The first system of the musical score features a Violino part on a single staff and a Piano part on a grand staff (treble and bass clefs). The key signature is A major (three sharps) and the time signature is 3/4. The tempo is marked 'Comodo'. The Violino part begins with a melodic line in the right hand, while the Piano part provides harmonic support with chords in both hands. Dynamics include 'p dolce' for both instruments and 'simile' for the piano part.

The second system continues the musical score. The Violino part maintains its melodic line with some phrasing slurs. The Piano part continues with its harmonic accompaniment, featuring some dynamic markings like hairpins.

The third system shows further development of the musical themes. The Violino part has more complex phrasing with slurs and accents. The Piano part continues to support the melody with its characteristic chordal accompaniment.

The fourth system concludes the piece. The Violino part features a melodic line that ends with a fermata. The Piano part also concludes with a final chord. Dynamics include 'poco cresc.' and 'mf'.
