

Thomas Linley Sr. (1733-1795)

Thomas Linley Jr. (1756-1778)

Cantata

Ye Nymphs of Albion's Beauty-Blooming Isle

(ca. 1773-1776)

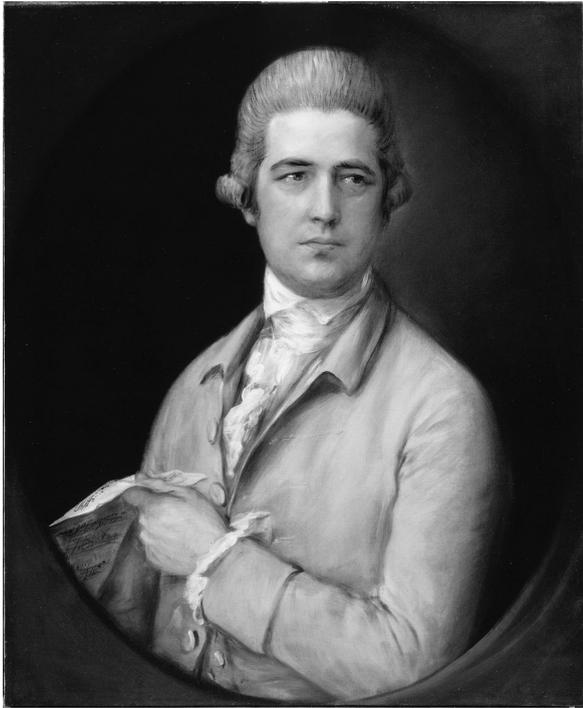

from

The Posthumous Vocal Works of Mr. Linley and Mr. T. Linley

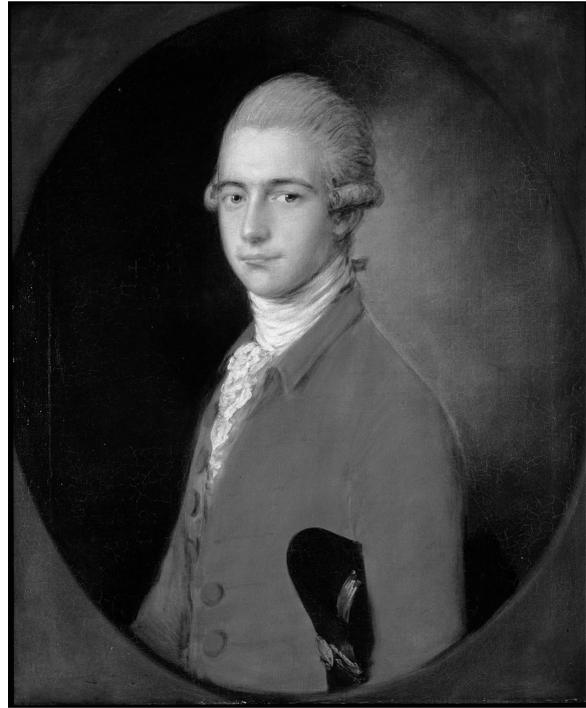

Edited by

Erik A. Schroeder

Urtext

Thomas Linley Sr. (1733-1795)¹

Thomas Linley Jr. (1756-1778)²

¹ Thomas Gainsborough, Thomas Linley the Elder, late 1760s, oil on canvas, 765 mm x 635 mm, Dulwich Picture Gallery, Dulwich, England.

² Thomas Gainsborough, Thomas Linley the Younger, ca. 1772, oil on canvas, 759 mm x 635 mm, Dulwich Picture Gallery, Dulwich, England.

Preface

The only known complete source for “Ye Nymphs of Albion’s Beauty-Blooming Isle” is the volume The Posthumous Vocal Works of Mr. Linley and Mr. T. Linley, a collection of compositions by Thomas Linley Sr. (1733-1795) and Thomas Linley Jr. (1756-1778) published around 1800.³ This cantata has previously been attributed entirely to Linley Jr. based on stylistic reasons and dated to ca. 1773-1776.⁴ Peter Holman, in the programme notes to the 1994 recording released by Hyperion, further speculates that the text was written by Linley Jr.’s sister, Elizabeth Linley.⁵ It is now apparent, however, that at least some of the cantata must have been written by Linley Sr., given that the air “Wrapt close from harm” appears in his opera “The Royal Merchant”, which premiered in 1768 (when Linley Jr. would have been twelve years old).⁶ This also calls into question the authorship of the text, which (for this particular air) is almost exactly the same in both “The Royal Merchant” and “Ye Nymphs of Albion’s Beauty-Blooming Isle”, the text for the former written by a certain Mr. Hull.⁷ Regardless of authorship questions, the composition remains a wonderful example of late 18th-century English cantatas.

In preparing this edition, certain editorial decisions have been made purely on the basis of style, context, and good judgement, given that there are no other available sources. Idiosyncrasies or errors in dynamics have been corrected and notated in brackets. When a dynamic marking is present in some parts but omitted in others where it is clear that the dynamic applies to the whole ensemble, it has been also added in brackets. Original dynamics such as for or po have been modernised. Regarding lyrics and text (including indications in the score), all original punctuation as well as capitalisations, abbreviations, and spellings have been maintained. All added text is in brackets. In many places, additional accidentals already covered by the key signature are notated in the source. These have been, for the most part, omitted, except in instances where a courtesy accidental would be helpful. Original articulation markings and ornaments have been maintained; editorial articulations have been added in brackets, and added slurs have been written as dotted lines.⁸ Original note beamings have been maintained, including abbreviations (e.g., a half note with a slash through the stem instead of four eighth notes). Original score order has also been maintained. Indications of unison in the violin parts have been written out. Original figured bass

³ Peter Holman, liner notes to Linley: Cantatas and Theatre Music, Julia Gooding, The Parley of Instruments, dir. Paul Nicholson, Hyperion CDH55256, CD, 1995. For some details in the air “Wrapt close from harm”, the vocal score of Linley Sr.’s “The Royal Merchant” has also been consulted (see note 6 below).

⁴ Gwilym Beechey, “Thomas Linley, 1756-78, and His Vocal Music”, The Musical Times 119, no. 1626 (Aug., 1978): 671.

⁵ Holman, Linley: Cantatas and Theatre Music, 4.

⁶ Thomas Linley, The Royal Merchant. A Comic Opera (London: Welcker, 1768): 62. Another air from this opera also appears in the cantata “In Yonder Grove”, likewise found in The Posthumous Vocal Works.

⁷ Ibid.

⁸ Often an articulation is notated only for one or two measures and is intended to be continued in performance.

numerals have been maintained. Errors of notation have been corrected and are marked with a number referring to a note in the critical apparatus at the end of the score.

“Ye Nymphs of Albion’s Beauty-Blooming Isle” consists of beautifully flowing and evocative accompanied recitatives and two airs (one with horn and the other, a rondeau, with solo oboe). Peter Holman writes that the music “is more sophisticated and original [than the cantata “In Yonder Grove”, dated to 1773] and begins with a musical sunrise, a sensuous pre-Romantic evocation of nature”.⁹ “Ye Nymphs of Albion’s Beauty-Blooming Isle” is scored for strings, horn in F, and solo oboe; a typical performance lasts about twelve minutes.¹⁰

Erik A. Schroeder
Salzburg, Austria
June 2020

⁹ Holman, Linley: Cantatas and Theatre Music, 4.

¹⁰ Concerning the horn part: in the source, the plural “Corni in F” is indicated in the air “Wrapt close from harm”. It is likely that this is an error, however, and the part is meant for solo horn.

Cantata: "Ye Nymphs of Albion's Beauty-Blooming Isle"

(ca. 1773-1776)

Thomas Linley Sr. (1733-1795)

Thomas Linley Jr. (1756-1778)

CANTATA

Recit:

Vio. 1.mo

Vio. 2.do

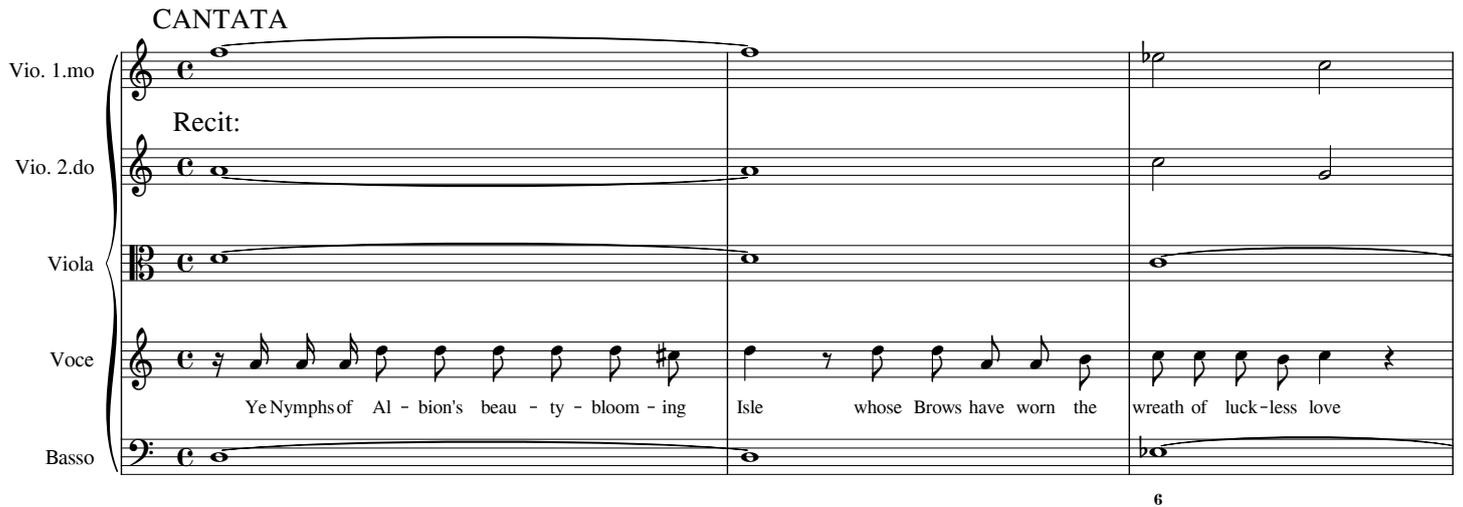

Viola

Voce

Basso

Ye Nymphs of Al - bion's beau - ty - bloom - ing Isle whose Brows have worn the wreath of luck-less love is there a pleas-ure like the pen-sive mood whose mag-ic soft-ness soothes the love-sick Soul O speak the mel-an-cho-ly

6

4

1)

4
2

8 b7

b

9

And.^{te}

Joy to melt at me-lo-dy's as-swa-sive sounds to bend the si-lent step a-long the mid-night mead charm'd by the

2)

[mf]

p [mf]

[p] [mf]

[p]

6 5 b3

5 4 #

b b7

[mf]

[p]

Ac - cents of the Youth you love and pour your sor - rows to the pi - tying Moon.

Corni in F.

Wrapt close from Harm midst night's deep fold - ing Gloom O

Largo

Love sup - port my steps O Love sup - port my steps thy wond' - rous pow'r as - sume wrapt close from Harm midst night's deep fold - ing Gloom O Love sup-port my steps O Love sup-port my steps thy wond' - - rous Pow'r as - sume When the bright morn - ing

Ray first lights the op'n - ing Skies let me my dawn-ing Joy be-hold in Da-mon's Eyes in

Da - mon's Eyes when the bright morn - ing Ray first lights the op'n-ing Skies let me my dawn-ing Joy be - hold in Da - mon's Eyes. Eyes.

let me my dawn-ing Joy be - hold in Da - mon's Eyes. Eyes.

Recit:

Thus young E-mi - ra beau-teous as the Spring when from her vio-let wo-ven Couch a - wak'd She first leads on the hap - py

4

Year her soft wish-es breath'd when the fond Youth act - ive as light and fresh as ear-ly dawn She saw de-scend-ing from the moun-tain's

8 p b p a tempo e dolce side his Pre-sence fill'd with Joy the hap-py Maid and words and Looks of Love her soft De-sire con-vey'd

1)

2)

a tempo e dolce

Oboe Solo

1) p

p

2)

Fly Fly Fly Da - mon fly fly to yon

p Molto Allegro

9

se - cret Grove there will I meet thee there will I meet thee dear - est Youth

f p

[f] [p]

18

there will I meet thee dear - est Youth

f p

[f] p

[f]

[f]

27 the Stars a - bove that bless our

[p]

34

Solo

love bear wit - ness of our truth bear wit - ness bear wit - ness bear

[fp]

44

wit - ness of our truth bear wit - ness bear wit - ness bear wit - ness of our

[p]

[cresc.]

54

f

3) cresc.

f

[cresc.]

[f]

f

f

[cresc.]

[f] truth

[f]

[cresc.]

[f]

63

fp

p cresc.

[f]

[fp]

[cresc.]

[f]

[fp]

[cresc.]

[f]

There will I tell thee all my Heart and listen to thy soothing tale

[p]

[f]

73

p

[p]

[p]

tell thee each Fear and anxious doubt that rends my Heart that rends my Heart

[p] rends my Heart with Pain on us the Flow'rs shall si - lent shed their sweets their sweets and scent the ev' - ning shade

the love - lorn Song of Phi - lo-mel shall war - - - ble thro' Glade

We will for - get our cru - el Fate whole Years of Grief this Hour o'er pays

Hark! Hark! Hark how the Bird of Love in - vites and tunes and tunes her ev' - ning Lays.

fp al Segno

Critical Apparatus

Recitative: "Ye nymphs of Albion's beauty-blooming isle"

- | | |
|-------------------------|---------------------|
| 1) Measure 4, voice | Original: B natural |
| 2) Measure 10, voice | Original: B natural |
| 3) Measure 14, violin 2 | Original: B natural |

Air: "Wrapt close from harm"

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|---|
| 1) Measure 5, basso | Original:  |
| 2) Measure 32, violin 1 | Original: quarter note |
| 3) Measure 51, violin 2 | Original: same as violin 1 until m. 53 (first ending) |
| 4) Measure 53 (first ending), viola | Original: no C |
| 5) Measure 53 (second ending), voice | Original: whole rest |

Recitative: "Thus young Emira, beauteous as the spring"

- | | |
|-------------------------|---------------------|
| 1) Measure 11, violin 2 | Original: E natural |
| 2) Measure 11, basso | Original: B natural |

Air: "Fly Damon to yon secret grove"

- | | |
|---------------------------|---|
| 1) Measure 1, violin 1 | Original: marked "solo" |
| 2) Measure 5, viola | Original: A |
| 3) Measure 56, violin 1 | Original:  |
| 4) Measure 90, viola | Original: no E flat |
| 5) Measure 95, viola | Original: A (natural) |
| 6) Measure 96, viola | Original: A natural |
| 7) Measure 96, basso | Original: A natural |
| 8) Measure 96, voice | Original: A natural |
| 9) Measure 99, oboe | Original: E natural |
| 10) Measure 101, oboe | Original: E natural |
| 11) Measure 116, voice | Original: A natural |
| 12) Measure 121, violin 2 | Original: F natural |