PREFACE

CONCERTO FOR FLUTE AND ORCHESTRA

The flute concerto was composed in 1926. During the preceding ten years Carl Nielsen had composed many of his central works: the music for Aladdin, composed in 1917-18, the Fifth Symphony from 1921-22 and the Sixth Symphony, which was premiered in December 1925, as well as a number of works for smaller ensembles, including the Wind Quintet from 1922, and finally two important works for solo instrument, the Suite for piano, composed in 1919-20, and the Prelude and Theme with Variations for solo violin from 1923. Furthermore many of Carl Nielsen's Danish songs for communal singing in various popular contexts appeared in these years.

Although the flute concerto was composed relatively late in Carl Nielsen's life, it was the first time he used the flute as a solo instrument in a major work. Earlier he had composed for flute in The Mother from 1920, where there are three striking passages for flute, including The Fog is Lifting. To these we can add a longer flute solo in the third act of Masquerade from 1905-1906, while the flute is also used in the Wind Quintet from 1922.

Part of the flute concerto was composed on a journey abroad from August 1926 until the middle of October 1926. Carl Nielsen had been appointed by the 'court singer' Emil Holm, director of the newly established Danish Broadcasting Corporation,¹ as a member of a commission whose brief was to decide what type of radio transmitter should be built at the new radio station in Kalundborg. After the work of the commission was over he travelled to Italy, where his daughter, Anne Marie Telmányi,² and her husband Emil Telmányi,³ were staying. Carl

KONCERT FOR FLØJTE OG ORKESTER

Fløjtekoncerten er komponeret i 1926. I de foregående ti år havde Carl Nielsen komponeret mange af sine meget centrale værker: musikken til Aladdin, komponeret i 1917-18, 5. symfoni fra 1921-22 og 6. symfoni, der blev uropført i december 1925, hvortil kommer en række værker for mindre besætning, heriblandt Blæserkvintet fra 1922, og endelig to væsentlige værker for soloinstrument, Suite for klaver, komponeret i 1919-20, og Præludium og Tema med Variationer for solo violin fra 1923. Desuden udkom i disse år mange af Carl Niensens danske sange til fællessang i folkelige forsamlinger.

Selv om fløjtekoncerten er komponeret relativt sent i Carl Niensens liv, er det første gang han bruger fløjten som soloinstrument i et større værk. Tidligere havde han komponeret for fløjte i Moderen fra 1920, hvor der findes tre markante passager for fløjte, heriblandt: Taaen letter. Hertil kommer en længere fløjtesolo i 3. akt af Maskarade fra 1905-1906, ligesom fløjten indgår i Blæserkvintet fra 1922.

En del af fløjtekoncerten er komponeret på rejse i udlandet fra august 1926 til midten af oktober 1926. Carl Nielsen var af Kammersanger Emil Holm, direktør for den nystiftede Statsradiofoni,¹ blevet udpeget til medlem af en kommission, hvis opgave var at afgøre, hvilken type radiosender man skulle anlægge ved den nyopførte radiostation i Kalundborg. Efter kommissionens arbejde rejste han til Italien, hvor hans datter, Anne Marie Telmányi,² og hendes mand, Emil Telmányi,³

Nielsen planned to be back in Copenhagen by 7th September for entrance auditions for the Royal Danish Academy of Music,⁴ but he was held up by illness and did not come back until between 8th and 13th October.⁵

During the last months before his trip he had the idea of composing “a largish thing for clarinet and small orchestra”, as he wrote in May 1926 in a letter to Anne Marie and Emil Telmányi.⁶ He changed his mind, however, before he started on the work, for on 22nd July 1926 he wrote to Carl Johan Michaelsen:⁷

“I haven’t begun on the clarinet thing and now and then I have had an idea that would ‘suit’ the flute well. – Should I rather write a flute piece first?

I’m thinking in this respect about Paris and I’d like to hear a word or two from you about the matter; whether Gilbert⁸ is going and what could come of it.”⁹

He mentions the work on the flute concerto in many letters over the next few months.¹⁰ On 4th September 1926 he describes to Carl Johan Michaelsen in more detail how the work is progressing and what he thinks of the concerto:

“The flute concerto is going well and just today I have finished the first movement, which has come out well; but it is very difficult for the soloist, so there will be something to study for opholdt sig. Carl Nielsen havde planer om at være tilbage i København den 7. september til optagelsesprøver på Det Kongelige Danske Musikkonservatorium,⁴ men han blev opholdt af sygdom og kom ikke tilbage før mellem den 8. og 13. oktober.⁵

I de sidste måneder inden rejsen havde han en forestilling om at komponere “en større Ting for Klarinet og mindre Orkester”, som han skriver i maj 1926 i et brev til Anne Marie og Emil Telmányi.⁶ Han ombestemmer sig dog inden han kommer i gang med arbejdet, for den 22. juli 1926 skriver han til Carl Johan Michaelsen.⁷

“Jeg har ikke begyndt paa Klarinet-Sagen og af og til er der faldet mig noget ind som vilde ‘staa’ godt for Fløjte. – Skulde jeg hellere først skrive en Fløjtehistorie ?

Jeg tænker herved paa Paris og jeg vilde gerne lige høre et Ord fra Dig om Sagen; om Gilbert⁸ skal med og hvad det kan blive til.”⁹

Han nævner arbejdet med fløjtekoncerten i mange breve de følgende måneder.¹⁰ Mere udførligt beskriver han den 4. september 1926 overfor Carl Johan Michaelsen, hvordan arbejdet skrider frem, og hvad han synes om koncerten:

“Med Fløjtekoncerten gaar det godt og netop idag er jeg blevet færdig med I Sats som er lykkedes godt; men den er ret vanskelig for Solisten, saa der bliver noget at studere for den gode the good Gilbert. This movement will be by far the most important, from the content side too; it plays 10 minutes and in fact could stand alone, so if I were to drop the rest – as I do not hope to, or have in mind – then it can easily be played alone. The other movements will of course be short. Unfortunately I have forgotten the first sheet of the score at home but have written for it and on Monday the flute part with the outline accompaniment can be in Copenhagen. I am sending it to you since I do not know Jespersen's address. I only hope the two of you will like the piece; I have worked and thought a lot about the instrument and the orchestral accompaniment is very finely honed, almost like chamber music. The orchestra, besides the solo part, consists of 2 oboes, 2 clarinets, 2 bassoons, 2 horns, 1 bass trombone, timpani and string orchestra."¹¹

And again to Carl Johan Michaelsen on 13th September 1926:

"I am writing to Behrend again about the press etc., but he has asked me to write something that could be quoted, but that is at present impossible for me as I am working concentratedly and the second section – there will only be one pause in the flute concerto – is still not clear to me. Yet I think that two or three small movements will be intertwined as in the violin concert's second, more or less."¹²

It appears that he had certain problems composing the second movement. To Rudolph Simonsen,¹³ for example, he wrote on 14th September 1926:

"I am looking forward to seeing you and your wife and hearing what you say to my flute affair, which has kept me very busy. The first section is very large and has been kept chamber-like with a contrapuntal-symphonic development, and I think it has succeeded; at all events I have taken great trouble with it. The second part will be an intertwining of an allegretto and andante, sort of rondoish in form; but at present I only have it in my head, since I have had to send the fair copy and the written-out solo part to Copenhagen for rehearsal by Gilbert J., who is to play it in Paris on 21st October."¹⁴

Gilbert. Denne Sats bliver langt den vigtigste, ogsaa fra Indholdets Side; den spiller 10 Minutter og kan i og for sig godt staa alene, saa hvis jeg skulde frafalde Resten – hvad jeg ikke haaber eller har isinde – saa kan den udmærket spilles alene. De andre Satser bliver naturligvis korte. Desværre har jeg glemmt det første Ark af Partituret hjemme men har skrevet efter det og paa Mandag kan Fløjtestemmen med underlagt Udtog være i Kjøbenhavn. Jeg sender det til Dig da jeg ikke ved Jespersens Adresse. Blot I nu maa synes om Stykket; jeg har arbejdet og tænkt meget paa Instrumentet og Orkesterledsagelsen er meget gennem-ciseleret, næsten som Kammermusik. Orkestret bestaar, foruden Solostemmen, af 2 Oboer, 2 Klarinetter, 2 Fagotter 2 Horn, 1 Basbassun, Pauker og Strygeorkester."¹¹

Og igen til Carl Johan Michaelsen den 13. september 1926:

"Jeg skriver til Behrend igen ang: Presse o.a., men han har bedt mig skrive noget som kunde citeres, men det er mig f. T. umuligt da jeg arbejder koncentreret og II del – der bliver kun et Ophold i Fløjtekonserten – er mig endnu uklar. Dog tror jeg at to eller tre smaa Satser slynges sammen, som i Violinkoncertens II, omtrent."¹²

Det lader til at han har haft visse problemer med at komponere anden sats. Til Rudolph Simonsen¹³ skriver han således den 14. september 1926:

"Jeg glæder mig til at se Dem og Deres Kone og høre hvad De siger til min Fløjtehistorie som har optaget mig meget stærkt. I Del er ret stor og er holdt kammeragtig med contrapunktisk-symfonisk Udvikling og jeg tror nok den er lykkedes, ihvertfald har jeg gjort mig megen Umage dermed. II Del bliver en Sammenslyngning af en Allegretto og Andante saadan rondoagtig i Formen; men den har jeg endnu kun i Hovedet, da jeg har maattet sende Renskriften og Udskrivningen af Solostemmen til Kjøbenhavn til Indstudering af Gilbert J. der skal spille den i Paris den 21 Oktbr."¹⁴

In a letter to Anton Svendsen¹⁵ he writes very little but very tellingly about the difficulties of composing with variety for the flute:

“I have written a flute concerto, it plays for about 16 minutes: that is enough for a flute, which does not have the variety of a string instrument with bowings, double-stopping, harmonics etc., isn't it? I have taken a great deal of trouble with it and hope it is not a total failure.”¹⁶

The concerto was thus composed very quickly and in relatively turbulent circumstances on an extended journey in Italy. It was composed with Holger Gilbert-Jespersen in mind, a flautist who was involved in the earliest planning of the concert in Paris and who gave the concerto its first performance.¹⁷

Carl Nielsen's music had been played earlier in Paris. The Young Composers' Society (Unge Tonekunstneres Selskab) had arranged a chamber concert of Danish music on 23rd November 1923 in collaboration with the Danish Composers' Society (Dansk Tonekunstnerforening) and the French organization L'Association Française d'Expansion et d'Échanges Artistiques, a society which, in close cooperation with the French Ministry of Culture, had the aim of promoting international cultural cooperation. The Danish liaison between the committee set up in Copenhagen and the French organization was the chairman of Young Composers' Society, Knudåge Riisager.¹⁸ In the planned concert Carl Nielsen's String Quartet op. 14 was performed by the Breuning-Bache Quartet.¹⁹ At a reception on 25th November 1923 given by the Danish plenipotentiary H.A.

17 Cf. letter from Carl Nielsen to Carl Johan Michaelsen, 22.7.1926 (Dk-Kk, acc. 1995/55 Michaelsen). Carl Nielsen is said to have been so enthusiastic about the musicians in the Copenhagen Wind Quintet, who had given the first performance of his Wind Quintet from 1922, that he promised to write a composition for each of them. The members in 1922 were Paul Hagemann, flute (1882-1967), Svend Chr. Felumb, oboe (1898-1972), Aage Oxenvad, clarinet (1884-1944), Hans Sørensen, French horn (1893-1944), Knud Larsen, bassoon. It appears from this that the anecdote does not fit the actual circumstances, since Holger Gilbert-Jespersen was not a member of the quintet until about 1927.

I et brev til Anton Svendsen¹⁵ skriver han ganske lidt men dog ret sigende om sine vanskeligheder ved at komponere afvekslende for fløjte:

“Jeg har skrevet en Fløjtekoncert, den spiller circa 16 Min: det er nok til en Fløjte, som ikke har Strygerens Afvekslinger med Strøgarter, Dobbeltgreb, Flag: o. s. v Ikke sandt? Jeg har gjort mig megen Umage dermed og haaber det ikke er helt mislykket.”¹⁶

Koncerten er således komponeret på ret kort tid og under relativt turbulente omstændigheder på en længere rejse i Italien. Den er komponeret med Holger Gilbert-Jespersen i tankerne, en fløjtenist, som var inddraget i de tidligste planer for koncerten i Paris og som uropførte koncerten.¹⁷

Carl Niensens musik var tidligere blevet spillet i Paris. Unge Tonekunstneres Selskab havde arrangeret en kammerkoncert med dansk musik den 23. november 1923 i samarbejde med Dansk Tonekunstnerforening og den franske organisation L'Association Française d'Expansion et d'Échanges Artistiques, en forening, der i tæt forbindelse med det franske kulturministerium havde til formål at fremme internationalt kulturelt samarbejde. Den danske forbindelse mellem den nedsatte komité i København og den franske organisation var Unge Tonekunstneres Selskabs formand Knudåge Riisager.¹⁸ Ved den planlagte koncert blev Carl Niensens Strygekvartet op. 14 opført af Breuning-Bache kvartetten.¹⁹ Ved en festreception den 25. november 1923 hos den danske Minister, Kammerherre H.A.

17 Jf. brev fra Carl Nielsen til Carl Johan Michaelsen af 22.7.1926 (Dk-Kk, acc. 1995/55 Michaelsen). Carl Nielsen skulle have været så begejstret for musikkerne i Københavns Blåserkvintet, som havde uropført hans Blåserkvintet fra 1922, at han skulle have lovet at skrive en komposition til hver af dem. Medlemmerne var i 1922 Paul Hagemann, fløjte (1882-1967), Svend Chr. Felumb, obo (1898-1972), Aage Oxenvad, klarinet (1884-1944), Hans Sørensen, horn (1893-1944), Knud Larsen, fagot. Her ser det ud til at anekdoten ikke passer med de faktiske omstændigheder, idet Holger Gilbert-Jespersen ikke var medlem af kvintetten før omkring 1927.

Bernhoft,²⁰ Thyra Larsen sang songs by Carl Nielsen and in a concert at the premises of La revue musicale Christian Christiansen²¹ played Variations for Piano.

Carl Nielsen participated in this concert week in Paris. He wrote to Emil Telmányi:

“The next day I will be going for about a week to Paris. There is to be a Danish chamber music concert down there and that is very fine. The Breuning Quartet is to play my E flat major, Christiansen my Variations etc. We are the guests of the French State and it is all highly official. There are forces at work (all the Danish artists and the French Minister) to see that I can conduct ‘The Inextinguishable’ in the Padeloup Concerts.²² Actually I would rather not have gone down there, but all the young musicians keep on saying I really must come and ‘Mother’ thinks I absolutely must. Now we’ll see what it leads to.”²³

The first performance on 21st October 1926 was held at Maison Gaveau, Salle des Concerts, Paris, and L’Orchestre de la Société des Concerts du Conservatoire performed a programme of works exclusively by Carl Nielsen. Emil Telmányi conducted the prelude to Act Two of Saul and David, Symphony No. 5 and Concerto for Flute and Orchestra, Carl Nielsen conducted the Concerto for Violin and Orchestra and five pieces from Aladdin.²⁴ Holger Gilbert-Jespersen was the soloist in the flute concerto and Peder Møller in the violin concerto.

The concert had been organized on the initiative of Carl Johan Michaelsen. He, and, as many sources mention, “a circle of friends”, made efforts to promote Carl Nielsen’s music abroad, as is evident from a letter to Anne Marie and Emil Telmányi in April:

“Michaelsen has written to me from Paris that he has organized a concert of my works down there for the autumn; thinks I myself should conduct, but if I can’t, then Hye-K. or -- Christiansen.”²⁵

Bernhoft,²⁰ sang Thyra Larsen sange af Carl Nielsen og ved en koncert i La Revue musicales lokaler spillede Christian Christiansen²¹ Variationer for klaver.

Carl Nielsen deltog i denne koncertuge i Paris. Han skriver til Emil Telmányi:

“Dagen efter rejser jeg 8 Dage til Paris. Der skal være en dansk Kammermusikkoncert dernede og det er meget fint. Breuning-Kvartetten skal spille min Es dur. Christiansen mine Variationer o.s.v. Vi er Gæster hos den franske Stat og det hele er højofficielt. Der er Krafter igang (alle de danske Kunstnere og den franske Minister) for at jeg skal komme til at dirigere ‘Det Uudslukkelige’ i Padeloup-Concerterne.²² Jeg vilde egentlig ikke været derned, men alle de unge Musikere bliver ved at jeg endelig skal komme med og Mor mener absolut jeg skal. Nu faar vi se hvad det bringer med.”²³

Uropførelsen den 21. oktober 1926 foregik i Maison Gaveau, Salle des Concerts, Paris, hvor L’Orchestre de la Société des Concerts du Conservatoire opførte et program med værker udelukkende af Carl Nielsen. Emil Telmányi dirigerede forspillet til 2. akt af Saul og David, Symfoni nr. 5 og Koncert for fløjte og orkester, Carl Nielsen Koncert for violin og orkester og 5 stykker fra Aladdin.²⁴ Holger Gilbert-Jespersen var solist i fløjtekoncerten og Peder Møller i violinkoncerten.

Koncerten var arrangeret på initiativ af Carl Johan Michaelsen. Han og, som mange kilder nævner det, “en kreds af venner”, gjorde sig bestræbelser på at promovere Carl Nielsens musik i udlandet, således som det fremgår af brev til Anne Marie og Emil Telmányi fra april måned:

“Michaelsen har skrevet til mig fra Paris at han har arrangeret en Konsert med mine Værker dernede til Efteraaret; mener jeg selv skal dirigere, men ifald jeg ikke kan saa Hye-K. eller -- Christiansen.”²⁵

On the French side L'Association Française d'Expansion et d'Échanges Artistiques was again involved in the arrangement, but it seems that neither Young Composers' Society nor Danish Composers' Society participated in the planning this time. On the other hand, Svend Chr. Felumb from the publisher Borups musikforlag was involved.²⁶ In addition the Danish Embassy in Paris was represented by the plenipotentiary H.A. Bernhoft and the press attaché Helge Wamberg.²⁷

In general the reception in Paris was very positive, but several reviewers questioned the justification of concerts consisting exclusively of works by a single composer. In Carl Nielsen's music the reviews noted his instrumentation, the contrasting of timbres, the original ideas in the compositions, and the way the works heard reflected the aesthetics of the period but were interpreted in a highly personal manner. On the flute concerto there were relatively few comments. Paul Le Flem wrote in Comoedia:

"The Concerto for flute and orchestra, outstandingly performed by M. Holger-Gilbert Jespersen, is the most recent work by M. Nielsen. It has piquancy, drive and does not lack humour."²⁸

There is more detail from H. de Curzon in Le Ménestrel:

"[after a discussion of the violin concerto] M. Carl Nielsen had it followed immediately by a flute concerto which he had just finished, and in which I again find a free treatment, capricious echoes of the sonorities of nature, rather than a composition properly speaking. M. Holger Gilbert Zespersen, who performed it, has a very fine sound, pure, rounded and delicately shaded. He has been a pupil of Hennebains and Philippe Gaubert."²⁹ and from Maurice Imbert in Le Courrier Musical & Théâtral:

"With a robust technique from the contrapuntal or orchestral point of view, M. Nielsen has perfectly absorbed the style of

Fra fransk side var L'Association Française d'Expansion et d'Échanges Artistiques igen involveret i arrangementet, men det lader ikke til, at hverken Unge Tonekunstneres Selskab eller Dansk Tonekunstnerforening deltog i planlægningen denne gang. Derimod var Svend Chr. Felumb fra Borups musikforlag involveret.²⁶ Desuden var den danske ambassade i Paris repræsenteret ved Minister Kammerherre H.A. Bernhoft og presseattaché Helge Wamberg.²⁷

Generelt var modtagelsen i Paris meget positiv, men flere anmeldere anfægter berettigelsen af koncerter med værker udelukkende af en enkelt komponist. I Carl Niensens musik bemærkes hans måde at instrumentere på, at klangfarver sammensættes i kontraster, at kompositionerne rummer originale idéer, og at de værker, man fik at høre, reflekterer periodens æstetik men fortolkes på en meget personlig måde. Om fløjtekoncerten findes kun relativt få kommentarer. Paul Le Flem skriver i Comoedia:

"Le Concerto pour flûte et orchestre, remarquablement exécuté par M. Holger-Gilbert Jespersen, est la dernière oeuvre de M. Nielsen. Il a du piquant, de l'allant et ne manque pas d'humour."²⁸

Mere udførlig er H. de Curzon i Le Ménestrel:

"[efter omtale af violinkoncerten] M. Carl Nielsen l'a fait suivre immédiatement d'un concerto de flûte, qu'il vient d'achever, et où je vois encore le libre discours, les capricieux échos des sonorités de la nature plutôt qu'une composition proprement dite. M. Holger Gilbert Zespersen, qui l'a exécuté, a un très beau son, pur, rond et délicatement nuancé. Il a été élève d'Hennebains et de Philippe Gaubert."²⁹

these musicians, to the point of making use of them in a developed fashion which takes on the stamp of personality. Thus it is in the Concerto for Flute, for example, where the combinations of timbres are of a wholly modern bent, worthy of the writer of The Soldier's Tale, although the syntax would hardly have frightened Th. Dubois himself.³⁰

Two of the reviews, though, express incomprehension of the flute concerto:

Jan Meyerheim in Paris Telegram:

"The Concerto for flute, well played by M. Jespersen, I did not care for at all; it was beyond my comprehension."³¹ and Louis Schneider in the New York Herald:

"It may be said that the Concerto for flute is massive and difficult to comprehend. It was very well played by M. Jespersen, a pupil of M. Ph. Gaubert."³²

The concert was also mentioned in Danish newspapers,³³ and Politiken had made an arrangement with the French composer Arthur Honegger,³⁴ who reviewed the concert on 26th October 1926. Of the flute concerto he writes:

"The flute concerto, which gave us the opportunity to admire the delightful tone and suppleness of Gilbert-Jespersen's style, is of lesser proportions, but full of beautiful combinations, for example the dialogue between the flute and timpani or the bassoon [...] We admire Carl Nielsen as a technician of the first rank and as an artist whose abundance of creativity is constantly renewed. His whole oeuvre gives the impression of wholesomeness, power and superiority."³⁵

In connection with the visit to Paris Carl Nielsen was awarded the Order of the Legion of Honour.³⁶ incorporé la façon de ces musiciens, au point de s'en servir d'une façon évoluée qui prend valeur de personnalité. Ainsi dans le Concerto pour flûte, par exemple, où les combinaisons de timbres sont d'une recherche toute moderne, digne de l'auteur de l'Histoire du Soldat, cependant que la syntaxe n'eût guère effarouché Th. Dubois lui-même;³⁰

To af anmelderne stiller sig dog noget uforstående overfor fløjtekoncerten:

Jan Meyerheim i Paris Telegram:

"The Concerto for flute, well played by M. Jespersen, I did not care for at all; it was beyond my comprehension."³¹

og Louis Schneider i New York Herald:

"It may be said that the Concerto for flute is massive and difficult to comprehend. It was very well played by M. Jespersen, a pupil of M. Ph. Gaubert."³²

Koncerten blev også omtalt i danske aviser³³ og Politiken havde truffet en aftale med den franske komponist, Arthur Honegger,³⁴ som anmelder koncerten den 26. oktober 1926. Om fløjtekoncerten udtaler han:

"Fløjtekoncerten, som gav os Lejlighed til at beundre den henrivende Tone og Smidighed i Gilbert-Jespersens Stil, er af mindre Proportioner, men fuld af smukke Kombinationer, saaledes Dialogen mellem Fløjten og Pavken eller Fagotten. [...] Vi beundrer Carl Nielsen som Tekniker af første Rang og som en Kunstner, hvis Overflod af Skaberevne stadig fornyes. Hele hans Værk giver Indtrykket af Sundhed, Kraft og Overlegenhed."³⁵

The second performance of the flute concerto took place on 8th November 1926 during a Danish music week in Oslo. The orchestra of the society Filharmonisk Selskap played, conducted by Carl Nielsen with Holger Gilbert-Jespersen as soloist. The Danish week held the attention of the Norwegian press,³⁷ which featured not only advertisements and detailed reviews of the concerts but also advance notices, dealing with among others Carl Nielsen. In the reviews the flute concerto is rather overshadowed by the Fifth Symphony, which had been performed on 4th November 1926. It is praised, however, for the flexible orchestral transitions and bold harmonies as well as the soloist's execution of the work. The form of the composition is described as unusual inasmuch as the expected formal scheme is replaced by a freer development.³⁸

The first Danish performance took place on 25th January 1927 in the second concert of the Music Society (Musikforeningen) with Holger Gilbert-Jespersen as soloist and Carl Nielsen conducting.³⁹ As mentioned earlier, the flute concerto had been written in great haste. In particular, the end of the second movement seems to have posed Carl Nielsen certain problems, and it appears that he was not satisfied with the ending as it was at the first performance in Paris and the concert in Oslo. He therefore composed a new one which he finished at the beginning of January.⁴⁰

Although they are not all equally enthusiastic, the reviewers are in general positively inclined. William Behrend writes in Berlingske Tidende:

“The actual concerto is a fantasy, living, speaking, often surprising, now intimately communicative, now escaping into gentle, faraway dreaming.

There are (fortunately) no signs of weakness to be found in this music; on the contrary both will and a freely flowing mind, now inspired by nature, now fickle following its 39 The remainder of the concert consisted of W.A. Mozart, Overture to the opera La clemenza de Tito, D. Milhaud, Serenade for Small Orchestra, J.S. Bach, Brandenburg Concerto No. 5, R. Simonsen, Winter for choir, soprano solo og orchestra. In The Music Society's programme the title of the work is “Concert for Flute and Small Orchestra”.

Anden opførelse af fløjtekoncerten fandt sted den 8. november 1926 ved en dansk musikuge i Oslo. Filharmonisk Selskaps Orkester spillede under Carl Niensens ledelse med Holger Gilbert-Jespersen som solist. Ugen havde den norske presses beivågenhed,³⁷ og man bringer i forbindelse med den danske uge ikke blot annoncer og udførlige anmeldelser af koncerterne men også foramtaler, bl.a. om Carl Nielsen. I anmeldelserne står fløjtekoncerten noget i skyggen af 5. symfoni, som var blevet opført d. 4. november 1926. Den roses dog for orkesterpartiets smidige overgange og dristige harmonier samt solistens udførelse af værket. Kompositionens form beskrives som usædvanlig med henvisning til, at det forventede formskema er erstattet af et friere forløb.³⁸

Den danske førsteopførelse fandt sted den 25. januar 1927 ved Musikforeningens 2. koncert med Holger Gilbert-Jespersen som solist og Carl Nielsen som dirigent.³⁹ Som tidligere omtalt var fløjtekoncerten blevet til i stor hast. Specielt slutningen af 2. sats lader til at have voldt Carl Nielsen visse problemer, og det ser ud til at han ikke var tilfreds med slutningen, som den forelå ved uropførelsen i Paris og koncerten i Oslo. Han komponerede derfor en ny, som han afsluttede i begyndelsen af januar.⁴⁰

Selv om de ikke alle udtrykker lige stor begejstring, er anmeldelserne generelt set positivt indstillet. William Behrend skriver i Berlingske Tidende:

“Selve Koncerten er en Fantasi, levende, talende, ofte overraskende, snart fortrolig meddelsom, snart flygtende bort i milde fjerne Drømmerier.

Der er (heldigvis) ingen Svaghedstegn at spore i denne Musik, tværtimod baade Vilje og et frit bølgende Sind, snart inspireret af Naturen, snart lunefuldt følgende egne 39 Koncertens øvrige program bestod af: W.A. Mozart, Overture til operaen Titus, D. Milhaud, Serenade for mindre orkester, J. S. Bach, Brandenburgkoncert nr. 5, R. Simonsen, Vinter for kor, sopransolo og orkester. I Musikforeningens program er værkets titel: “Koncert for Fløjte og mindre orkester”.

own deeper urges, but all is pure music – without ulterior motives or pitfalls of ‘cleverness’. Both humour (duet between flute and trombone) and imagination (the extended cadenzalike section towards the end of the first movement) have their place in this concerto, in which the orchestra too, not least its winds, showed themselves as ‘stout fellows’, and brought both composer and soloist equal acclaim.”⁴¹

Less positive is Brieghel-Müller in Dansk Musiktidsskrift:

“The last half of the programme featured two Danish first performances, Carl Nielsen’s Flute Concerto and Rud. Simonsen’s ‘Winter’ for choir, soprano solo and orchestra. Both compositions share the fact that irrespective of other valuable musical qualities, because of inherent formal deficiencies they had difficulty making any stronger or enduring impression. The flute concerto for example hardly lived up to its name; it was rather to be viewed as two improvisation-like sketches. The dialogic contrast between the concertante instrument and the orchestra was replaced here by a friendly chat, often coloured by a sarcastic temperament, between the flute and other orchestral units, or else the flute – there was only Mr. Gilbert Jespersen’s – formed part of an overall orchestral texture. The only truly concerto-like thing was the cadenza at the end of the first movement, which like the rest of the flute part was supremely executed. The musical ideas in the piece – and this should be stressed – were expressed with a freedom and naturalness that was as attractive as it was refreshing.”⁴²

Gunnar Heerup is most thorough in his review in Ekstrabladet as far as the structure of the composition, which had caused Carl Nielsen problems, is concerned:

“The event of the evening was the first Danish performance of Carl Nielsen’s new flute concerto in two movements. The first movement fulfilled all justified expectations, while the second movement disappointed. In several of his recent compositions dybere Indskydelser, men alt er det ren Musik – uden Bihensigter eller ‘aandrige’ Faldgruber. Baade Humor (Duet mellem Fløjte og Basun) og Fantastik (det omfattende kadenceagtige Afsnit mod Slutning af 1ste Sats), har Plads i denne Koncert, hvori ogsaa Orkestret, ikke mindst dets Blæsere, viste sig som ‘føre Karle’, og som indbragte Komponist og Solist lige stor Hyldest.”⁴¹

Knap så positiv er Brieghel-Müller i Dansk Musiktidsskrift:

“Programmets sidste Halvdel bragte to danske Førsteopførelser, Carl Niensens Fløjtekoncert og Rud. Simonsens ‘Vinter’ for Kor, Sopransolo og Orkester. Begge Kompositioner har det tilfælles, at de, uanset deres i øvrigt værdifulde musikalske Egenskaber, paa Grund af iboende formelle Mangler havde vanskeligt ved at gøre noget stærkere eller blivende Indtryk. Fløjtekoncerten svarede saaledes kun daarligt til sit Navn; den var nærmest at opfatte som to improvisatorisk klingende Smaaskitser. Det dialogiske Modsætningsforhold mellem det koncerterende Instrument og Orkestret var her afløst af et venskabeligt, ofte af sarkastisk Lune præget Causeri mellem Fløjten og andre Orkesterenheder, eller ogsaa indgik Fløjten – der fandtes kun Hr. Gilbert Jespersens – som Led i en samlet Orkestersats. Egentlig koncertmæssig var kun Kadencen i Slutningen af første Sats, der ligesom det øvrige Fløjteparti blev mesterligt udført. De musikalske Tanker i Stykket var, hvilket bør betones, fremsat med en Frihed og Naturlighed, der var lige saa sympatisk som forfriskende.”⁴²

Gunnar Heerup er mest grundig i sin anmeldelse i Ekstrabladet med hensyn til kompositionens struktur, som havde voldt Carl Nielsen problemer:

“Aftenens Begivenhed var den danske Førsteopførelse af Carl Niensens nye Fløjtekoncert i to Sats. Førstesatsen opfyldte alle berettigede Forventninger, medens Andensatsen derimod skuffede. Carl Nielsen har i flere af sine senere Kompositioner i

Carl Nielsen has worked more than before with the sound as such, and with the imaginatively improvisational, not rarely at the expense of the clear sculptural qualities that are so extraordinarily typical of his earlier works. It is as if these two things, the sculptural and the imaginative (one is tempted to say the old and the new Carl Nielsen) have not yet become reconciled to each other. What we have here is a stylistic renewal for Carl Nielsen, which one must hope he manages to carry through to become something classic. In the new work, the flute concerto, too, the two beings struggle, but in the first movement they have come to what seems to be a happy compromise: there are loose but clear outlines, framing a fullness of imaginatively improvisational wonders; the freshness of all these brilliant spontaneities fully makes up for the apparently rather loose and vague structure. The second movement is a different matter; it makes too much of a piecemeal impression, and the wealth and freshness of the ideas do not seem the same as in the first movement; in particular the last third of the movement seems without justified connection with the rest, and along with the rhapsodically abrupt ending gives the movement a strangely short-tailed impression. One has the feeling that at least two movements have been tinkered together into one, and that both head and tail have been lopped off the last one, so that it will fit better.

Of course Gilbert-Jespersen played the work into a success.⁴³

The flute concerto did not see many performances in Carl Nielsen's lifetime. Besides those already mentioned, it was played in Tivoli on 3rd September 1927, in Gothenburg on 12th February 1930, at Emil Telmányi's Chamber Orchestra Concert on 1st April 1930 and in Tivoli on 10th June 1931. For the performance in Gothenburg Carl Nielsen had written the following programme note:

"FOR THE PROGRAMME.

it must come under the heading 'more temperate zone'. The højere Grad end tidligere beskæftiget sig med det klanglige og det fantastisk improvisatoriske, ikke sjældent paa Bekostning af den klare Plastik, der i saa ualmindelig Grad udmærker hans tidligere Værker. Det er, som om disse to Ting, det plastiske og det fantastiske, man fristes til at sige: den gamle og den nye Carl Nielsen, endnu ikke rigtig har udsonet sig med hinanden. Der er her Tale om en Stilfornyelse hos Carl Nielsen, som man maa haabe, han naar at føre igennem til Klassicitet. Ogsaa i det nye Værk, Fløjtekonzerten, kæmper de to Væsner, men de har i Førstesatsen indgaaet et tilsyneladende lykkeligt Kompromis: der er løse, men klare Omrids, indrammende en Fylde af Fantastisk improvisatoriske Vidunderligheder; alle disse geniale Umiddelbarheders Friskhed opvejer fuldt ud den tilsyneladende noget løse og vage Struktur. Anderledes Andensatsen, den gør i for høj Grad et sammenstykket Indtryk, ligesom Indfaldenes Rigdom og Friskhed ikke synes den samme som i første Sats, særlig Satsens sidste Tredjedel synes, uden begrundet Forbindelse med det øvrige og giver sammen med den rapsodiske abrupte Afslutning Satsen et underligt stumpumpet Udseende. Man har paa Fornemmelsen at i alt Fald to Sats er blevet smækket sammen til én, og at der er skaaret baade Hoved og Hale af den sidste, for at det bedre skulde passe.

Gilbert-Jespersen spillede selvfølgelig Værket en Succes til.⁴³

Fløjtekonzerten fik ikke mange opførelser i Carl Niensens levetid. Udover de allerede nævnte blev den spillet i Tivoli den 3. september 1927, i Göteborg den 12. februar 1930, ved Emil Telmányis Kammerorkesterkoncert den 1. april 1930 og i Tivoli den 10. juni 1931. Til opførelsen i Göteborg havde Carl Nielsen skrevet følgende programnote:

"TILL PROGRAMMET.

Carl Niensens flöjtkonsert.

beginning is kept more or less in a free, fantasizing tone and the solo instrument moves rather searchingly until it gets hold of the following little more definite motif:

which is later taken up by the orchestra and comes to play a certain role in a rather highly developed transition to the movement's second subject (the song subject). This subject is first stated by the orchestra:

after which the solo flute plays the same a fourth higher and later moves into a small conversation with a solo clarinet and a bassoon. A string crescendo then stirs the solo instrument up to some more passionate utterances, but it is not meant so seriously and again we slide into peaceful conditions with small stirrings here and there. But then it seems as if the instruments begin to get bored, and therefore they plunge into a rather more marked and fugato subject which is suddenly interrupted by the timpani, which says:

and chases a solo trombone out of its previous mode. The solo flute gets quite nervous and proclaims shrilly:

and now things get more lively. Gradually the orchestral texture becomes fuller and more mobile, but this does not last long; for the flute cannot deny its nature, it belongs in Arcadia and prefers the pastoral moods; the composer therefore has to indulge the gentle creature, if he does not want to be stigmatized as a barbarian. Now there are no more new elements in the first movement, but the soloist does have a couple of free cadenzas and a duet with a solo clarinet which one perhaps notices. The movement does not end as it began - on the contrary, it comes gently to rest in G flat major, whereas it began dissonantly and with no key.

maa det dog komme ind under Betragtningen: mildere Zone. Begyndelsen er nærmest holdt i fri, fantaserende Tone og Soloinstrumentet bevæger sig ligesom søgende indtil det faar fat i følgende lille, mere bestemte Motiv:

som senere optages af Orkestret og kommer til at spille en vis Rolle i en ret udviklet Overgang hen till Satsens 2:det Tema (Sangtemaet). Dette Tema fremføres først af Orkestret:

hvorefter Solofløjten spiller det samme en Kwart højere og senere gaar over i en lille Samtale med en Soloklarinet og en Fagot. En stærk crescendo-Takt faar derefter Soloinstrumentet drevet op til nogle mere lidenskabelige Ytringer, men det er ikke saa slemt ment og vi glider atter ind i fredelige Tilstande med lidt Pusleri hist og her. Men saa synes det som om Instrumenterne begynder at kede sig og tager derfor fat med et noget mere markert og fugert Tema, som pludselig afbrydes af Paukerne der siger:

og jager en Solobassun ud af sin forrige Tilstand. Solofløjten bliver helt nervøs og skriger op og nu kommer der mere Liv i Tingene. Efterhaanden bliver Orkestersatsen ogsaa fyldigere og mere bewæget, dog det varer ikke længe; thi Fløjten kan ikke fornægte sin Natur, den hører hjemme i Arkadien og foretrækker de pastorale Stemninger; Komponisten er derfor nødt til at rette sig efter det blide Væsen, ifald han ikke vil risikere at stemples som en Barbar. Nu kommer der ingen flere nye Momenter i 1:ste Sats, men Solisten har dog et Par frie Kadenzer og en Duet med en Solo-Klarinet som man kanske lægger mærke til. Satsen ender ikke som den begyndte, tværtimod; den lægger sig blidt til Ro i Gesdur, hverimod den begyndte dissonerende og uden Toneart.

Second movement

To get away from the gentle G flat major that ended the first movement the orchestra raps out some notes slightly maliciously at the beginning of this movement, but it quickly becomes gentler and when the solo flute enters, it is quite childlike and innocent in an allegretto tempo.

Through various 'spicier' statements we come in the end to an adagio where the solo instrument sings the following lamenting melody, which is also developed and elucidated in the orchestra. After this the first (innocent) motif comes back and is treated again but presently moves into some slow bars from the adagio. Then something new happens, since a little march motif appears, putting the solo flute in a better mood, and the movement ends in this lighter, more superficial and smiling mood."⁴⁴

The source material for the flute concerto consists of a pencil draft and ink fair copy of the score, a solo part, and orchestral parts used in the first performance. To these we can add a few sketches and various copies more or less directly attributable to Carl Nielsen. All the contemporary sources are handwritten since the concerto was only printed after the death of Carl Nielsen.

The main source for the present edition is the ink fair copy, which has been collated with the draft and the solo part. The draft, especially in the second movement, is very sketch-like, in several places notated in short-score form.

In the work with the source material there have been two problems, both caused by the circumstances of composition: the fair copy was written out in three different hands, and the solo part is not identical to the flute part in the score. The fair ⁴⁴ Programme note viewed as a misplaced insertion in the programme for the first performance in Denmark, 25.1.1927 (Dk-Kk, CNA, I.E.b.1b. Concert programmes 1920-1929). Since the insertion is missing from the programme for the Gothenburg concert of 12.2.1930 (Dk-Kk, CNA, I.E.b.1a. Concert programmes 1930-1965) and was in fact printed in Gothenburg and mentions the other Carl Nielsen works that were played in that concert, it must have been written for that occasion.

Anden Sats.

For at komme bort fra den blide Ges-dur som afsluttede 1:ste Sats prikker Orkestret lidt ondt nogle Toner ud i Begyndelsen af denne Sats, men det bliver hurtigt mildere og naar Solofløjten sætter ind, er der helt barnligt og uskyldigt i Allegretto-Tempo

Gennem adskillige mere 'krydrede' Perioder kommer vi tilsidst hen til en Adagio, hvor Soloinstrumentet synger følgende klagende Melodi som ogsaa i Orkestret udvikles og belyses. Derefter kommer det første (uskyldige) Motiv tilbage og behandles paany, men gaar atter over i nogle langsomme Takter fra Adagio'en. Saa sker der noget nyt, idet der optræder et lille Marsch-Motiv som sætter Solo-Fløjten i bedre Lune og Satsen ender i denne lettere, mere overfladiske og smilende Stemning."⁴⁴

Kildematerialet til fløjtekoncerten består af blyantskladde og blækrenskrift af partituret, solostemme og orkesterstemmer brugt ved uropførelsen. Hertil kommer nogle få skitser og diverse afskrifter med mere eller mindre direkte tilknytning til Carl Nielsen. Alle samtidige kilder er håndskrevne, da koncerten først blev trykt efter Carl Niensens død.

Hovedkilden til nærværende udgave er blækrenskriften, som er kollationeret med kladden og solostemmen. Kladden er specielt i anden sats meget skitseagtig, flere steder noteret i partitel.

I arbejdet med kildematerialet har der været to problemer, begge affødt af omstændighederne for værket tilblivelse: renskriften er skrevet af tre forskellige hænder og solostemmen er ikke identisk med fløjtestemmen i partituret. Renskriften indeholder passager, skrevet af henholdsvis Carl Da indlægget mangler ved koncertprogrammet til Göteborgkoncerten 12.2.1930 (Dk-Kk, CNA, I.E.b.1a. copy has passages written out by Carl Nielsen, Emil Telmányi and Georg Wiegelmann respectively.⁴⁵ The last of these fair-copied the new end of the concerto which was composed for the performance in Copenhagen. Since Carl Nielsen was pressed for time, Telmányi fair-copied the last section of the first movement and the whole second movement with the ending from the performances in Paris and Oslo. This first fair copy was presumably approved by the composer, including the additions, mainly of dynamics and articulation, which are not found in the draft and thus are not known from Carl Nielsen's hand. However, Emil Telmányi added a number of details in the ink fair copy in connection with the preparations for printing after Carl Nielsen's death; additions which according to the preface to the printed edition are put in brackets. Additions by Telmányi which must have been made after Carl Nielsen's death have been tacitly removed in this edition.

The solo part, like the score, was fair-copied by Carl Nielsen and Emil Telmányi. As is evident from the above, the solo part was sent to Holger Gilbert-Jespersen in smaller portions as it was composed. Carl Nielsen and Emil Telmányi therefore did not have it at hand when fair-copying the score, and the details they added in connection with the fair-copying of the solo part are not always included in the fair copy of the score. In the present edition Carl Nielsen's hand has been followed – that is, in the bars where he has written one fair copy and Telmányi the other, Carl Nielsen's fair copy of the solo flute part has been given the highest priority, regardless of whether it is in the score or the solo part. In the bars where Carl Nielsen has fair-copied both score and solo part, he appears to have been most careful with the solo part, so this has been assigned highest priority. In this respect we have deviated from the general principle of the Carl Nielsen Edition of using the Fassung letzter Hand.

Kirsten Flensburg Petersen

Nielsen, Emil Telmányi og Georg Wiegelmann.⁴⁵ Sidstnævnte har renskrevet den nye slutning til koncerten, som blev komponeret til opførelsen i København. Da Carl Nielsen har været i tidsnød, har Telmányi renskrevet sidste del af første sats og hele anden sats med slutningen fra opførelserne i Paris og Oslo. Denne første renskrift har formodentlig været godkendt af komponisten, inklusiv de tilføjelser af overvejende dynamik og artikulation, som ikke findes i kladden og dermed ikke kendes fra Carl Nielsens hånd. Imidlertid har Emil Telmányi tilføjet en række detaljer i blækremskriften i forbindelse med forberedelse til trykning efter Carl Nielsens død, tilføjelser, som i følge forordet til den trykte udgave er sat i parentes. Tilføjelser af Telmányi, som må være kommet til efter Carl Nielsens død, er i nærværende udgave stiltiende fjernet.

Solostemmen er som partituret renskrevet af henholdsvis Carl Nielsen og Emil Telmányi. Som det fremgår af førnævnte omtale, blev solostemmen sendt til Holger Gilbert-Jespersen i mindre portioner, efterhånden som den blev komponeret. Derfor har Carl Nielsen og Emil Telmányi ikke haft den til rådighed ved renskrivningen af partituret, og de detaljer, som de har tilføjet i forbindelse med renskrivning af solostemmen, er ikke altid medtaget i renskriften af partituret. I nærværende udgave er Carl Nielsens hånd fulgt; det vil sige, at i de takter, hvor han har skrevet den ene renskrift og Telmányi den anden, har Carl Nielsens renskrift af solofløjten haft højeste prioritet, uanset om den findes i partituret eller solostemmen. I de takter, hvor Carl Nielsen har renskrevet såvel partitur som solostemme ser det ud til, at han var været mest omhyggelig i solostemmen, og derfor har denne haft højeste prioritet. På det punkt fraviges således Carl Nielsen Udgavens generelle princip om "Fassung Letzter Hand".

The image shows a page of handwritten musical notation for the first movement of a concerto. The score is arranged in a system with six staves. The top four staves are for Flute 1, Flute 2, Oboe, and Clarinet. The bottom two staves are for Bassoon and Cello/Double Bass. The notation includes various rhythmic values, slurs, and dynamic markings. Key markings include 'p' (piano), 'pp' (pianissimo), 'f' (forte), and 'arco' (arco). There are also some handwritten annotations like '(f)' and '(p)'. The paper is aged and shows some wear.

The image shows a handwritten musical score on page 97. It consists of several systems of staves. The top system has a Flute part with a 'dim' marking. Below it are Trombone and string parts. Measure 220 is circled. The middle system continues the music with 'dim.' and 'poco tempo, rall.' markings. Measure 230 is circled, and a section marker 'II.' is in a black box. The bottom system includes 'arco' and 'a tempo' markings, along with dynamic markings like 'mp' and 'p'. There are also some annotations in brackets and parentheses.

Concerto for Flute and Orchestra, ink fair copy (Source A), second movement bb. 215-232: 2nd ending of Flute Concerto, fair-copied by Georg Wiegelmann with additions by Carl Nielsen and additions in brackets by Emil Telmányi in connection with posthumous printing.

Koncert for Fløjte og Orkester, blækrenskrift (kilde A), anden sats t. 215-232: 2. slutning af fløjtekoncerten, renskrevet af Georg Wiegelmann med tilføjelser af Carl Nielsen og tilføjelser i parentes af Emil Telmányi i forbindelse med posthum trykning.

CRITICAL COMMENTARY

In the Critical Commentary the following conventions are used:

- 1 “by analogy with” is used when something has been “added”, “emended” or “omitted” by analogy with another passage in the main source. The analogy may be vertical. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more instruments, it is understood that the analogy is with the same place in the same bar(s). Or it may be horizontal. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more bars, it is understood that the analogy is with a parallel place in the same instrument(s).
- 2 “as in” is used when something is “added”, “emended” or “omitted” to correspond to the same place in another source.
- 3 “in accordance with” is used in cases where there is no authoritative source, only a guideline – for example printed part material.

In the bar number column, the symbol “+” is used to indicate an upbeat to the bar in question.

G Score, transcript.

DK-Kk, C II, 10.

Donated to the Royal Library by Irmelin Eggert Møller in 1958. 36x27 cm, 3 gatherings with a total of 19 bifolios in a grey paper cover, with 74 pages written in ink. Pagination: 1-74, music pages at beginning and end unnumbered.

Paper type: 20 staves.

Title on cover: "Partitur. / Carl Nielsen : / Koncert for fløjte og orkester. / Tilhører: Fru Eggert Møller."³

Title on first music page: "Concert for Fløjte / af / Carl Nielsen." Added in pencil: "Verlag / W. Hansen / Kopenhagen". End of second movement: "Fine."

Additions in red pen, pencil, mauve crayon. The score has the reworked ending.

The earliest source for the flute concerto is the sketchbook, Source B, containing parts of the original ending of the second movement as well as an unidentified sketch. The pencil score, Source B, has a very sketch-like appearance, especially in the second movement. Most bars of the second movement are only notated in short score, and articulation and dynamics are only incompletely indicated.

The ink fair copy, Source A, was drawn up by Carl Nielsen and Emil Telmányi. During the fair-copying Carl Nielsen developed the articulation and dynamics. Similarly, Emil Telmányi has added articulation, dynamics and slurs in almost every bar of the part he fair-copied.

In the fair copy, however, there are two other types of additions by Emil Telmányi. In the first place there are additions that cannot be attributed to the fair-copying process, since they are not noted with the same pen as the music. The other type is additions that were made in connection with the printing of the score after Carl Nielsen's death, and as is evident from the preface to the printed score they have been put in brackets both in print and in the ink fair copy. There are moreover additions that cannot be attributed either to Carl Nielsen or to Emil Telmányi.

The ink fair copy has two endings for the concerto. After two performances Carl Nielsen drew up a new ending which has been used ever since. This ending was fair-copied by Georg Wiegelmann. In the pencil draft only Carl Nielsen's new ending appears.

The orchestral parts from the first performance, Source D, were fair-copied from the ink fair copy with the new ending added by Georg Wiegelmann.

The solo part, Source C, was probably fair-copied from the draft by Carl Nielsen and Emil Telmányi respectively. Pressure of time meant that some of the part was sent to the flautist before the concerto had been finished. So the fair-copied solo part would not have been available when the fair copy of the score was made.

The main source for the revision of the flute concerto is the ink fair copy, Source A. In the music, additions made by Emil Telmányi in connection with the fair-copying have been included. Additions in connection with printing after the death of Carl Nielsen have been tacitly removed. Additions by Emil Telmányi which cannot be ascribed to Carl Nielsen's lifetime have also been tacitly removed. An exception to this is additions that are in Source B and which he forgot during the first fair-copying and therefore inserted later. These have been included in the music and indicated as internal variants in A. As will be evident from the description of sources, in Source B Carl Nielsen indicated more specific orchestral instrumentation in two places (second movement), bb. 39-81 and bb. 114-128. The solo part is not indicated in these places. In the editorial work it is the most detailed instrumentation that has been consulted. In the second movement Carl Nielsen, after notating all bar numbers in the movement, has interpolated a bar after bar 29. Thus all bar numbers after this in Source B must be increased by 1.

In the passages where the solo part, Source C, was fair-copied by Carl Nielsen and the score by Emil Telmányi, Carl Nielsen's fair copy of the flute part has been given highest priority. To maintain the use of one main source, they have in practice been noted as revisions in accordance with the solo part. In one case the "Fassung letzter Hand" is not used. This is in the bars where Carl Nielsen has fair-copied both score and solo part. Since the flute solo part seems to be given in more detail than in the score, it has been given high priority despite the fact that it was fair-copied before the score.

Rehearsal numbers in the second movement have been replaced by rehearsal letters in accordance with the first movement. Carl Nielsen's incomplete rehearsal numbers from the pencil draft have been included as variants.
