

Franz Schubert

Grand Duo in C D812

arranged for String Quintet
(2 violins, viola, 2 cellos)

This arrangement was made in the hope of providing a companion piece for Schubert's 2-cello quintet, D956. A piano duet was chosen as the source because it gave many opportunities to score passages in which the two violins could play what Schubert wrote for the "primo" pianist and the two cellists what he wrote for the "secondo". Of his many compositions for piano duet, the Grand Duo, D812 is the only one comparable in scale to D956. It has often been described as symphonic, and in fact several arrangements for symphony orchestra have been made. The earliest, by Joseph Joachim in 1855, was recorded under Arturo Toscanini in 1944.

An informative summary of the Duo's history was given by Donald Tovey in the first volume of his Essays in Musical Analysis. Schubert's complete manuscript is in the Bodleyan Library in Oxford, and it is remarkable for its clarity and freedom from corrections. If this arrangement proves popular I hope to publish elsewhere a short account of the difficulties I encountered in making it. With that account I will acknowledge the generous help given me by several musicians.

Dynamic markings are Schubert's own. Slurs are his phrasing instructions, not bowing marks. Tempo markings in brackets are my suggestions only.
