CHEMICAL PERMANENT INK,

For Writing or Drawing on Linen, with a Pen.

By the use of this Composition, TIME IS SAVED, AND PROPERTY SECURED, and the advantages derived from its use make it well worth the attention of Tavern and Coffee-house Keepers, Families in general, and Gentlemen of the ARMY and NAVY, or any who travel much, as they may write on their Linen with a common Pen, with equal facility as on Paper :- A trial will give an incontestable proof of 'its superiority over every invention of the kind, having this peculiar advantage, that not any thing (even strong Acid or Alkali) can efface it. The common method of marking Linen in Initials with Types, or with Thread or Silk, &c., is not only tedious but unsafe. The first may be discharged, and the other picked out: the Initials of many Persons being the same, proves the necessity of writing, or marking with a Pen, and is a sure mode of identifying Property, and ultimately preventing Theft ; as it cannot be effaced whilst the cloth remains. It is likewise of great service in signing and dating Deeds, or other Papers of importance, where the least alteration of a letter or figure may be attended with fraudulent consequences, therefore the many advantages to the community in the use of this Ink are obvious.

IMPROVED GERMAN FLUTE,

AND DURABLE CLARIONET.

Musical Instrument and Music Sellers, by Appointment, to His Majesty.

28, REGENT-STREET, PICCADILLY.

PATENT FLUTES.

MONZANI and HILL respectfully invite the Amateurs of the Flute to an inspection of their Instruments, which, for tone, correctness of intonation, and workmanship, are not to be surpassed.

The simple construction, durability, and elegance of their New Patent Flute, render it worthy the attention of every Performer on that Instrument. It consists but of three pieces: the joints work with silver and cork, on a new and inimitable air-tight principle, which remedies the many inconveniences attendant on thread.

Their Manufactory having been established above 18 years, enables them to offer Instruments of the best-seasoned materials; and from their long experience, and the attention they have devoted to the subject, Monzani and Hill can with confidence assert, that their Flutes will be found to possess those most essential requisites—a free sonorous tone, and a perfect intonation.

The improved principle of their Patent Keys, (either with single or double springs,) entirely obviates any rattling noise, and prevents their getting out of order; at the same time they possess the advantage of stopping with the greatest accuracy.

As many pieces of Music published both on the Continent and England require the lower B flat, Monzani and Hill, now Manufacture Flutes with that additional Note.

B FLAT TENOR FLUTES.

These Flutes will be found to possess a peculiar sweetness of tone, and produce a very superior and novel effect in the performance of Trios; M. and H. having lately published several Sets of Melodies, &c, expressly composed and arranged for this Flute, a Concert, and a third or F Flute,

Monzani and Hill also Manufacture Flutes of every Description.

PATENT CLARIONETS,

With the Keys on the same Improved Principle as those on the Flutes.

The simple and durable construction of their Patent Clarionet, renders it highly worthy the attention of every Performer on that Instrument, and particularly well adapted for the Military and Naval Service. It consists but of three pieces and the mouth-piece, the joints of which are secured with silver, on an entire new and improved principle, which prevents the sockets of the joints from decaying or splitting. They are manufactured with from 6 to 13 Keys, on the latest and most improved principle.

COMPLETE SETS OF MILITARY INSTRUMENTS.

MONZANI'S INSTRUCTIONS FOR THE FLUTE.

It is much to be regretted, that many a Performer's progress is retarded by an inattention to a proper method of Fingering, and a fixed system of articulation. This may be obviated by a proper attention to the study of the Gamuts, Rules for Tipping and Slurring, and various methods of Fingering the Notes and Shakes as they occur in different passages; the whole of which is fully exemplified in the Third Edition of this Work, price, 10s. 6d.

Lists of the Prices of their different Instruments, and Catalogues of Music, may be had as above.

N.B. With Country Orders a Remittance is requested.

Ditto, duets for Two Performers, Nos. 1 to 6.

T. LINDSAY,

(From Messrs. Clementi & Co.'s.)

Bacs to announce to the Nobihty, his Friends, and the Public, that he has just commenced a Musical concern, as above, where by prompt attention and punctuality to business, he hopes to merit a share of their patronage and support.

The inconvenient distance of Messrs. CLEMENTI and Co.'s Warehouse in Cheapside, has hitherto prevented their giving that extensive circulation in the most Fashionable Circles, to numerous talented Works in their copious Catalogue, to which their classic merits so justly entitle them; and it has been in some measure with a view to obviate this objection that T. L. has opened a Depôt in Regent-street. To the Public in general, therefore, it is trusted his Establishment will prove an accommodation, whilst to the MUSICAL PROFESSION in particular, it offers at once convenience and utility as its recommendations, he having made such arrangements with the respectable Firm alluded to, as will enable him to supply their Publications at the West end of Town on the same liberal terms as they do in the City.

CHEMICAL PERMANENT INK,

For Writing or Drawir yon Lincn, with a Pen.

By the use of this Composition, TIME IS SAVED, AND PROPERTY SECURED, and the advantages derived from its use make it well worth the attention of Tavern and Coffee-house Keepers, Families in general, and Gentlemen of the ARMY and NAVY, or any who travel much, as they may write on their Linen with a common Pen, with equal facility as on Paper :- A trial will give an incontestable proof of its superiority over every invention of the kind, having this peculiar advantage, that not any thing (even strong Acid or Alkali) cao efface it. The common method of marking Linen in Initials with Types, or with Thread or Silk, &c., is not only tedious but unsafe. The first may be discharged, and the other picked out: the Initials of many Persons being the same, proves the necessity of writing, or marking with a Pen, and is a sure mode of identifying Property, and ultimately preventing Theft ; as it cannot be effaced whilst the cloth remains. It is likewise of great service in signing and dating Deeds, or other Papers of importance, where the least alteration of a letter or figure may he attended with fraudulent consequences, therefore the many advantages to the community in the use of this Ink are obvious.

By the Patent Improvements of this Instrument, not only passages hitherto of extreme difficulty, but such as before were impracticable, are rendered simple and easy to an ordinary player; the fingering of the common Clarinet is preserved, and the tone greatly enriched. The instrument, thus improved, has enlarged both the power of the composer and performer. It has been adopted by the Orchestra of the Theatre-Royal, Drury-Lane, as well as by many eminent Performers and Masters of Bands; and has received the written approbation and recommendation of composers of the highest ability, as far superior to any other Clarinet.

MEMOIRS OF THE COURT OF HENRY the GREAT.

. No epoch in the History of Europe is so pregnant with events of consequence to subsequent relations of society, as the reigns of Elizabeth of England and Henry the Great of France, cotemporaries, in period and rivals in the splendour and genins of their respective courts. Miss Aikin's elegant volumes have introduced us to a close acquaintance with the policy and intrigues of the great officers who directed the councils of Elizabeth, and those of the Court of France during the same period are recorded only in the works of Sully, Perefixe, and in the lighter productions which develop the Memoires Secreis during the reign of Henry the Great, and which form the basis of the present history of his reign.

" That the present work is ably written, and exhibits a spirited narrative of facts, will be manifest from the extracts which follow. The account of the massacre of St. Bartholomew is the fullest in our language, and so curious, that we have judged it proper to transfer the entire article, for its own sake, as well as to exhibit the talents of the author."-Monthly Mag.

FOR THE FLUTE,

Price One Guinea.

This long promised and elaborate work, so highly interesting to Flute Players in general, but more particularly so to those whose style of practice is regulated by the principles so ably laid down in the Author's former admirable book, entitled, "Preceptive Lessons," is just published.

The Exercises of which this valuable work consists, will be found to exemplify a great variety of subjects, many of them truly elegant; the whole original; and for the most part treated with due regard to diversity of style.

The following extracts from the Author's Address, will introduce the reader to a better acquaintance with the nature and contents of the volume;—

"Since the publication of his 'Preceptive Lessons,' the author has invariably continued to teach upon the principles therein inculcated, and he has great pleasure in saying that the result has proved as advantageous to his pupils as satisfactory to himself.

"Encouraged by these facts, and the flattering encomiums he has received from various amateurs and professors, he has now the pleasure of introducing to their notice a continuation, or Appendix to his Lessons, consisting of an entirely new Set of Exercises, or Capriccios, embodying a variety of Solos, Airs with Variations, Waltzes, and Polaccas; the practice of which he confidently hopes will not merely be attended with pleasure, but be found highly conducive to improvement. "The fingerings and harmonics have been preserved as in his former work; and with a view to induce practice, the addition of a Piano-Forte Accompaniment has been adopted: thus rendering these Capriccios not only useful as studies, but desirable as short and brilliant Solos, for performance in society."

DOVER AND HENDERSON,

68, CHANCERY-LANE.

Sixty of the most approved and fashionable Airs, selected from the works of the most esteemed Authors, and the fingering marked.

In offering the above work to the notice of young practitioners on the Violoncello, the author flatters himself that it will be found extremely useful; and as the general complaint, with amateurs of this manly instrument, is, that the arrangement of authors are mostly too difficult, affording little or no amusement to the student, he has in the above work endeavoured to blend amusement with instruction.

A selection of the most admired Airs, Duets, Chorusses, &c., from the celebrated Opera of Der Frieschütz, 5s.; "Jager Chorus," from ditto, with Vars., 2s.; "Home, sweet Home," ditto, 2s.; "Isabel," ditto, 2s.; "Aurora che Sorgerai," ditto, 2s.; "Benedetta sia la Madra," Introduction and Vars., 2s.; Gipsey March, Vars., 2s.; Rode's Air, Introduction and Vars., 2s.; Air from Nina, ditto, 2s.

For two Violoncellos .- The Battle of Prague, Ss.

This piece is so arranged as to produce all those striking effects required in this celebrated composition.

NOT A DRUM WAS HEARD, the celebrated Poem, written on the Death of General Moore, and set to Music by JOHN BARNETT. Price 28.

"Mr. Barnett has given this song a musical, and the music a poetical character. There is, indeed, in the mind of this gentleman indications of powerful talents, of which the piece before us is one instance. Of the justice of our praise we cannot bring a stronger proof, than that having placed it before a young lady to play, and a gentleman to sing (who had never before seen the song) they were both so affected as to be unable to go through it. We have repeated the experiment in a mixed society, and the opening symphony was pronounced to produce an effect all but overpowering."—Quarterly Musical Review, No. xxv.

HANDEL.

VARIOUS SELECTIONS and ADAPTATIONS have been made, at different times, from the Works of the above great Composer; but a further developement of the beauties contained in them may still present an ample field for the Compiler.

We have, therefore, determined to offer to our Friends, and the Public in general, a SELECTION from the VOCAL and INSTRUMENTAL COMPOSITIONS of HANDEL, with entirely new ADAPTATIONS from the SCORES; the Vocal Pieces by WM. HORSLEY, Mus. Bac. Oxon., and the Overtures by J. B. CRAMER.

In these adaptations, the most scrupulous attention will be paid to the Composer's harmonies; at the same time, the difference between effects produced by an orchestra, and those which are to be obtained from a single instrument, will be carefully studied. By this means, the adapters hope that they shall be able to effect some improvement on the labours of their predecessors, and thus to make their selection more particularly useful to those amateurs who are not in the habit of reading from score or figured basses.

Each composition will be paged, so as to bind up in volumes when the work is completed.

. Although numerous Road-Books have from time to time appeared before the public, each professing to excel its predecessor: yet it is still a subject of complaint, that there is not one, compact in its form, and lucid in its arrangement ; that those at present published are either too bulky or too confused; that they either contain much more, or much less, than the traveller requires. It has been the Editor's aim in preparing this volume, to take a middle course ; and while he has endeavoured on the one hand, to avoid all prolix details respecting uninteresting objects, he trusts that, on the other hand, he has not omitted to notice any Town, Village, or Nobleman's Seat, worthy the attention of the intelligent Traveller.

BLEWITT'S ORGAN SERVICE of the Church of England and Ireland: comprising a First and Last Voluntary; with a choice selection of the most approved chants, &c., with appropriate preludes and interludes, composed expressly for the work.

In the course of the work a concise treatise on the Organ will be given, with an entire new set of interludes, on a novel plan; this treatise will not only comprise instructions for the proper blending of the stops, but rules for tuning and regulating the reed work. Although these pieces were composed for the Organ, they will be found highly useful to the piano-forte student, as a practice for the formation of the true legato style; they will also, it is hoped, form an acceptable appendage to the piano-forte, in private families, as a Sunday evening recreation.

NOT A DRUM WAS HEARD, the celebrated Poem, written on the Death of General Moore, and set to Music by JOHN BARNETT. Price 2s.

"Mr. Barnett has given this song a musical, and the music a poetical character. There is, indeed, in the mind of this gentleman indications of powerful talents, of which the piece before us is one instance. Of the justice of our praise we cannot bring a stronger proof, than that having placed it before a young lady to play, and a gentleman to sing (who had never before seen the song) they were both so affected as to be unable to go through it. We have repeated the experiment in a mixed society, and the opening symphony was pronounced to produce an effect all but overpowering."—Quarterly Musical Review, No. xxv.

HUNT AND CLARKE,

TAVISTOCK-STREET, COVENT-GARDEN.

In two handsome Vols. Svo., Or in Weekly Parts, 12mo. Price One Shilling each, A HISTORY OF THE FRENCH REVOLUTION.

Translated from the French of A. F. MIGNET.

A good History of the greatest political revolution in modern times has long been a desideratum both in French and English literature. This has at length been supplied in France by M. Mignet, in a work as admirably concise, impartial, and philosophic, as it is remarkable for clearness and beauty of style. Considering the extraordinary interest of the narration, and the talent with which it is penned, it is thought that the English Reader cannot be better supplied than by a Translation of M. Mignet's History.

Part I. contains a Portrait of MADAME ROLAND.

In Fortnightly Parts, small Svo. Price One Shilling each, An HISTORICAL and CRITICAL DICTIONARY, Abridged from the great work of BAYLE ; the articles being mostly re-written, and the information in each article being drawn from various parts of the original, and condensed under one head, preserving however an alphabetical arrangement. To be completed in about four thick volumes in foolscap Svo. forming a companion to the PHILOSOPHICAL DICTIONARY OF VOLTAIRE. Part I. contains a Portrait of BAYLE.

A HISTORY OF

NAPOLEON'S EXPEDITION to RUSSIA in 1812,

By Lieutenant-General Count Philip de Segur.

*** For fear of mistakes, purchasers wishing to have this Edition, should be particular in specifying in their orders the size (duodecimo), the price, and the names of the publishers; this being the cheapest edition published (although very neatly printed on good paper), a new translation having been made expressly for it from the French of M. de Segur.

"This work displays great talent. It is clear, eloquent, ar mated, full of dramatic interest, fascinating, and, we may add, instructive, to unmilitary readers, like us, beyond any account of a campaign we ever remember to have read."-Scotsman.

"Twenty-two thousand copies of M. de Segur's work are scattered over France in every direction. For forty years we have had nothing so interesting and so true. The tragic recital excites intense interest in all readers, whether Frenchmen or foreigners."—Letters from Paris, by Grimm's Grandson, in the London Magazine.

In Weekly Parts, royal 18mo. Price 1s. each,

An EMBELLISHED EDITION of TOM JONES.

This Edition will be completed in 24 Parts, and will form, at the conclusion, four handsome volumes, containing twelve illustrations of the most prominent incidents in the Novel, engraved by Heath, Schiavonetti, Engléheart, Rhodes, &c. after designs by Stothard, Westall, Devis, Owen, &c. To those persons who desire to possess a really good edition of this celebrated novel, illustrated in a style worthy of the admirable subjects, the publishers believe that the present publication, extremely moderate as it is in price, will preve acceptable.

In Monthly Parts, Price One Shilling each. A GENERAL BIOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY.

To be completed in two volumes, 8vo. by the publication of a part every month.

"Among the many cheap and useful publications now issuing from the press, we have scarcely seen one which unites so many excellences as this Biographical Dictionary. It exhibits a fine specimen of typography, and has a merit which belongs to a very few low-priced works. The Editor, who is evidently a person of learning and talent, has drawn his materials from a very great variety of sources, which he has faithfully indicated; he has taken many articles from books not in general circulation; translated or abridged others from foreign dictionaries or journals, and, what is still better, he has infused into the whole a degree of taste and spirit which we should look for in vain in some biographical compilations of much greater cost and pretension."—Scotsman.

In Weekly Parts, small 8vo, Price One Shilling each. A PHILOSOPHICAL DICTIONARY.

Translated from the French of VOLTAIRE.

"It is remarkable, that the only work of Voltaire which has not heretofore found an English translator, is the Philosophical Dictionary. It seems superfluous to descant upon a book whose merits have been so long decided. There is probably no work of equal size in any language, which has been so frequently reprinted in so short a space of time. Its wit, its variety, the simplicity of its style, and its extensive and curious research, present a combination of attractions which cannot fail to procure a lasting popularity. The translation before us is executed with accuracy and spirit."—Westminster Review.

"Since the first productions of the author of Waverly, we have seen nothing of the kind that, in our judgment, equals these Tales. The writer, though no imitator of the 'Great unknown,' is evidently of kindred genius. He is characterized by the same vivid and picturesque descriptions of nature, the same close and powerful sketches of character, the same skill in availing himself of local superstitions, the same locality of creating dramatic situations, and giving a dramatic character and interest to his narrative." Monthly Critical Gazette, June, 1825.

An Original Work, comprising the varieties of English and Foreign Practice, with fourteen Illustrative Engravings, 6s. Boards, 7s. Bound, and Lettered.

"This Work is in every sense, calculated to obviate the general complaint of the majority of our treatises on Cookery, viz., that after the novice has carefully weighed and measured out his ingredients, in the mode and manner directed, be, at last, finds the product at variance with the promise. Mr. Cooke has however, not only specified the measure of quantity of each article, but as far as it could be done with certainty, he has given the requisite time for the cooking of each dish, whether plain or compounded. 'This,' observes the Author, 'is altogether a novel feature,' and, as he his an eminent professor of his art, his work is materially enhanced, by his uniting elegance with every-day practice and experience. In CONFECTIONARY, Mr. Cooke displays two-fold excellence in illustrating his receipts in that department, by a series of etchings of tasteful designs in ornamental pastry, and drawings of confectionary implements." - Monthly Critical Gazette, April, 1825.

"The alliterating title of this volume may at first induce our readers to imagine it a lusus of literature, but we can assure them it is in every sense a valuable practical manual, combining elegance with utility and economy."-Magnet, April, 1825.

"One great advantage peculiar to this important family manual is, that the weights and measures of the different articles are accurately defined, as well as the time required for roasting, boiling, frying, &c., fisb, flesh, and fowl, of all sorts and sizes. All the receipts have, we understand, been worked by the Author, who is well known at Brighthelmstone, as an accomplished professor of the very useful art upon which he has written."-Time's Telescope for 1825.

THIS INSTRUMENT is so constructed as to be either used as a common PIANO-FORTE, or in conjunction with the Self-Performing Mechanism, or simply with the Self-Acting Machine alone. Its form is that of a Cabinet, with semicircular doors below, tastefully fitted up so as to make an elegant piece of Furniture. The machine is so ingeniously contrived as to graduate the tone from the utmost delicacy to the greatest force, so that, in passages of expression, it approximates nearer to the living touch than it was for a long time deemed possible that mechanism could approach; and in passages of execution, the most practised performer cannot equal its precision. The most celebrated OVERTURES have been set on it, in a manner to excite the admiration of the best Musicians; and for QUADRILLES and COUNTRY DANCES this Instrument is found of the greatest advantage, where performers cannot readily be procured.

• Although numerous Road-Books have from time to time appeared before the public, each professing to excel its predecessor: yet it is still a subject of complaint, that there is not one, compact in its form, and lucid in its arrangement; that those at present published are either too bulky or too confused; that they either contain much more, or much less, than the traveller requires. It Las been the Editor's aim in preparing this volume, to take a middle course; and while he has endeavoured on the one hand, to avoid all prolix details respecting uninteresting objects, he trusts that, on the other hand, he has not omitted to notice any Town, Village, or Nobleman's Seat, worthy the attention of the intelligent Traveller.

NOT A DRUM WAS HEARD, the celebrated Poem, written on the Death of General Moore, and set to Music by JOHN BARNETT. Price 2s.

"Mr. Barnett has given this song a musical, and the music a poetical character. There is, indeed, in the mind of this gentleman indications of powerful talents, of which the piece before us is one instance. Of the justice of our praise we cannot bring a stronger proof, than that having placed it before a young lady to play, and a gentleman to sing (who had never before seen the song) they were both so affected as to be unable to go through it. We have repeated the experiment in a mixed society, and the opening symphony was pronounced to produce an effect all but overpowering."-Quarterly Musical Review, No. xxv.
