A T the importunity of an intimate friend * and great Master in Musick, (who being straitned in time, and hindered from satisfying his own desires for the encouragement of his Scholars) I first undertook this kind of Composition; wherev^e I have endeavoured to comply with the Hands, Ears, and Patience of young Beginners, making the Ayre familiar, the Parts formal, and all facile and short. Which I mention not to deter those of better judgements from perusing them (for they also in the Convexion and harmony will I hope meet with Satisfaction) but to assure you there is scarcely any thing in them that with a little practise may not be master'd by the meanest hand; to which you will find the care in printing of Tyes, Holds, Slurs, and barring the Measures a great advantage. But for such as either fear or scorn to see or hear with content any but their owne Thick-skull'd or Fantastical conceits, they are desir'd to forbear Censuring, or dar'd (observing the designe) to mend them. And for those Mountebanks of wit, who think it necessary to disparage all they meet with of their owne Countrey-mens, becaus^e there have been and are some excellent things done by Strangers, I shall make bold to tell them (and I hope my knowne experiance in this Science will infuse them to confess me a competent Judge) that I never yet saw any Forane Instrumental Composition (a few French Corantes excepted) worthy an English mans Transcribing. I have now done, onely shall desire in the performance of this Consort you would do your selves and me the right to play plain, nor Tearing them in pieces with division, (an old custome of our Countrey Fiddlers, and now under the title of A la mode endeavoured to be introduced) which if you please to observe, I shall take it as a motive for the rendering you somewhat hereafter worthy your better acceptance.
