Idi speciosam sicut columbam ascenden
tem desuper riuos aquarum, ij.
cuius inestimabilis odor erat nimis, ij.
et sicut dies uerni ij circundabant

The musical score is written on four staves. Each staff begins with a clef (C-clef for the first three, F-clef for the fourth) and a key signature of one flat (B-flat). The notation consists of diamond-shaped notes with vertical stems. The lyrics are written in a Gothic script below the staves, with some words spanning across multiple staves. The text is: "Idi speciosam sicut columbam ascenden tem desuper riuos aquarum, ij. cuius inestimabilis odor erat nimis, ij. et sicut dies uerni ij circundabant". The word "Idi" is likely a typo for "Veni". The "ij." likely refers to the 12th Psalm.

A handwritten musical score on two staves. The notation consists of diamond-shaped notes with vertical stems, typical of early printed music. The first staff begins with a treble clef and a flat key signature. The lyrics are written below the staves: flores rosarum under the first staff, et lilia conuallium under the second staff, and ij. under the third staff. The second staff also begins with a treble clef and a flat key signature. The lyrics continue: ij. under the first part of the staff, et lilia conuallium. under the second part, and k at the end. The manuscript is on aged, slightly stained paper.
