St. James's*

To the Right Honourable
J O H N,
Marquis of CARNARVON,
Son and Heir Apparent to the
Most Illustrious PRINCE,
JAMES, Duke of Chandois,
This Pocket Volume of Musick
Is most humbly Dedicated,
By His LORDSHIP'S
Most Obedient Servant,
Richard Neale.

PREFACE.

Since Musick has been always esteem'd the most agreeable as well as most innocent Amusement; never failing to please the polite & generous Part of Mankind, tis hop'd the following Entertainment (which has been approv'd of by the best Judges) will meet with that Encouragement and Applause, which we presume is due to the Labour we have been at to make it compleat.

As all things of this Nature that have appear'd in the World, have been generally of a Size more adapted to a Library, than to accompany one Abroad; we flatter our Selves with the hopes of a favourable Reception for this Collection; the manner of introducing it being entirely new, &c.

To give these Airs all possible Advantages, they are correctly Engrav'd on Copper Plates, figur'd for the Harpsicord, and also transpos'd for the Flute, by a carefull and Judicious Master; & may be carried with the greatest ease in the Pockets of Gentlemen and Ladies.

If they meet with a kind Acceptance from those for whose Entertainment they were design'd; they'll fully answer the Ends and Wishes of

The Proprietors.

By an unknown Hand.

On the following OPERA Airs .

Inest sua gratia parvis.

*So small a Space! — yet here we find
All that can ease or charm the Mind:
Whoever does this Jewel wear
May conquer Grief and banish Care;
All-powerful Fate a-while controul,
And, Spite of Woe! make Gay the Soul:
Force black Despair itself to Smile,
And Love's successless Pains beguile.*

*Thus in a little Circle stands
Some wondrous Sage, whose least Commands
Display the Mysteries of his Art
To please the Ear, and joy the Heart,
By Magick Sounds and Mystick Sights
All Senses he at once delights,
To such a height our Transports rise
His Praise is lost in our Surprise .*
