The Carl Nielsen Edition is an independent project under the auspices of the Music Department of the Royal Library, launched in 1994 on the initiative of the Ministry of Culture and funded by the Ministry and the foundation Carl Nielsen og Anne Marie Carl-Nielsens Legat, with further financial support for the publication of the individual volumes from a number of other private foundations.

The edition is for both practical and scholarly use, and is based on critical editorial principles. It comprises all Nielsen's finished works and completed individual pieces, and seeks as far as possible to reflect the works in the version last sanctioned by the composer. In cases where songs exist in several different arrangements by Nielsen, all the versions are published.

Each work is furnished with an introduction which gives a brief account of the genesis of the work and its place in the composer's oeuvre, and a Critical Commentary including source description, editorial emendations and additions, and important alternative readings. The editorial material is published together with the music.

The edition is divided into the three main series Stage Music, Instrumental Music and Vocal Music, each further divided into volumes; within each genre the works are ordered chronologically.

Series I, Stage Music

- Operas
- Incidental music

Series II, Instrumental Music

- Symphonies
- Other orchestral works
- Concertos
- Chamber music
- Piano and organ works

Carl Nielsen Udgaven er et selvstændigt projekt under Det Kongelige Biblioteks Musikafdeling, iværksat i 1994 på Kulturministeriets foranledning og finansieret af Kulturministeriet og Carl Nielsen og Anne Marie Carl-Nielsens Legat, hvortil kommer støtte fra en række private fonde til udgivelse af de enkelte bind.

Udgaven er til såvel praktisk som videnskabelig brug, tilrettelagt efter kritisk-videnskabelige udgivelsesprincipper. Den omfatter samtlige Carl Nielsens afsluttede værker og enkeltsatser og søger i videst mulige omfang at afspejle værkerne i den af komponisten senest sanktionerede version. I tilfælde, hvor sange foreligger i flere forskellige arrangementer fra Carl Nielsens hånd, udgives alle versioner.

Hvert værk er forsynet med en indledning, der kort beskriver værkets tilblivelseshistorie og placerer det i den samlede produktion, samt en kritisk beretning, hvor der redegøres for kildesituationen, redaktionelle ændringer og tilføjelser og vigtige varianter. Den kritiske beretning udgives sammen med nodeteksten.

Udgaven er opdelt i hovedserierne Scenemusik, Instrumentalmusik og Vokalmusik med tilhørende opdeling i enkeltbind; inden for hver genre er værkerne ordnet kronologisk.

Serie I, Scenemusik

- Operaer
- Skuespilmusik

Serie II, Instrumentalmusik

- Symfonier
- Andre orkesterværker
- Koncerter
- Kammermusik
- Klaver- og orgelværker

Series III, Vocal Music

- Cantatas
- A cappella choral pieces
- Songs and recitations with piano, songs without accompaniment
- Songs arranged for vocal soloists and orchestra

Series IV, Juvenilia, Addenda et CorrigendaEditorial principles

The music is reproduced with no typographical indications of editorial additions or emendations. These are documented in the Critical Commentary. Typography, score disposition, genre names, and instrument names have been normalized in accordance with present-day practice. With a few exceptions, discussed in more detail in the Critical Commentary, the many additions and changes in Nielsen's works that have been made by friends and colleagues have been removed.

Articulation, dynamics, ties and slurs, execution markings and playing instructions have been normalized on the basis of analogies between clearly parallel passages. All such completions are documented in the Critical Commentary. Obvious writing and printing errors have been tacitly corrected.

Nielsen often notated horns and trumpets with key signatures. This practice has been normalized to a notation exclusively using accidentals.

"Muta in" in connection with the retuning of timpani and changes between two instruments (for example clarinet in A and B^b) have been tacitly normalized. This also applies to the combination of ties and slurs.

In Nielsen's manuscripts the dynamic markings are sometimes rather carelessly placed, and this is also reflected in the early printed editions. This has been tacitly adjusted.

Clefs are normally given as in the main source.

Serie III, Vokalmusik

- Kantater
- Korsatser a cappella
- Enstemmige sange og recitation med klaver, enstemmige sange uden akkompagnement
- Enstemmige sange i arrangement for orkester

Serie IV, Juvenilia, Addenda et CorrigendaRedaktionelle principper

Nodeteksten gengives uden typografisk markering af redaktionelle tilføjelser eller ændringer. Disse er dokumenteret i den kritiske beretning. Typografi, partituroppstilling, instrument- og genrebetegnelser er normaliseret efter nutidig praksis. Med enkelte undtagelser, som der er gjort nærmere rede for i den kritiske beretning, er de mange tilføjelser og ændringer i Carl Nielsens værker, der er foretaget af venner og kolleger, fjernet.

Nodeteksten er normaliseret med hensyn til artikulation, dynamik, buer, foredragsbetegnelser og spilletekniske anvisninger således, at der er analogi mellem entydige parallelsteder. Alle sådanne kompletteringer dokumenteres i den kritiske beretning. Oplagte skrive- og trykfejl er stiltiende rettet.

Carl Nielsen noterede ofte horn og trompeter med faste fortegn. Denne praksis er normaliseret til notation udelukkende med løse fortegn.

"Muta in" i forbindelse med omstemning af pauker og skift mellem to instrumenter (f.eks. klarinet i A og B^b) er stiltiende normaliseret. Det samme gælder kombinationen af buer og bindebuer.

I Carl Nielsens manuskripter er de dynamiske angivelser undertiden placeret noget skødesløst, hvilket afspejler sig i de tidlige trykte udgaver. Dette er stiltiende justeret.

Nøgler gengives normalt som i hovedkilden.

PIANO WORKS

According to his autobiography, Nielsen's first home housed a disused spinet, which served as a kitchen table, and which excited his curiosity when he was allowed a rare glimpse at the broken mechanism.¹ His first encounter with a piano in working condition is not dated, but it is recounted in a section of the autobiography dealing with his life around the age of six. This was the upright instrument at the home of his mother's blind half-brother, Hans Andersen, an organist at Dalum Church near Odense:

"I cannot remember whether I found chords or triads, but with one finger of each hand I played a long succession of sweet thirds, and as my two fingers thus kept company I thought, remembering a snatch of an old song: 'Two thrushes sat on a beech-tree branch'."²

Nielsen also records the influence on him as a teenager of an old pianist named Outzen, from whom he received his first piano lessons in Odense. It was at this time that he saved up his bandsman's pay to buy an old piano, some cheap tutors and some second-hand music, including a Mozart C major Sonata (most likely KV 545) and Book 1 of Bach's Well-Tempered Clavier.³

From 1884 to 1886 Nielsen took piano lessons with Gottfred Matthison-Hansen⁴ at the Royal Danish Academy of Music in Copenhagen, where his first-year report commented: "very prettily played, cantabile and careful in every respect",

KLAVERVÆRKER

Isine erindringer fortæller Carl Nielsen at der i barndoms-hjemmet fandtes et ubenyttet spinet, der tjente som køkkenbord, og som vakte hans nysgerrighed, når han en sjælden gang fik lov til få et glimt af dets slidte mekanik.¹ Hans første møde med et rigtigt spilbart klaver er ikke dateret, men det beskrives i den del af erindringerne der beskæftiger sig med tiden omkring hans seksårsalder. Det drejede sig om et opretstående klaver hos moderens blinde halvbroder, Hans Andersen, der var organist ved Dalum Kirke nær Odense:

"Jeg husker ikke, om jeg fandt Akkorder eller Treklange, men med en Finger fra hver Haand spillede jeg lange Rækker af såde Tertsgange, og naar mine to Fingre saaledes fulgtes ad, tænkte jeg: 'To Drosler sad paa Bøgekvist'."²

Carl Nielsen fortæller også om hvordan han som teenager mødte en gammel pianist ved navn Outzen og hos ham fik sine første klavertimer i Odense. Det var på den tid han som militärmusiker kunne spare penge op, så han kunne købe et gammelt klaver, nogle billige klaverskoler og nogle antikvariske noder – herunder Mozarts C dur sonate (sandsynligvis KV 545) og første bind af Bachs Wohltemperierte Clavier.³

I årene 1884 til 1886 fik Carl Nielsen klaverundervisning hos Gottfred Matthison-Hansen⁴ på Musikkonservatoriet i København; vidnesbyrdet efter det første år lød således: "meget kjønt foredraget sangbart og omhyggeligt i alle Henseender", og hans udførelse af et af Schuberts Impromptus efter and his playing of a Schubert Impromptu in his third year was described as “clear and precise. Completely secure.”⁵ He never had pretensions to great skill as a pianist, and the repertoire for his annual tests was relatively undemanding.⁶

Nielsen continued to compose at the piano throughout his creative life. Yet by earliest inclination, and notwithstanding several of his teenage years as bugler and alto trombonist in a military band at Odense, he was a violinist. The violin was his first study at the Academy, and it was as a violinist that he earned his living for 16 years in the Royal Theatre Orchestra and enjoyed occasional participation in chamber music-making. A private recording, probably made sometime between December 1920 and 1924 gives a glimpse of Nielsen as pianist, and even briefly (and not entirely convincingly) extemporising.⁷ Only few examples are known of Nielsen performing his own or others’ works in concert as a pianist. On 10 June 1902 at the Svendborg Theatre (Svendborg is on the south coast of the island of Funen) he played his Humoresques for Piano and the Festival Prelude for the New Century.⁸ Another occasion was at a reception held in honour of Nielsen himself at the Danish Embassy in Paris on 22 October 1926, when he played his Humoresque-Bagatelles.⁹ Reports of his pianistic abilities give no indication of hidden prowess. On the contrary, even as staunch a friend and music-making partner as Henrik Knudsen¹⁰ declared that Nielsen’s piano-playing was “hopeless, generally with a vile sound – worse than his violin playing – except for his marvellous musical and artistic intentions.”¹¹

All the same, in his early composing years, and again during the last 15 years of his life, Nielsen composed piano music at fairly regular intervals (during the gap between 1897 and 1916 he produced only two short pièces d’occasion: the tredje år blev beskrevet som “tydeligt og klart. Ret sikkert.”⁵ Han nærede dog ingen ambitioner om at udvikle sig til den store pianist, og repertoairet ved hans årsprøver stillede forholdsvis beskedne pianistiske krav.⁶

I resten af sit liv komponerede Carl Nielsen normalt ved klaveret; han var dog – på trods af ungdomsårenes virksomhed som militärmusiker i Odense – først og fremmest violinist. Violinen var hans hovedinstrument på konservatoriet, og som violinist fik han sit udkomme gennem 16 år i Det Kongelige Kapel og lejlighedsvis som kammermusiker. En privatoptagelse, som formentlig stammer fra perioden mellem december 1920 og 1924, giver et indtryk af Carl Nielsen som pianist – oven i købet i et kort øjeblik også som (ikke særlig overbevisende) improvisator.⁷ Der kendes kun få eksempler på at Carl Nielsen har optrådt offentligt som pianist med egne eller andres værker. På Svendborg Theater den 10. juni 1902 spillede han Humoresker for Piano samt Festpræludium ved Aarhundredskiftet,⁸ og ved en reception afholdt til ære for ham selv på den danske ambassade i Paris den 22. oktober 1926 spillede han sine Humoreske-Bagateller.⁹ Ej heller er der andre vidnesbyrd om at han skulle have eventuelle evner på dette felt. Tværtimod erklærede en af hans bedste venner, kammermusikpartneren Henrik Knudsen,¹⁰ at hans klaverspil var “haablost, det klang nederdrægtigt i Reglen, værre end Violinspillet, bortset fra alle de musikermæssige og kunstneriske storartede Intentioner.”¹¹

På trods af dette skrev han regelmæssigt klavermusik, både i sine tidlige år som komponist og igen gennem de sidste 15 år af sit liv (i den mellemliggende periode mellem 1897 og 1916 foreligger kun to korte lejlighedsværker, Fest-Prælu-

The performance received a brief review in Fyns Tidende 12.6.1902. Earlier, at a concert in The Private Chamber Music Society on 16.11.1899 Nielsen accompanied the singer Vilhelm Herold in a selection of his own songs (according to the printed programme the concert also included the Sonata for Violin and Piano and the String Quartet in G minor, Op. 13).

Aftenens program blev efterfølgende kort omtalt i Fyns Tidende 12.6.1902. Hertil kommer at Carl Nielsen ved en koncert 16.11.1899 i Privat Kammermusikforening akkompagnerede Vilhelm Herold i et udvalg af sine sange (ifølge det trykte koncertprogram opfortes yderligere violinsonaten, opus 9 og strygekvartetten i g mol, opus 13).

Festival Prelude and A Dream about 'Silent Night'). Five of these works – the Symphonic Suite, Chaconne, Theme and Variations, Suite, and Three Piano Pieces – are of significant scale and achievement, both in terms of Nielsen's oeuvre and of early 20th-century piano music as a whole. Their artistic success has been variously assessed. Adverse criticism of their piano writing dates back to Walter Niemann's book on Nordic piano music.¹² Yet for other commentators the piano works are more revealing than any other genre of the essential Nielsen,¹³ thanks partly to the colouristic limitations of the medium, which throw greater musical weight onto the notes themselves, and partly to the fact that he did not approach the instrument with the pre-formed instincts of a professionally adept exponent.

Various performers championed Nielsen's piano music in his own lifetime, including Louis Glass,¹⁴ Johanne Stockmarr,¹⁵ Alexander Stofffregen,¹⁶ Christian Christiansen,¹⁷ Herman D. Koppel¹⁸ and, in Germany, Eduard Erdmann.¹⁹ There is anecdotal evidence for their input into certain details of the first published editions, firmly documented in the case of Stofffregen and the Chaconne.²⁰ As a result, two more recent editions of the piano music have in varying degrees favoured returning to Nielsen's manuscripts, with the aim of eliminating other people's modifications of his compositional intentions.²¹ However, in no instance do the surviving sources available to the Carl Nielsen Edition give documentary evidence of the composer's dissatisfaction with the editions published in his lifetime, other dium og Dømmen om 'Glade Jul'). Fem af disse værker – Symphonisk Suite, Chaconne, Thema med Variationer, Suite, og Tre Klaverstykker – er betydelige værker, både set i lyset af Carl Nielsens samlede produktion og i lyset af klavermusikken som sådan i begyndelsen af det 20. århundrede. Deres kunstneriske kvalitet er blevet vurderet forskelligt. Kritikken af det pianistiske i værkerne går tilbage til Walter Niemanns bog om nordisk klavermusik.¹² Men for andre kommentatorer¹³ viser klaverværkerne mere end nogen anden genre den egentlige Carl Nielsen, dels som en følge af instrumentets begrænsede klangelige muligheder som derved sætter det musikalske fokus på selve noderne, dels på grund af at han ikke nærmer sig instrumentet med den professionelle virtuos' forudfattede pianistiske tilgang.

Adskillige pianister bidrog til udbredelsen af Carl Nielsens klavermusik allerede i hans egen levetid, heriblandt Louis Glass,¹⁴ Johanne Stockmarr,¹⁵ Alexander Stofffregen,¹⁶ Christian Christiansen,¹⁷ Herman D. Koppel¹⁸ og i Tyskland Eduard Erdmann.¹⁹ Ifølge overleveringen foretog flere af dem forskellige indgreb i musikken efterhånden som værkerne blev trykt – hvilket for Stofffregens vedkommende kan dokumenteres ved Chaconne.²⁰ Som en følge heraf har to af de nyere udgaver af klavermusikken forsøgt at bringe musikken mere i overensstemmelse med komponistens manuskripter ved at fjerne den fremmede indgraben og forsøge at komme nærmere til Carl Nielsens oprindelige intentioner.²¹ Imidlertid er der intet i det overleverede kildemateriale der dokumenterer, than a few corrections of minor typographical errors. Accordingly, these early editions are taken as the principal sources for the current Critical Edition, with the exception of Op. 59, which was published posthumously, and for which Nielsen's fair copies therefore represent his last documentable intentions. In some instances, minor corrections are to be found in the composer's hand in his copies of the published scores (see the Critical Commentary at the end of the present volume). Where different performance traditions have become established as a result of choice between manuscripts or first editions, the rejected alternatives are shown by musical examples in the list of emendations and by facsimiles at the end of this Preface.

Nielsen's early manuscripts include a number of complete movements for piano. These will be included in the final volume of the Carl Nielsen Edition – Juvenilia, Addenda et Corrigenda. The *Cobbler's Wedding March*²² (Skomagerens Brudevals) is excluded since it is considered to be a composition by Nielsen's father.

FIVE PIANO PIECES, OPUS 3

Nielsen assembled his first published collection of piano pieces during his extended study tour of European cultural centres in 1890-1891. He had apparently completed Nos. 2 (originally entitled Novellette) and 5 (originally Elfentanz) earlier, since these are preserved along with the memoirs of Emilie Demant Hatt²³ and were therefore presumably notated during their times together in the summers of 1887-1889, or perhaps sent to Emilie from Copenhagen as gifts. He noted his progress on several of the others, together with ideas for their publication, in his diary, which he began to keep on 1 September 1890, two days before embarking on a lengthy European tour. On 12 September 1890 in Dresden, he recorded: "Have composed a Piano Piece in A minor: In Folk Style",²⁴ on 27 October, now in Berlin: "Composed 'The Devil' today [original title for No. 3, Arabesque]; Fini²⁵ thinks that it is something completely new in music",²⁶ the next day: "Today I had the idea for publishing my 3-4 piano pieces in the form at komponisten var utilfreds med de udgaver som forelå i hans levetid, når man ser bort fra et mindre antal rettelser af trykfejl. Disse tidlige tryk har derfor udgjort hovedkilderne for nærværende kritiske udgave med undtagelse af opus 59 som først blev trykt posthumt, og hvor Carl Nielsens renskrift derfor representerer komponistens seneste, dokumenterede intentioner. I enkelte tilfælde indeholder de trykte udgaver mindre rettelser i komponistens hånd; disse er registreret i den kritiske beretning i nærværende bind. I tilfælde hvor en bestemt opførelsestradition er blevet knæsat som følge af et valg blandt flere manuskripter eller førsteudgaver, er de ikke-valgte alternativer anført som musiksempler i den kritiske beretning.

Carl Nielsens tidlige manuskripter indeholder yderligere et antal satser for klaver; disse vil blive bragt i Carl Nielsen Udgavens afsluttende bind, Juvenilia, Addenda et Corrigenda. *Skomagerens Brudevals*²² er udeladt, eftersom den menes at være komponeret af Nielsens far.

FEM KLAVERSTYKKER, OPUS 3

Indholdet af sin første trykte samling klaverstykker sammenstillede Carl Nielsen under sin store rejse til europæiske kulturcentre i 1890-1891. Han havde øjensynligt allerede tidligere komponeret nr. 2 (oprindeligt med titlen Novellette) og 5 (oprindeligt Elfentanz), eftersom disse er overlevet sammen med Emilie Demant Hatts erindringer²³ og derfor formentlig nedskrevet under deres samvær i årene 1887-1889 eller muligvis sendt til Emilie fra København som gave. I sin dagbog, påbegyndt 1. september 1890 to dage før han drog ud på den lange Europarejse, noterede han hvordan arbejdet med flere af de andre stykker skred fremad, og fremsatte forskellige ideer om hvordan han kunne få stykkerne trykt. Den 12. september 1890 i Dresden skriver han: "Har komponeret et Clavérstykke i a moll: i Folketone";²⁴ 27. oktober, nu i Berlin: "Componerede 'Fanden' idag [oprindelig titel på nr. 3, Arabesk]; Fini²⁵ mener det er noget helt Nyt i Musiken",²⁶ den følgende dag: "Har idag faaet Ideen til at udgive mine 3-4 Clavérstykker i warning and encouraging, has to beat out its two-note 'Look out!'. This Suite, whose remaining movements, however, have nothing like the same spontaneity as the finale, was played with true mastery by Mr. Christian Christiansen – a magnificent achievement, which he has seldom equalled."¹³⁰

Extant autograph sources for the Suite are a complete pencil draft, with occasional sketches (C), and a fair copy of movements 1, 2 and 5 (B), evidently made for Margrete Rosenberg. A fair copy of movements 1-4 and 6 survives in the hand of Nancy Dalberg (D) but shows no signs of having been used as the printer's copy, which must be presumed lost. As in the case of the Chaconne, it may be that some of the unique readings in the first printed edition, published by C.F. Peters Musikverlag in 1923 (A), represent the advice of pianist friends of the composer, but in the absence of any evidence for Nielsen's disapproval, this score is taken as the main source.

THREE PIANO PIECES

Nielsen mentions his completion of the first of his Three Piano Pieces on 17 January 1928, in a letter to Irmelin, who was then in New York: "I have composed a new piece for solo violin, and one (a little one) for piano."¹³¹ On the same day his wife wrote to Irmelin, probably describing the composer playing through the already completed piece: "And he is sitting now working on something very beautiful for the piano in the evening, and I'm sitting inside in the living room, listening. When I ask him what it is or what it's going to become, he says he doesn't know."¹³²

On 25 January another letter to Irmelin, written from Lillehammer in Norway, where Nielsen and his wife were on a skiing holiday, again mentions the pieces for violin and for piano, now identifying the latter as Impromptu, and over the next three weeks both Frida Møller and Margrete Rosenberg wrote to thank Nielsen for copies of the piece.

The second piece is dated 1 March in the manuscript, and the Adagio and Impromptu (in that order) were played by Christian Christiansen for the New Music Society (Foreningin-

De bevarede autografe kilder til suiten omfatter en komplet blyantskladde med spredte skitser (C) og en renskrift af første, anden og femte sats (B), formentlig udarbejdet til Margrete Rosenberg. Renskrift i Nancy Dalbergs hånd er overleveret af satserne 1-4 samt 6 men udviser ikke nogen tegn på at have været anvendt som trykforlæg, hvilket således må formodes at være gået tabt. Som det var tilfældet med Chaconne, er det muligt at en række detaljer i nodeteksten i den trykte udgave fra 1923 hos C.F. Peters Musikverlag (A) skyldes råd fra nogle af komponistens pianistvenner. Da der ikke er belæg for at hævde at Carl Nielsen tog afstand fra disse ændringer, er førstetrykket valgt som hovedkilde for nærværende udgave.

TRE KLAVERSTYKKER

To dage efter at have sluttet renskriften nævner Carl Nielsen i brev af 17. januar 1928 til Irmelin, som på det tidspunkt opholdt sig i New York, at han har fuldført det første af de tre klaverstykker: "Har komponeret en ny Ting for Soloviolin og en (lille) for Claver."¹³¹ Samme dag fortalte hustruen i et brev til Irmelin hvordan komponisten havde gennemspillet sandsynligvis netop dette stykke: "Så sidder han nu og laver noget meget smukt på Claveret om Aftenen, og jeg sidder inde i Dagligstuen og lytter. Når jeg spørger ham hvad det er eller skal være siger han han ved det ikke."¹³²

I et nyt brev til Irmelin, skrevet den 25. januar fra Lillehammer i Norge hvor Carl Nielsen var på skiferie med sin hustru, omtales igen nogle stykker for violin og for klaver, sidstnævnte nu under titlen Impromtu, og i løbet af de kommende tre uger skrev både Frida Møller og Margrete Rosenberg til Carl Nielsen for at takke ham for kopier af stykket.

Det andet stykke er i manuskriptet dateret 1. marts og Adagio og Impromtu (i nævnte rækkefølge) blev spillet af Christian Christiansen ved Foreningen Ny Musiks koncert på gen Ny Musik) on 14 April 1928 at Borups Højskole. In a letter to his wife, Nielsen reported on the dress rehearsal at Christiansen's house earlier the same day, noting that "Christiansen played his two [pieces] excellently."¹³³ Reviewing the concert, Kai Flor noted that they were "worthy of their author and received a sparkling, tonally nuanced performance."¹³⁴

After an interval of eight months, largely taken up with Nielsen's work on the Clarinet Concerto, he completed the third piece on 6 November, which is mentioned in his correspondence to Eduard Erdmann:

"I've long wanted to dedicate some new piano pieces to you, but I've been taken up with various work and duties. Nevertheless I'm now sending you a modest harvest from the field of my work – three new piano pieces. It was fun to compose these three little sisters, but that's no guarantee of their quality, and since I'm personally implicated in the affair, I mustn't sit in judgment and instead must just keep my mouth shut."¹³⁵

On 7 August 1929 Johanne Stockmarr proposed to Nielsen that she should play all three pieces in a recital on 11 December, together with some or all of the Piano Music for Young and Old (see below):

"I behaved like a complete blockhead the other day; I so wanted to talk to you about the fact that for my piano recital – which was unfortunately postponed last year – I should like to play the three pieces, the new ones, and that I should therefore like to ask permission to borrow the one that you unfortunately had to pick up – I have the other two. Now the piano recital will quite certainly not happen until 11 December – I have the hall for that evening. But I should like to know whether it's all right with you if I play the three pieces."¹³⁶

However, this recital seems to have been postponed until 5 May 1930, when Stockmarr performed the Three Piano Pieces in the lesser hall of the Odd-Fellow Palæ.

Meanwhile the first complete performance had been given by Christian Christiansen on 6 March 1930 in the Antiksal of the Glyptotek, the art gallery in central Copenhagen, endowed by the Carlsberg Foundation. The programme, delayed from 4 March because of the indisposition of the singer, Poul

Borups Højskole den 14. april 1928. I et brev til sin hustru bemærkede Nielsen at "Christiansen udførte ogsaa sine to [stykker] fortreffeligt" ved generalprøven i Christiansens hjem.¹³³ I sin anmeldelse af koncerthen skrev Kai Flor at stykkerne var "sin autor værdig og fik en gnistrende, klangligt nuanceret Gengivelse."¹³⁴

Efter en pause på otte måneder, hvor Carl Nielsen først og fremmest havde arbejdet på klarinetkoncerten, kunne han den 6. november afslutte det tredje stykke således som det er nævnt i et brev til Eduard Erdmann:

"Schon lange habe ich daran gedacht, Ihnen einige neue Klavierstücke zu widmen, bin aber von verschiedenen Arbeiten und Pflichten genommen. Jetzt sende ich Ihnen trotzdem eine bescheidene Ernte von meinem Arbeitsfelde – drei kleine Klavierstücke. Es hat mich amüsiert die drei Schwestern zu komponieren, aber es ist ja kein Kriterium, daß sie auch gut sind, und da ich persönlich in der Sache impliziert bin, muß ich als Schiedsrichter nett und zierlich meinen Mund halten."¹³⁵

Den 7. august 1929 foreslog Johanne Stockmarr Carl Nielsen at spille stykkerne ved en koncert den 11. december sammen med samlingen Klavermusik for Smaa og Støre (et udvalg af stykkerne eller dem alle; se nærmere i det følgende):

"Jeg bar mig ad som et stort Fæ forleden Dag; jeg vilde saa gærne have talt med dig om, at jeg til min Klaverafarten, som jo desværre blev utsat forrige Aar, gærne vilde spille de 3 Stykker, de nye, og saa maa jeg jo altsaa have Lov at laane det igen, som du jo desværre lod hente; de 2 andre har jeg. Nu er Klaveraftenen ganske vist først d. 11^{te} Dec., jeg har Salen den Aften; men jeg vilde gærne vide, om det passer dig, at jeg spiller de 3 Ting."¹³⁶

Koncerthen synes imidlertid at være blevet udskudt til 5. maj 1930 hvor Johanne Stockmarr opførte Tre Klaverstykker i Odd-Fellow Palæets Mindre Sal.

Forinden havde den første komplette opførelse fundet sted ved Christian Christiansen; det foregik den 6. marts 1930 i Antiksalen på Glyptoteket. Programmet, udskudt fra den 4. marts på grund af sangeren Poul Wiedemanns indisposition, blev gentaget den 7. marts og bestod yderligere af César Wiedemann, was repeated on 7 March. It also included César Franck's Prelude, Chorale and Fugue, songs by Nielsen (including a new one, Hjemstavn,¹³⁷ to words by Frederik Poulsen) and others.

Gunnar Hauch found the pieces "very typical of their composer, even if they perhaps do not belong to those of his works that will win the widest renown. The first, 'Allegro fluente', seemed to have the strongest character".¹³⁸ An anonymous review noted of the Three Piano Pieces that Christiansen "allowed their remarkable pianistic qualities, their polyphonic timbral richness and clear structure to emerge beautifully".¹³⁹ Presumably in view of the earlier performance of the Adagio and Impromptu, this review mentioned that the pieces were presented "in altered and expanded form", and the same claim was made by Kai Flor¹⁴⁰ for Stockmarr's performance on 5 May 1930 in the Odd-Fellow Palæ, lesser hall, in a recital that included the Humoresque-Bagatelles and the Suite, the Three Piano Pieces being advertised on the programme as "Second Performance"; Flor mistakenly noted this as a first performance of the pieces in their new form.

Nielsen's draft score of the first and third pieces and his fair copy of all three, are extant. Several manuscript copies were made before the eventual publication (posthumously in 1937). These include two copies of the Adagio made by Nielsen, and one of all three pieces and one of No. 3 by an unknown copyist with sporadic pencil indications in the composer's hand. Since the first publication was posthumous, the fair copies – in the case of No. 2, the apparently most correct of the fair copies – are taken as the main source.

PIANO MUSIC FOR YOUNG AND OLD, OPUS 53

On 18 December 1929 Nielsen gave an introductory address at the Music-Pedagogic Society (Musikpædagogisk Forening) at Borups Højskole in Copenhagen, in the course of which he observed:

"If we are to debate this evening the question of whether our composers could imagine composing music which on the one hand has a folk-like, or better, accessible character, and on the other hand would be suitable for teaching purposes – for not Francks Prélude, Chorale et Fugue, sange af Carl Nielsen (heriblandt den nykomponerede *Hjemstavn*¹³⁷ til tekst af Frederik Poulsen) og andre.

Gunnar Hauch fandt stykkerne "meget typiske for deres Autor, selv om de maaske ikke hører til dem af hans Arbejder, som vil vinde videst Terræn. Stærkest i Karakteren syntes den første 'Allegro fluente' at virke".¹³⁸ En anonym anmelder noterede om de Tre Klaverstykker at Christian Christiansen "lod deres udmarkede klavermaessige Egenskaber, deres polyfone Klangrigdom og klare Struktur træde smukt frem".¹³⁹ Sandsynligvis med henvisning til den tidlige opførelse af Adagio og Impromptu oplyser denne anmelder at stykkerne blev præsenteret i "ændret og øget Form"; noget lignende siges af Kai Flor¹⁴⁰ om Johanne Stockmarrs opførelse den 5. maj 1930 i Odd-Fellow Palæets Mindre Sal ved en koncert der også omfattede Humoreske-Bagateller og Suite opus 45; her annonceres klaverstykkerne i programmet som "Anden Opførelse", mens Flor fejlagtigt taler om en førsteopførelse i deres nye skikkelse.

Carl Nielsens blyantskladde af første og tredje stykke samt renskriften af alle tre stykker er bevaret. Før den endelige trykning forelå (posthumt i 1937), blev udarbejdet en række kopier, heraf to af Adagio i Carl Nielsens hånd, yderligere en af alle tre stykker samt en af nr. 3 i fremmed hånd med enkelte blyantsnotater af Carl Nielsen. Eftersom førstetrykket udkom posthumt, er renskriften (A) anvendt som hovedkilde for nr. 1 og 3 i nærværende udgave, mens B er anvendt som hovedkilde for nr. 2.

KLAVERMUSIK FOR SMAA OG STORE, OPUS 53

Den 18. december 1929 holdt Carl Nielsen et foredrag på Borups Højskole i København ved et møde i Musik-pædagogisk Forening hvor han bl.a. sagde:

"Naar vi nu iaften skal drøfte det Spørgsmaal om vore Komponister kunde tænke sig at være med til at komponere Musik som dels har en folkelig eller rettere letfattelig Karakter og dels egnede sig til Undervisningsbrug for den ikke altfor teknisk

In the Critical Commentary the following conventions are used:

- 1 “by analogy with” is used when something has been “added”, “emended” or “omitted” by analogy with another passage in the main source. The analogy may be vertical. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more instruments, it is understood that the analogy is with the same place in the same bar(s). Or it may be horizontal. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more bars, it is understood that the analogy is with a parallel place in the same instrument(s).
- 2 “as in” is used when something is “added”, “emended” or “omitted” to correspond to the same place in another source.
- 3 “in accordance with” is used in cases where there is no authoritative source, only a guideline – for example printed part material.

In the bar number column, the symbol “+” is used to indicate an upbeat to the bar in question.

and sixth movement are extant, with the exception of the variant bars in sixth movement found with the draft score (C). Numerous significant differences between both B and C and Nancy Dalberg's fair copy (D) suggest that she must have prepared her copy from a source that has not survived. Similarly the extensive unique readings in the first printing (A) suggest the existence of a further intermediate source, no longer extant. Important variants between the first printing and other sources are shown by musical examples in the Editorial Emendations and are reproduced as facsimiles, pp. lxiv-lxi. Of these, the variant reading at b. 19 is prima facie more plausible than the version in A, printed here. However, if the latter was incorrect, it would represent a double error on the part of the engraver (omitting an 8^{va} sign and misnotating by a second) not noticed by Nielsen at proof stage. For this reason, the reading in the main source is equally likely to represent a change of mind on the part of the composer, and the plausibility of the variant is considered insufficient to warrant departure from the principles of the present edition.

From the draft score (D), Nielsen prepared the fair copy (A) and later the copies of No. II (B, C) which include the corrections noted separately in A. It is not possible to determine the chronology of B and C, and each contains a number of evident mis-copyings as well as corrections. As B is more carefully notated, it is taken as the main source for the second piece, together with the first and third pieces in A. Since I was published posthumously it is not taken into account in the preparation of the current edition. ²¹ "The indications of dynamic from the beginning until the new tempo [b.25] have been added by Christian Christiansen according to the wishes of Carl Nielsen, who wanted the performer to be free to shape the sonorous expression in this section and who therefore did not notate any dynamic nuances. The indications should therefore only be regarded as suggestions."

²⁰ "this line written by the master himself".
