The image shows a page of handwritten French lute tablature, labeled '6v' in the top left corner. The page contains seven staves of music. The notation is a form of shorthand where letters (a, b, c, d, e, f, g) are placed on or below the lines of the staves to indicate fret positions. The music is written in a single system with various key signatures and time signatures. The final staff ends with the text 'finis A pavm' followed by a decorative flourish.
