GENERAL PREFACE

GENRELT FORORD

The Carl Nielsen Edition is an independent project under the auspices of the Music Department of the Royal Library, launched in 1994 on the initiative of the Ministry of Culture and funded by the Ministry and the foundation Carl Nielsen og Anne Marie Carl-Nielsens Legat, with further financial support for the publication of the individual volumes from a number of other private foundations.

The edition is for both practical and scholarly use, and is based on critical editorial principles. It comprises all Nielsen's finished works and completed individual pieces, and seeks as far as possible to reflect the works in the version last sanctioned by the composer. In cases where songs exist in several different arrangements by Nielsen, all the versions are published.

Each work is furnished with an introduction which gives a brief account of the genesis of the work and its place in the composer's oeuvre, and a Critical Commentary including source description, editorial emendations and additions, and important alternative readings. The editorial material is published together with the music.

The edition is divided into the three main series Stage Music, Instrumental Music and Vocal Music, each further divided into volumes; within each genre the works are ordered chronologically.

Series I, Stage Music

- Operas
- Incidental music

Series II, Instrumental Music

- Symphonies
- Other orchestral works
- Concertos
- Chamber music
- Piano and organ works
- Symfonier
- Andre orkesterværker
- Koncerter
- Kammermusik
- Klaver- og orgelværker

Carl Nielsen Udgaven er et selvstændigt projekt under Det Kongelige Biblioteks Musikafdeling, iværksat i 1994 på Kulturministeriets foranledning og finansieret af Kulturministeriet og Carl Nielsen og Anne Marie Carl-Nielsens Legat, hvortil kommer støtte fra en række private fonde til udgivelse af de enkelte bind.

Udgaven er til såvel praktisk som videnskabelig brug, tilrettelagt efter kritisk-videnskabelige udgivesprincipper. Den omfatter samtlige Carl Nielsens afsluttede værker og enkelsatser og søger i videst mulige omfang at afspejle værkerne i den af komponisten senest sanktionerede version. I tilfælde, hvor sange foreligger i flere forskellige arrangementer fra Carl Nielsens hånd, udgives alle versioner.

Hvert værk er forsynet med en indledning, der kort beskriver værkets tilblivelseshistorie og placerer det i den samlede produktion, samt en kritisk beretning, hvor der redegøres for kildesituationen, redaktionelle ændringer og tilføjelser og vigtige varianter. Den kritiske beretning udgives sammen med nodeteksten.

Udgaven er opdelt i hovedserierne Scenemusik, Instrumentalmusik og Vokalmusik med tilhørende opdeling i enkeltbind; inden for hver genre er værkerne ordnet kronologisk.

Serie I, Scenemusik

- Operaer
- Skuespilmusik

Serie II, Instrumentalmusik

- Symfonier
- Andre orkesterværker
- Koncerter
- Kammermusik
- Klaver- og orgelværker

Series III, Vocal Music

- Cantatas
- Songs and recitations with piano
- Songs without accompaniment
- Choral Pieces
- Songs arranged for vocal soloists and orchestra

Series IV, Juvenilia et Addenda

Editorial principles

The music is reproduced with no typographical indications of editorial additions or emendations. These are documented in the Critical Commentary. Typography, score disposition, genre names, and instrument names have been normalized in accordance with present-day practice. With a few exceptions, discussed in more detail in the Critical Commentary, the many additions and changes in Nielsen's works that have been made by friends and colleagues have been removed.

Articulation, dynamics, ties and slurs, execution markings and playing instructions have been normalized on the basis of analogies between clearly parallel passages. All such completions are documented in the Critical Commentary. Obvious writing and printing errors have been tacitly corrected.

Nielsen often notated horns and trumpets with key signatures. This practice has been normalized to a notation exclusively using accidentals.

"Muta in" in connection with the retuning of timpani and changes between two instruments (for example clarinet in A and B^b) have been tacitly normalized. This also applies to the combination of ties and slurs.

In Nielsen's manuscripts the dynamic markings are sometimes rather carelessly placed, and this is also reflected in the early printed editions. This has been tacitly adjusted. The same goes for missing punctuation in Nielsen's texts.

Clefs are normally given as in the main source.

Redaktionelle principper

Nodeteksten gengives uden typografisk markering af redaktionelle tilføjelser eller ændringer. Disse er dokumenteret i den kritiske beretning. Typografi, partituropstilling, instrument- og genrebetegnelser er normaliseret efter nutidig praksis. Med enkelte undtagelser, som der er gjort nærmere rede for i den kritiske beretning, er de mange tilføjelser og ændringer i Carl Nielsens værker, der er foretaget af venner og kolleger, fjernet.

Nodeteksten er normaliseret med hensyn til artikulation, dynamik, buer, foredragsbetegnelser og spille tekniske anvisninger således, at der er analogi mellem entydige parallelsteder. Alle sådanne kompletteringer dokumenteres i den kritiske beretning. Oplagte skrive- og trykfejl er stiltiende rettet.

Carl Nielsen noterede ofte horn og trompeter med faste fortegn. Denne praksis er normaliseret til notation udelukkende med løse fortegn.

"Muta in" i forbindelse med omstemning af pauker og skift mellem to instrumenter (f.eks. klarinet i A og B^b) er stiltiende normaliseret. Det samme gælder kombinationen af buer og bindebuer.

I Carl Nielsens manuskripter er de dynamiske angivelser undertiden placeret noget skødesløst, hvilket afspejler sig i de tidlige trykte udgaver. Dette er stiltiende justeret. Ligeledes er manglende, nødvendig tegnsætning i Carl Nielsens tekster stiltiende tilføjet.

Nøgler gengives normalt som i hovedkilden.

P R E F A C E

Carl Nielsen wrote music for no fewer than 22 plays performed in six different theatres, spread over a period of more than 40 years – from the earliest, An Evening at Giske from 1889-90, to the last, Grundtvig Easter Evening, performed less than six months before the death of the composer. So apart from the operas and symphonies, the theatre music is the genre that is most amply represented in Nielsen's overall oeuvre, and among the works are a couple of his most voluminous scores (Aladdin and Sir Oluf He Rides). In the present edition the theatre music has been published in four volumes in series I: volume 6, comprising the early works up to 1918; vol. 7, Sir Oluf He Rides; vol. 8, Aladdin; and vol. 9, the theatre music from the 1920s up to the death of the composer.

With nine works, The Royal Theatre in Copenhagen is the theatre to which Nielsen most frequently contributed stage music.¹ He knew the Theatre from the inside for better or worse, and his various relations with it were at times somewhat strained. In the years 1889-1905 he was employed as a second violinist in the Royal Orchestra, and between 1908 and 1914 as a conductor, after deputizing in this capacity for a short period around 1904-1905. He had to resign both these posts as a result of dissatisfaction with management decisions, and in 1919, in connection with the staging of Aladdin, he engaged in a public polemic on the role of the music in the performance.²

Three of the works were written for performance at the Open Air Theatre in Jægersborg Royal Deer Park north of Copenhagen.³ The establishment of an open air theatre in Denmark had been inspired by similar theatres in Germany and France, where the actor Adam Poulsen⁴ and the poet Lauritz Christian Nielsen,⁵ independently of each other, had attended

Carl Nielsen skrev musik til ikke færre end 22 skuespil, opført på seks forskellige teatre, fordelt over en periode på mere end 40 år – fra det tidligste, En aften på Giske fra 1889-90, til det sidste, Grundtvig-Paaske-Aften, opført mindre end et halvt år før komponistens død. Når der ses bort fra operaerne og symfonierne, er skuespilmusik således den genre, der er fyldigst repræsenteret i Carl Nielsens samlede produktion, og blandt værkerne findes et par af hans allermest omfangsrige partiturer (Aladdin og Hr. Oluf han rider). Skuespilmusikken er i nærværende udgave gengivet i fire bind i Serie I, henholdsvis bind 6 omfattende de tidlige værker frem til 1918, bd. 7 Hr. Oluf han rider, bd. 8 Aladdin og bd. 9 skuespilmusikken fra 1920'erne frem til komponisten død.

Med ni værker er Det Kongelige Teater i København det teater, til hvilket Carl Nielsen hyppigst bidrog med musik til skuespil.¹ Han kendte teatret indefra på godt og ondt og havde i sine forskellige relationer undertiden et noget anstrengt forhold til det. I årene 1889-1905 var han ansat som 2. violinist i Det Kongelige Kapel og mellem 1908 og 1914 som kapelmester efter i en kortere periode omkring 1904-1905 at have vikarieret som sådan. Begge de nævnte faste stillinger måtte han opsigte på grund af utilfredshed med ledelsens dispositioner, ligesom han i 1919, i forbindelse med opsætningen af Aladdin, førte en offentlig polemik omkring musikkens rolle i forestillingen.²

Tre af værkerne er skrevet til opførelse på Friluftsteatret i Jægersborg Dyrehave nord for København.³ Etableringen af et friluftsteater i Danmark var sket under inspiration fra tilsvarende teatre i Tyskland og Frankrig, hvor skuespilleren Adam Poulsen⁴ og digteren Lauritz Christian Nielsen⁵ uafhængigt af hinanden begge havde overværet sådanne forestillinger i such performances in the summer of 1909. The same autumn they drew up plans for the establishment of a similar institution in the Copenhagen area. They realized that the positive involvement of the press was necessary, so the editor of Politiken, Henrik Cavling,⁶ was drawn into the plans at an early stage. In the spring of 1910 a committee was formed to be responsible for the running of the theatre; Nielsen became a member and was most active in the dramatic sub-committee.⁷ Any profits from the performances were to be spent to "send Copenhagen council schoolchildren to holiday camps or for related purposes".⁸

The area Ulvedalene in the Royal Deer Park was well suited, since it was surrounded on three sides by forest, and on one side consisted of a high, broad slope that was laid out for the audience (with space for almost 4.000 people), all landscaped by the artist J.F. Willumsen.⁹ Several of the city's theatres also offered their services by lending costumes and props. In practice the theatre had neither walls nor curtain. The landscape was used as the scenic and acoustic backdrop, and presumably because of the special acoustic conditions Nielsen composed the music for the open-air performances for wind orchestra, whose sound penetrates better than that of string instruments when there are no walls and doors.

The Dagmar Theatre too occupies a prominent place in Nielsen's theatrical output: in the years 1890-1908 he composed music for five of the theatre's productions.¹⁰ This theatre was built in 1883 as Copenhagen's third private theatre – the other so-called 'second theatres' were Casino and The Folke-teatret – and existed until 1937. From 1889 on it succeeded in being a serious competitor to the Royal Theatre, inasmuch as at this time there was an easing of the restrictions that had hitherto limited the repertoire of the private theatres to popular comedies and operettas.¹¹ This more serious repertoire policy is reflected clearly in the productions for which Nielsen wrote music.

Dorph, the chairman of the Journalists' Association Franz V. Jessen, the theatre director Johannes Nielsen, the writer L.C. Nielsen, Consul P. Nørgaard, the actor Adam Poulsen, the actor Johannes Ring, the lawyer Werner and the painter J.F. Willumsen – cf. Beretning om Friluftsteatret i Ulvedalene 1910, Copenhagen 1910.

sommeren 1909. Samme efterår lagde de planer for oprettelsen af en tilsvarende institution i Københavnsområdet. De indså, at det var nødvendigt med pressens positive medvirken, så Politikens redaktør Henrik Cavling⁶ blev tidligt involveret i planerne. I foråret 1910 nedsattes en komité, der stod for driften af teatret, hvor Carl Nielsen blev medlem og især lagde sit virke i komitéens dramatiske udvalg.⁷ Et eventuelt overskud fra forestillingerne skulle anvendes til "Anbringelse af kjøbenhavnske Kommuneskolebørn i Feriekolonier eller dermed beslægtede Formaal."⁸

Ulvedalene i Dyrehaven var velegnet, da de på tre sider var omringet af skov, og på den ene side bestod af en høj, bred skrånning, som blev indrettet til publikum (med plads til hen mod 4.000 personer), alt sammen udtænkt af billedkunstneren J.F. Willumsen.⁹ Flere af byens teatre stillede sig desuden til rådighed med udlån af kostumer og rekvisitter. Teatret var i praksis uden mure og scenetæppe. Man benyttede naturen som kulisse og klangbund, og formentlig på grund af de særlige akustiske forhold komponerede Carl Nielsen musikken til friluftsforestillingerne for blæserorkester, der bedre end strygerinstrumenter kan klinge igennem uden døre.

Også Dagmarteatret indtager en fremtrædende plads i Carl Nielsens skuespilproduktion, idet han i årene 1890 til 1908 komponerede musik til fem af teatrets opstætninger.¹⁰ Dette teater blev opført i 1883 som Københavns tredje privatteater – de øvrige, såkaldte 'Sekondteatre' udgjordes af Casino og Folketeatret – og eksisterede frem til 1937. Fra 1889 gjorde det sig gældende som en seriøs konkurrent til Det Kongelige Teater, idet der på dette tidspunkt inndrægte en lempelse i de restriktioner, som indtil da havde begrænset privatteatrenes repertoire til overvejende at omfatte folkekomedier og operetter.¹¹ Denne mere seriøse repertoirepolitik afspejles tydeligt i de forestillinger, som Carl Nielsen skrev musik til.

The other theatres for which Nielsen wrote stage music were the Aarhus Theatre,¹² The Folk Theatre in Copenhagen,¹³ and the Odense Theatre,¹⁴ to which we can add the performance of the Prologue to Shakespeare on the Kronborg Castle hills in 1916.

The works in this volume have been distributed among the three editors as follows:

Lisbeth Ahlgren Jensen: Tove, Willemoes, Parents, The Wolf's Son and Midsummer Eve Play.

Kirsten Flensburg Petersen: Prologue to Shakespeare, Hagbarth and Signe, Native Land and The Liar.

MUSIC FOR ANDREAS MUNCH'S PLAY AND EVENING AT GISKE

Nielsen's Prelude and Final Chorus for Andreas Munch's¹⁵ one-acter An Evening at Giske were probably composed around New Year 1889-1890, but the further circumstances of their genesis remain obscure. It can be established, however, that this period was marked by great events both in Nielsen's private life and in his musical career. In September 1889 he had been engaged as a violinist in the Royal Orchestra, and the same autumn he had applied for and been awarded the grant Det Anckerske Legat, which was to take him on his first major European journey over the next two years. Finally, it was in this period that his relationship with the sweetheart of his youth – the eight years younger Emilie Demant¹⁶ – ended. Although no statement about the music for An Evening at Giske from the composer appears to have been preserved, it is not difficult to imagine how he might have come by this task. In the years 1889-1891 the close friend of Nielsen's youth and his fellow student at the Conservatory, Vilhelm Rosenberg,¹⁷ was conductor at the Dagmar Theatre, and it seems highly likely that he hired Nielsen to write this music. It must have been

De øvrige teatre, til hvilke Carl Nielsen har skrevet skuespilmusik, omfatter Aarhus Teater,¹² Folketeatret i København,¹³ Odense Teater,¹⁴ hvortil kommer opførelsen af Shakespeare-prologen på Kronborg Slotsbanker i 1916.

Værkerne er i dette bind fordelt mellem de tre redaktører således:

MUSIK TIL ANDREAS MUNCH'S KUERSPILEN EN AFTEN PÅ GISKE

Carl Nielsens Forspil og Slutningskor til Andreas Munchs¹⁵ énakter En Aften paa Giske er sandsynligvis komponeret omkring årsskiftet 1889-1890, men de nærmere omstændigheder omkring tilblivelsen fortører sig i det usvise. Det kan dog fastslås, at denne tid var præget af store begivenheder i såvel Carl Nielsens privatliv som hans musikalske løbebane. I september 1889 var han blevet ansat som violinist i Det Kongelige Kapel, og samme efterår havde han søgt og modtaget Det Anckerske Legat, som i de følgende to år skulle føre ham ud på hans første store europarejse. Endelig var det netop i denne periode, at forholdet til hans ungdomskærlighed – den otte år yngre Emilie Demant¹⁶ – afsluttedes. Skønt der tilsyneladende ikke er bevaret nogen udsagn om musikken til En Aften paa Giske fra komponistens side, er det ikke vanskeligt at forestille sig, hvordan han kan have fået denne opgave. I årene 1889-1891 var Carl Nielsens nære ungdomsven og konservatoriekammerat, Vilhelm Rosenberg,¹⁷ kapelmester ved Dagmarteatret, og det synes oplagt, at han har hyret Carl Nielsen til at skrive denne musik. Det må have været et attraktivt tilbud for den

For the present edition the main source is the score, which has been collated with the instrumental parts and in the case of the singing parts with other relevant sources. No choir parts have been preserved.

The play begins with the personified Prologue's recitation of a poem of homage to summer. Then a citizen of Helsingør, Jeppe Jeppesen, asks the Prologue about Shakespeare and his significance. The Prologue speaks of Shakespeare as the sun of the North with his knowledge of mankind's joys, sorrows and longings, and calls for the poet to be celebrated in music (Music No. 1). The Prologue comes out of the castle with a stranger, both dressed in 16th-century costumes; Jeppesen sees them as ghosts (Music No. 2). The stranger, who turns out to come from England, talks to the Prologue about the Danish and English kings, about the Danes, about 'Elsinore' and Kronborg, and in the course of the conversation the plots of several of Shakespeare's plays are described. The Prologue begins to draw the stranger, while Caliban from Shakespeare's The Tempest sings (Music No. 3). During the song they speak of the duality of the mind with a light and sparkling side and a darker side (Music No. 4, Ariel's Song). In the text of the song the stranger sees the sustaining power of poetry, and in the pauses between the verses in the next song (Music No. 5) the Prologue calls for the imagination to be given free rein.

For the play The Liar, written by the Icelandic-born author Jóhann Sigurjónsson¹⁶⁶ in 1917, Nielsen composed a 'kvad' or lay for song and harp. The plot is a dramatization of a single episode from Njal's Saga, an Icelandic family saga from the time when Christianity came to Iceland, and it includes the burning-down of Njal's house, Bergþorshvol, and the events that led up to this. Sigurjónsson was known to the Copenhagen public, since his play The House of Hraunn had been performed at the Royal Theatre in 1913, Bjærg Ej vind and his Wife at the Dagmar Theatre in 1912 and The Wish in the same place from 22nd January 1915.

I nærværende udgave er hovedkilden det autografe partitur, som er kollationeret med instrumentalstemmerne og for sangstemmernes vedkommende med andre relevante kilder. Der er ikke overleveret korstemmer.

Stykket indledes med Prologenens fremsigelse af et hyldestdigtil sommeren. Herefter udspørger en borger i Helsingør, Jeppe Jeppesen, Prologen om Shakespeare og hans betydning. Denne omtaler Shakespeare som Nordens sol med kendskab til menneskets glæder, sorger og længsler, og opfordrer til at lade digteren fejre i toner (Musik nr. 1). Prologen kommer sammen med en fremmed ud af slottet, begge klædt i 1500-tals dragter; Jeppesen ser dem som spøgelser (Musik nr. 2). Den fremmede, som viser sig at komme fra England, taler med Prologen om de danske og engelske konger, om danskerne, om Helsingør og Kronborg, og i samtalens forløb beskrives handlingen i flere af Shakespeares skuespil. Prologen begynder at tegne den fremmede, mens Kaliban fra Shakespeares Stormen synger (Musik nr. 3). Under sangen taler de om sindets dobbeltsidighed med en lys og sprudlende side og en mere dunkel side (Musik nr. 4, Ariel's Sang). I sangens tekst ser den fremmede poesiens bærende kræfter, og i opholdene mellem versene i den næste sang (Musik nr. 5) opfordrer Prologen til at lade fantasien råde.

Til skuespillet Løgneren, skrevet af den islandskfødte digter, Jóhann Sigurjónsson¹⁶⁶ i 1917, komponerede Carl Nielsen et kvad for sang og harpe. Handlingen er en dramatisering af en enkelt episode fra Njals Saga, som er en islandsk slægtssaga fra den tid, hvor kristendommen kom til Island, og den omfatter afbrændingen af Njals hus, Bergþorshvol, og de begivenheder, der førte hertil. Sigurjónsson var kendt af det københavnske publikum, idet hans skuespil Gaarden Hraunn var blevet opført på Det Kongelige Teater i 1913, Bjærg Ej vind og hans Hustru på Dagmarteatret i 1912 og Ønsket samme sted fra 22. januar 1915.

The play was written at the request of the Danes¹⁶⁷ and accepted for performance at the Royal Theatre on 21st May 1917.¹⁶⁸ The Theatre's dramatic adviser, Otto Borchsenius, was involved in the completion of the play, suggesting several adjustments in the final phase.¹⁶⁹ Prior to the premiere it had been presented to an audience at the Nordic Students' Meeting in Linsberg on 22nd July 1917, where Sigurjónsson read parts of the play.¹⁷⁰ It was also accepted in Stockholm, but was not performed there in the writer's lifetime,¹⁷¹ nor was The Liar performed in Iceland, where his modernization of the saga was unacceptable.¹⁷² The drama was published by Gyldendal in October 1917.¹⁷³

Nielsen was an obvious choice as composer, since he had worked earlier with Njal's Saga in connection with the orchestral work Saga Dream, composed in 1907-1908 and written under the inspiration of the saga – the printed edition from 1920 has a quotation as epigraph: "Now Gunnar dreams; let him enjoy his dream in peace." He had also composed the music for Einar Christiansen's¹⁷⁴ play Native Land, performed at the Royal Theatre in 1916. He may have had plans to write music for yet another saga, since his diary has a brief account of the action in a section of the Saga of Gunnlaug Serpent-Tongue, entered in 1917.¹⁷⁵

The kvad for The Liar has two stanzas, the first sung by the Skald in Act One at a banquet immediately after the guests have toasted Njal (Music No. 1: "Dagene skriver Lykkens Runer"). Act Three begins with Hildigunn, Hoskuld's wife,

Skuespillet blev skrevet på opfordring fra dansk side¹⁶⁷ og antaget til opførelse på Det Kongelige Teater den 21. maj 1917.¹⁶⁸ Teatrets censor, Otto Borchsenius, var involveret i færdiggørelsen af stykket, idet han foreslog flere justeringer i sidste fase.¹⁶⁹ Forud for uropførelsen havde det været præsenteret for et publikum ved Det Nordiske Studentermøde i Linsberg den 22. juli 1917, hvor Sigurjónsson oplæste dele af skuespillet.¹⁷⁰ Ligeledes var det antaget i Stockholm, men blev dog ikke opført der i forfatterens levetid,¹⁷¹ og heller ikke på Island blev Løgneren opført, da man ikke tolererede hans modernisering af sagaen.¹⁷² Dramaet udkom på Gyldendals forlag i oktober 1917.¹⁷³

Carl Nielsen var et oplagt valg som komponist, da han tidligere havde beskæftiget sig med Njals Saga i forbindelse med orkesterværket Saga-Drøm, komponeret i 1907-1908, som var skrevet under inspiration af sagaen og i den trykte udgave fra 1920 bærer et citat: "Nu drømmer Gunnar; lad ham nyde sin Drøm i Fred." I øvrigt havde han komponeret musikken til Einar Christiansens¹⁷⁴ skuespil, Fædreland, som opførtes på Det Kongelige Teater i 1916. Muligvis har han haft planer om musik til endnu en saga, idet hans dagbog rummer et kortfattet referat af handlingen til et udsnit af sagaen om Gunlög Ormstunge, indskrevet i 1917.¹⁷⁵

Kvadet til Løgneren har to strofer, hvor første strofe synges af Skjalden i første akt ved en fest umiddelbart efter, at gæsterne har skålet for Njal (Musik nr. 1: "Dagene skriver Lykkens Runer"). Tredje akt indledes ved, at Hildigunn, humming the kvad. The second stanza appears in Act Four, where the Skald is urged to turn hatred to grief with the song in an attempt to prevent a revenge murder after the murder of Hoskuld (Music No. 2: "Dagene skriver Sorgens Runer").

The play had its first performance on 15th February 1918 in Johannes Nielsen's¹⁷⁶ staging. The press gave it a rather muted reception, and the kvad is not mentioned in any of the reviews, apart from Socialdemokraten, which mentions the composer's name.¹⁷⁷ In the course of the season The Liar had ten performances.

The sources consist of a fair copy, a manuscript copy and a harp part. Among the stage music at the Royal Theatre there is also a sheet of music in the musicologist Angul Hammerich's hand, with four Icelandic melodies: Ijuflingslag, Drinking Song, "Nú skal seggjum segja", "Ut af djypid han Oddur dro". For the first-mentioned melody there are monophonic choral parts transposed up a major third. Apparently these choir parts were not used in the production.

The editorial work has been based on the fair copy. Since the texts in No. 1 and No. 2 are very different in mood, the differences in phrasing have been retained.

Hoskulds hustru, nynner kvadet. Anden strofe forekommer i fjerde akt, hvor Skjalden opfordres til at vende had til sorg gennem sangen i et forsøg på at forhindre et hævnmodt efter mordet på Hoskuld (Musik nr. 2: "Dagene skriver Sorgens Runer").

Skuespillet blev uropført den 15. februar 1918 i Johannes Nielsens¹⁷⁶ iscenesættelse. Pressen gav det en noget mådeholden modtagelse, og kvadet nævnes ikke i nogen af anmeldelserne, bort set fra Socialdemokraten, som nævner komponistens navn.¹⁷⁷ I løbet af sæsonen fik Løgneren ti opførelser.

Kilderne består af en renskrift, en afskrift og en harpestemme. Desuden ligger blandt scenemusikken på Det Kongelige Teater et nodeark i musikforskeren Angul Hammerichs hånd, som rummer fire islandske melodier: Ijuflingslag, Drikkesang, "Nú skal seggjum segja", "Ut af djypid han Oddur dro". Til førstnævnte melodi findes enstemmige korstemer, transponeret en stor terts op. Tilsyneladende har disse korstemer ikke været anvendt i forestillingen.

Revisionen er foretaget på baggrund af renskriften. Da teksten i nr. 1 og nr. 2 er af meget forskellig karakter, er differencer i fraseringen bibeholdt.

In the Critical Commentary the following conventions are used:

- 1 “by analogy with” is used when something has been “added”, “emended” or “omitted” by analogy with another passage in the main source. The analogy may be vertical. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more instruments, it is understood that the analogy is with the same place in the same bar(s). Or it may be horizontal. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more bars, it is understood that the analogy is with a parallel place in the same instrument(s).
- 2 “as in” is used when something is “added”, “emended” or “omitted” to correspond to the same place in another source.
- 3 “in accordance with” is used in cases where there is no authoritative source, only a guideline – for example printed part material.

In the bar number column, the symbol “+” is used to indicate an upbeat to the bar in question.

The only complete source is the Dagmar Theatre’s set of parts (A). In addition there are two vl. 1 parts for the prelude (B), probably copied from Source A, since the rehearsal letters in B are given from the beginning, while they are added in blue crayon in A. The provenance of Source B is unknown, and it is not clear whether B was part of a complete set of parts for the prelude or whether it only served as duplicate parts for Source A. In both A and B a cut (bb. 89-100) is marked in pencil suggesting that the two sources were at some point used at the same event.

The autograph fair copy (A), which has been collated with all relevant sources, has been chosen as the main source. Parts for all the numbers (F) and for Ariel's Song (G) have been copied from the score.

Nielsen has only given one stanza in the score, but in some cases he has added the number of stanzas to be performed. In the secondary sources, however, supplementary stanzas have been included, also in Nielsen's hand. In the present edition the first stanza of all numbers has been based on the score. The remaining stanzas, however, are based on the secondary autograph sources, supplemented by stanzas from the printed edition of the play (I), since it appears that Nielsen knew of the remaining stanzas. The Critical Commentary states precisely from where the individual stanzas have been taken.

For No. 5 in the piano score (E) the composer has specified the text distribution in tenor and bass from bar 6 in stanza 1 and from bar 4 in stanza 2. This text distribution has been used in the present edition.

In addition, there is, among the stage music for The Liar at the Royal Theatre, a music folio in the hand of the musicologist Angul Hammerich, containing four Icelandic melodies: Ljuflingslag ("Máninn hatt á himni skin"), Drikkesang ("Drakk jeg i gær, og drekk jeg enn."), "Nú skal seggjum segja", and "Ut af djypid han Oddur drø". For the first of these melodies there are monophonic chorus parts, transposed up a major third. These chorus parts were apparently not used in the play.

The editing has been based on the fair copy (A). As the texts of Nos. 1 and 2 are very different in mood, the small musical differences have been retained. The text is based on the director's script (D).
