THE plan of printing Music with four kinds of characters without lines, and the method of teaching by these characters are explained in the Fourth Edition of the Musical Primer, which is for sale in most of the Bookstores in the principal towns in the United States. Price, seventy-five cents single; seven dollars and fifty cents a dozen.

The First Number of the Musical Magazine, or Part Third of the Art of Singing, is here completed. It forms a convenient octave volume of ninety-six pages, and contains a variety of Anthems and Set Pieces; which are selected from the most eminent Authors, ancient and modern. Price, seventy-five cents single; seven dollars and fifty cents a dozen. For sale at the Bookstore of John West, No. 75, Cornhill, Boston, and by other Booksellers.

Additional Numbers may be printed upon this plan, and published as frequently as the public mind shall be prepared to receive them.

The Second Part, or Christian Harmony, will soon be printed in this way. It will contain a great variety of psalm and hymn Tunes; and in connexion with the First Part, will furnish tunes adapted to all the different Metres of the various Collections of Hymns, which are used in the United States.

The Errors in the First Part, not being noticed in their place, are inserted here.

The Tune called Liverpool, composed by Mr. Tuckey of New-York, was published incorrectly by Mr. [unclear]; and by others from him. It is now corrected, and here published, by permission obtained from the Heirs of Mr. Tuckey.
