*The Melody of this movement was, I believe, first introduced to an English Public in the Pantomime of "Queen Mab"; it was afterwards sung in the Burletta of "Midas," and the composition has often been attributed to Rousseau; But, although "Midas," contains two Melodies from the "Devin du Village," I know of no satisfactory evidence to prove that the popular Air of "Pray Goody" is by the Composer of that Opera! That it is French however, is, I think, unquestionable. H. R. B.

The first system of the musical score for 'Two Gentlemen of Verona' features four vocal parts (Soprano, Alto, Tenor, Bass) and a piano accompaniment. The vocal parts enter with the lyrics 're = = = = nown To Hymen ho = = nour and re = nown and re ='. The piano accompaniment provides a rhythmic and harmonic foundation with chords and moving lines in both hands.

The second system of the musical score continues the vocal and piano parts. The vocal parts hold their notes from the previous system, marked with a fermata. The piano accompaniment continues with its rhythmic pattern, featuring chords and moving lines in both hands.

Two Gentlemen of Verona.

The third system of the musical score concludes the piece. The vocal parts finish their lines, and the piano accompaniment provides a final harmonic resolution. The title 'Two Gentlemen of Verona.' is printed at the bottom of the page.
