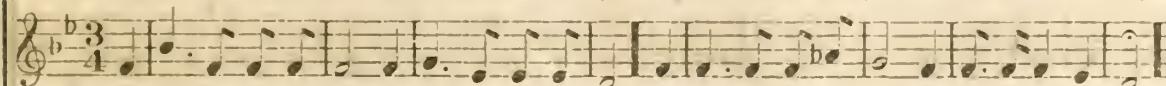

This final section continues the musical score for PALMER, concluding the hymn with a final cadence.

Hal - le - lu - jah! Hal - le - lu - jah! Glo - ry to the bleed-ing Lamb. A - - men.
PP. PIA. DIM.

1. Yes! my na - tive land, I love thee; All thy scenes I love them well: Friends, con-nex-ions, hap - py coun - try—Can I bid you all fare-well?

2. Home, thy joys are pass-ing love - ly— Joys no stranger heart can tell; Hap - py home, 'tis sure I love thee—Can I, can I say fare-well?

3. Scenes of sa - cred peace and plea-sure, Ho - ly days and Sab-bath bell; Rich - est, bright-est, sweet-est trea-sure—Can I say a last fare - well?

Can I leave you, Far in hea - then lands to dwell?

Can I leave thee, Far in hea - then lands to dwell?

Can I leave you, Far in hea - then lands to dwell?

4. Yes, I hasten from you gladly,
From the scenes I loved so well !
Far away, ye billows, bear me ;
Lovely native land, farewell !
Pleased I leave thee,
Far in heathen lands to dwell.

5. In the deserts let me labour,
On the mountains let me tell
How he died—the blessed Saviour—
To redeem a world from hell !
Let me hasten,
Far in heathen lands to dwell.

6. Bear me on, thou restless ocean :
Let the winds my canvass swell—
Heaves my heart with warm emotion,
While I go far hence to dwell,
Glad I bid thee,
Native land,—Farewell—Farewell.

COWAN. "Thou art gone to the grave."

From Jones's Evening Melodies.

AFFETTUOSO.

1. Thou art gone to the grave, but we will not de - plore thee; Though sor - rows and dark - ness en - com - pass the tomb,

2. Thou art gone to the grave— we no long - er be - hold thee, Nor tread the rough path of the world by thy side;

3. Up to that world of light
Take us, dear Saviour !
May we all there unite,
Happy forever !
Where kindred spirits dwell,
There may our music swell,
And time our joys dispel—
Never—no, never !
4. Soon shall we meet again,
Meet ne'er to sever ;
Soon will peace wreath her chain
Round us forever ;
Our hearts will then repose—
Secure from worldly woes ;
Our songs of praise shall close—
Never—no, never !

SLOW AND SOFT

This tune may be sung as a Duett by Treble voices.

1. Sister, thou wast mild and love-ly, Gen-tle as the sum-mer breeze, Plea-sant as the air of eve-ning When it floats a-mong the trees.
2 Peace-ful be thy si-lent slum-ber, Peace-ful in the grave so low; Thou no more wilt join our num-ber, Thou no more our songs shalt know.
3 Dear-est sis-ter, thou hast left us, Here thy loss wo-deep-ly feel, But 'tis God that hath be-reft us, He can all our sor-row heal.
4 Yet a-gain we hope to meet thee, When the day of life is fled, Then, in heaven, with joy to greet thee, Where no fare-well tear is shed.

The image shows a musical score for three voices (Soprano, Alto, Tenor) and piano. The music is in common time, key signature of two sharps, and consists of four staves. The vocal parts are in soprano, alto, and tenor voices. The piano part is at the bottom. The lyrics "Hal - le - lu - jah!" are repeated three times, with the third repetition being louder and more sustained. The piano part provides harmonic support with chords and bass lines.
