Chorus.

And ev'-ry dark and gloomy night, A ghost - ly form in robes of white A tall and lean and fright - ful sight, Would wand - er a-round the town; And as it

FLOATING DOWN THE NILE

Cole and Johnson have written many "hits" and the consensus of opinion of all who have heard the above song is that this one will be one of their greatest. It is meeting with phenomenal success in the "Shoo-Fly Regiment" in which the writers are starring, and takes eight and ten encores at every performance. Try it!
