The Prodigal Son.

PREFACE.

It is a remarkable fact that the Parable of the Prodigal Son should never before have been chosen as the text of a sacred musical composition. The story is so natural and pathetic, and forms so complete a whole; its lesson is so thoroughly Christian; the characters, though few, are so perfectly contrasted, and the opportunity for the employment of "local colour" is so obvious, that it is indeed astonishing to find the subject so long overlooked.

The only drawback is the shortness of the narrative, and the consequent necessity for filling it out with material drawn from elsewhere.

In the present case this has been done as sparingly as possible, and entirely from the Scriptures. In so doing the Prodigal himself has been conceived, not as of a naturally brutish and depraved disposition—a view taken by many commentators with apparently little knowledge of human nature, and no recollection of their own youthful impulses; but rather as a buoyant, restless youth, tired of the monotony of home, and anxious to see what lay beyond the narrow confines of his father's farm, going forth in the confidence of his own simplicity and ardour, and led gradually away into follies and sins which, at the outset, would have been as distasteful as they were strange to him.

The episode with which the parable concludes has no dramatic connection with the former and principal portion, and has therefore not been treated.

THE PRODIGAL SON.

No. 1.

INTRODUCTION.

Andante tranquillo. ♩ = 132.

PIANO.

p ————— f ————— p ————— p

The musical score is written for piano and consists of six systems of two staves each. The key signature has two flats (B-flat and E-flat), and the time signature is 6/8. The tempo is marked 'Andante tranquillo' with a quarter note equal to 132 beats per minute. The score begins with a piano (p) dynamic, followed by a crescendo to a forte (f) dynamic, and then returns to piano (p). The first system includes a large fermata over the first four measures. The music features a variety of textures, including block chords, arpeggiated figures, and flowing melodic lines in both hands. The piece concludes with a final cadence in the sixth system.

First system of musical notation, featuring a grand staff with treble and bass clefs. The music is in a key with two flats and a 3/4 time signature. A piano (p) dynamic marking is present at the beginning.

Second system of musical notation, continuing the piece with complex melodic lines in both hands.

Third system of musical notation, including dynamic markings dim. and pp.

Fourth system of musical notation, featuring dynamic markings cres. and f.

Fifth system of musical notation, including a cres. dynamic marking.

Sixth system of musical notation, including a ff dynamic marking.

The first system of music features a vocal line in treble clef with a key signature of one sharp (F#) and a common time signature. The lyrics are "good but for a man to re -". Below the vocal line is a piano accompaniment consisting of two staves: a right-hand treble staff and a left-hand bass staff. The piano part uses a variety of rhythmic patterns, including eighth and sixteenth notes, and rests, with some notes beamed together.

The second system of music continues the vocal line with the lyrics "- joice. I know there is no .....". Above the vocal line, the instruction "With fervour." is written in italics, followed by a forte dynamic marking "f". The piano accompaniment continues with similar rhythmic patterns, including some sustained chords in the right hand.

good but for a man.....

The third system of music shows the vocal line with the lyrics "good but for a man.....". The piano accompaniment features a more active right hand with frequent sixteenth-note patterns, while the left hand maintains a steady bass line.

..... to re - joice.

The fourth system of music concludes the vocal line with the lyrics "..... to re - joice.". The piano accompaniment ends with a piano dynamic marking "pp" and a final cadence. The right hand has some chromatic movement in the final few notes.
