To

The King

Sire!

The following pages, which Your Majesty has most graciously permitted me to introduce to the world under the auspices of your Illustrious Name, will owe their chief recommendation to their having been, by Your Majesty's Command, written to form a part of that sublime and gratifying Solemnity which the Nation has lately beheld, and to their having received the invaluable stamp of Your Majesty's Approbation.

My pretentions Sire, are humble, but whatever merit may be ascribed to this, or to any of my compositions, is wholly attributable to the fostering protection, and princely munificence, which Your Majesty condescended to bestow upon me in my youth, and which alone enabled me to study the science I profess, under that "prodigy of genius," the immortal Mozart.

Deign then, Sire, to receive this tribute, however inadequate, of a truly grateful heart, and permit me to add the assurance that, had my abilities borne any proportion to my feelings, the work which I now presume to lay at Your Majesty's Feet, should have proved an offering more worthy the acceptance of my Exalted and Generous Patron.

I have the honor to subscribe myself with the greatest humility,

Sire,

Your Majesty's most Grateful
and most devoted Servant,

Tho.s Attwood.
