Among the myrtles as I walked

Robert Herrick or Thomas Carew<sup>(1)</sup> Henry Lawes British Library: Add. MS 53723, f. 78 Edited by Christopher Baum Ι A - mong the myr tles\_ as walk'd, Love and my ≴o Θ 0 [%] Ο sighs ter - talk'd; Tell I, dis - tress, thus en me, said deep in θ 0 0 10 13 to Ι Where find herd may my shep ess.  $\mathbf{\sigma}$ Θ Θ

(1) The text has been credited to both poets. It appears in Carew's Poems (1640) under the title "The Enquiry", and in Herrick's Hesperides (1648) under the heading "Mrs Elizabeth Wheeler, under the name of The Lost Shepherdess". The text as set by Lawes is closer to the version in Carew's volume. In the second stanza, for instance, Herrick's text reads "In yond' carnation" where Carew (and Lawes) have "In yonder tulip".

The text in Lawes' autograph differs in various respects from the one used in the published editions (as can be seen from the very first word, which is "Amidst" in all printed scores), but overall it is still closer to the version credited to Carew.

This edition copyright © 2017 by Christopher Baum. Edition may be freely distributed, duplicated, performed and recorded.

Then, fool, said Love, know'st thou not this? In ev'ry thing that's good she is; In yonder tulip go and seek, Then thou shalt have her lip, her cheek.

In that enamelled pansy by, There thou shalt have her curious eye; In bloom of peach, in rose's bud There waves the streams of her blood.

'Tis true, said I, and thereupon, I went to pluck them one by one To make of parts an union, But on a sudden all were gone.

At which I stopped; said Love, these be, Fond man, resemblances of thee; For as these flowers thy joy must die, And in the turning of an eye.

And all thy hopes of her must wither, Like those short sweets e'er knit together.