GENERAL PREFACE

GENERELT FORORD

The Carl Nielsen Edition is an independent project under the auspices of the Music Department of the Royal Library, launched in 1994 on the initiative of the Ministry of Culture and funded by the Ministry, the foundations Carl Nielsen og Anne Marie Carl-Nielsens Legat and Gangstefonden, with further financial support for the publication of the individual volumes from a number of other private foundations.

The edition is for both practical and scholarly use, and is based on critical editorial principles. It comprises all Carl Nielsen's finished works and completed individual pieces, and seeks as far as possible to reflect the works in the version last sanctioned by the composer. In cases where songs exist in several different arrangements by Carl Nielsen, all the versions are published.

Each work is furnished with an introduction which gives a brief account of the genesis of the work and its place in the composer's oeuvre, and a Critical Commentary including source description, editorial emendations and additions, and important alternative readings. The editorial material is given in the same volume as the music. This does not apply however to the two operas and the three major works for soloists, choir and orchestra, for which the critical apparatus comes in separate volumes.

Works included in volumes with several independent works are also published in separate booklets. Part material is published for all the orchestral and chamber music works and parts as well as piano score are published for the operas and the major choral works.

The edition is divided into the main series Stage Music, Instrumental Music and Vocal Music with the divisions into volumes; within each genre the works are ordered chronologically.

Carl Nielsen Udgaven er et selvstændigt projekt under Det Kongelige Biblioteks Musikafdeling, iværksat i 1994 på Kulturministeriets foranledning og finansieret af Kulturministeriet, Carl Nielsen og Anne Marie Carl-Nielsens Legat samt Gangstefonden, hvortil kommer støtte fra en række private fonde til udgivelse af de enkelte bind.

Udgaven er til såvel praktisk som videnskabelig brug, tilrettelagt efter kritisk-videnskabelige udgivelsesprincipper. Den omfatter samtlige Carl Nielsens afsluttede værker og enkeltsatser og søger i videst mulige omfang at afspejle værkerne i den af komponisten senest sanktionerede version. I tilfælde, hvor sange foreligger i flere forskellige arrangementer fra Carl Nielsens hånd, udgives alle versioner.

Hvert værk er forsynet med en indledning, der kort beskriver værkets tilblivelseshistorie og placerer det i den samlede produktion, samt en kritisk beretning, hvor der redegøres for kildesituationen, redaktionelle ændringer og tilføjelser og vigtige varianter. Den kritiske beretning bringes i samme bind som nodedelene. Dette gælder dog ikke de to operaer og de tre større værker for soli, kor og orkester, hvor det kritiske apparat bringes i separate bind.

Værker, der indgår i bind med flere selvstændige værker, udgives også i separate hæfter. Til alle orkester- og kammermusikværker udgives stemmemateriale, og til operaerne og de større korværker udgives såvel stemmer som klaverpartitur.

Udgaven er opdelt i hovedserierne Scenemusik, Instrumentalmusik og Vokalmusik med tilhørende opdeling i enkeltbind; inden for hver genre er værkerne ordnet kronologisk.

Editorial principles

The music is reproduced with no typographical indications of editorial additions or emendations. These will be documented in the Critical Commentary. Typography, score disposition, genre names, and instrument names have been normalized in accordance with present-day practice. With a few exceptions, discussed in more detail in the Critical Commentary, the many additions and changes in Carl Nielsen's works that have been made by friends and colleagues have been removed.

Articulation, dynamics, ties and slurs, execution markings and playing instructions have been normalized on the basis of analogies between clearly parallel passages. All such completions are documented in the Critical Commentary. Obvious writing and printing errors have been tacitly corrected.

Carl Nielsen often notated horns and trumpets with key signatures. This practice has been normalized to a notation exclusively using accidentals.

Redaktionelle principper

Nodeteksten gengives uden typografisk markering af redaktionelle tilføjelser eller ændringer. Disse vil være dokumenteret i den kritiske beretning. Typografi, partitropstilling, instrument- og genrebetegnelser er normaliseret efter nutidig praksis. Med enkelte undtagelser, som der er gjort nærmere rede for i den kritiske beretning, er de mange tilføjelser og ændringer i Carl Nielsens værker, der er foretaget af venner og kolleger, fjernet.

Nodeteksten er normaliseret med hensyn til artikulation, dynamik, buer, foredragsbetegnelser og spiltekniske anvisninger således, at der er analogi mellem entydige parallelsteder. Alle sådanne kompletteringer dokumenteres i den kritiske beretning. Oplagte skrive- og trykfejl er stiltiende rettet.

Carl Nielsen noterede ofte horn og trompeter med faste fortegn. Denne praksis er normaliseret til notation udelukkende med løse fortegn.

“Muta in” in connection with the retuning of timpani and changes between two instruments (for example clarinet in A and B^b) has been tacitly normalized. This also applies to the combination of ties and slurs.

In Carl Nielsen's manuscripts the dynamic markings are sometimes rather carelessly placed, and this is also reflected in the early printed editions. This has been tacitly adjusted.

Clefs are normally given as in the main source.

“Muta in” i forbindelse med omstemning af pauker og skift mellem to instrumenter (f.eks. klarinet i A og B^b) er stiltiende normaliseret. Det samme gælder kombinationen af buer og bindebuer.

I Carl Nielsens manuskripter er de dynamiske angivelser undertiden placeret noget skødesløst, hvilket afspejler sig i de tidlige trykte udgaver. Dette er stiltiende justeret.

Nøgler gengives normalt som i hovedkilden.

P R E F A C E

For the editorial work on Carl Nielsen's Fifth Symphony, all the important sources have been available, so that it has been possible to follow its genesis through all its phases. The first stage is to be found in the pencil draft for the symphony, which bears the catalogue number CNS 66b in the Carl Nielsen Collection of the Royal Library.¹ The pencil draft formed the basis for Nielsen's own fair copy in ink, CNS 66a. This fair copy, with the end date 15th January 1922, forms the basis for the original set of parts that was printed for the first performance on 24th January 1922, and it is also the printing source for the first printed edition, published by Borups Musikforlag at the end of 1926.²

Before the printing Carl Nielsen's fair copy of the score was edited and on that occasion Carl Nielsen's son-in-law Emil Telmányi added many dynamic markings, bowings and articulation marks. These additions take the form of a correction of the score and are generally based on Carl Nielsen's own indications. Almost all these additions were included in the printed score. It can be documented that Telmányi's additions were sanctioned by Carl Nielsen, since during the last stage of the proof-reading Nielsen was with Emil Telmányi in Italy.³

1 Birgit Bjørnum & Klaus Møllerhøj, Carl Nielsens Samling. Katalog over komponistens musikhåndskrifter i Det kongelige Bibliotek, (Danish Humanist Texts and Studies. Volume 4. Edited by Erland Kolding Nielsen) The Royal Library, Copenhagen 1992.

2 The score was presumably printed in November 1926, since the proof-reading is unlikely to have been finished before October, and the Royal Library's copy entered the collection on 7th December 1926. The publication is mentioned in the bookseller's list Dansk Musikhandlerforenings Musikfortegnelse, No. 4 (4th quarter) 1926, p. 16.

3 The correspondence between Carl Nielsen and Emil Telmányi is discussed in detail in Michael Fjeldsøe, "Carl Nielsens 5. symfoni. Dens tilblivelse og reception i 1920rne", Dansk Årbog for Musikforskning XXIV 1996, p. 54. The letters from Carl Nielsen are in DK-Kk, CNS, the letters from Emil Telmányi in DK-Kk, CNA. Carl Nielsen left the second proofs to Emil Telmányi, who offered his help, saying that in cases of doubt he would consult Carl Nielsen. On this understanding Carl Nielsen replied to Telmányi that he could "review and add what you think in the proofs" (underlining by Carl Nielsen). This reply is also quoted in Emil Telmányi, Af en Musikers Billedbog, Copenhagen 1978, p. 174.

Ved revisionen af Carl Nielsens femte symfoni har alle væsentlige kilder været til rådighed, således at tilbivilelsen har kunnet følges i alle dens faser. Første trin findes i blyantskladden til symfonien, der i katalogen over Carl Nielsens Samling på Det Kongelige Bibliotek bærer betegnelsen CNS 66b.¹ Blyantskladden har dannet grundlag for Carl Nielsens egenhændige renskrift med blæk CNS 66a. Denne renskrift, der er sluttet 15. januar 1922, danner basis for det originale stemmesæt, der blev udskrevet til uropførelsen den 24. januar 1922, og derudover er den trykforlæg for den første trykte udgave, der udkom på Borups Musikforlag i slutningen af 1926.²

Forud for trykningen blev Carl Nielsens renskrift af partituret gået igennem, og i den forbindelse blev der af Carl Nielsens svigersøn, Emil Telmányi, tilføjet en lang række dynamiske angivelser, strøgangivelser og artikulationstegn. Disse tilføjelser har karakter af en tilretning af partituret og ligger generelt i forlængelse af Carl Nielsens egne angivelser. Stort set alle disse tilføjelser er medtaget i det trykte partitur. Det lader sig godtøre, at Telmányis tilføjelser er sanktionerede af Carl Nielsen, idet Carl Nielsen under korrekturlæsningens sidste fase opholdt sig sammen med Emil Telmányi i Italien.³

2 Partituret er antagelig trykt i november 1926, idet korrekturlæsningen næppe har været færdig før i oktober, og Det kongelige Biblioteks eksemplarer er indgået i samlingen den 7. dec. 1926. Udgivelsen er nævnt i Dansk Musikhandlerforenings Musikfortegnelse, nr. 4 (4. kvartal) 1926, s. 16.

3 Brevvekslingen mellem Carl Nielsen og Emil Telmányi er udførligt behandlet i Michael Fjeldsøe, "Carl Nielsens 5. symfoni. Dens tilblivelse og reception i 1920rne", Dansk Årbog for Musikforskning XXIV 1996, s. 54. Brevene fra Carl Nielsen befinder sig i DK-Kk, CNS, brevene fra Emil Telmányi i DK-Kk, CNA. Carl Nielsen overlod andenkorrekturen til Emil Telmányi, som tilbød sin hjælp med henvisning til, at han i tvivlstilfælde ville konsultere Carl Nielsen. På det grundlag svarede Carl Nielsen Telmányi, at han måtte "gen-nemgå og tilføje, hvad du synes i Korrekturen" (Carl Nielsens understregning). Dette svar er også citeret i Emil Telmányi: Af en Musikers Billedbog, København 1978, s. 174.

The new edition that was edited by Erik Tuxen in collaboration with Emil Telmányi in 1950, had no further source material available,⁴ and has not been used as a source for the present edition, which must thus be regarded as a revised critical edition of the first edition of 1926.

Carl Nielsen's Fifth Symphony was composed in the years 1920-1922.⁵ We know that the work on the first movement was in progress in October 1920, when Carl Nielsen was also working to complete the music for Helge Rode's play Moderen (The Mother). At this time he was staying at Damgaard near Fredericia, where he had hired a piano so he could work on "a largish thing I have to do, which is making rapid progress just now".⁶ This largish thing was the Fifth Symphony.

In the spring of 1921 Carl Nielsen spent much of his time at a house called Højbo in Tibberup, near Humlebæk, which had been lent to him by the couple Vera and Carl Johan Michaelsen, to whom he dedicated the symphony. They were very interested in Carl Nielsen's music and gave him much support in this period. This was where he finished the first movement at the beginning of March 1921. On 4th March he wrote to his wife Anne Marie Carl-Nielsen that the first movement was finished, and on 30th March he reported that the fair copy of the movement was also finished; but he could not get started on the second movement: "At present I have come to a halt in my symphony and have a rather strong feeling that my old abilities are failing me."⁷

In the summer of 1921 Carl Nielsen broke off the work on the symphony because he had promised to write a work to a text by Aage Berntsen. This work, Springtime on Funen

Den nyudgave, som blev udarbejdet af Erik Tuxen i samarbejde med Emil Telmányi i 1950, har ikke haft yderligere kildemateriale til rådighed⁴ og er ikke taget i betragtning som kilde til nærværende udgave, som således må betegnes som en kritisk revideret udgave af førsteudgaven fra 1926.

Carl Nielsens femte symfoni er komponeret i årene 1920-1922.⁵ Arbejdet med første sats vides at have været i gang i oktober 1920, hvor Carl Nielsen også arbejdede på færdiggørelsen af musikken til Helge Rodes skuespil Moderen. Han opholdt sig på dette tidspunkt på Damgaard ved Fredericia, hvor han havde lejet et klaver for at kunne arbejde på "en større Ting, jeg har for, og hvormed det gaar rask fremad netop nu".⁶ Denne større ting var den femte symfoni.

I foråret 1921 opholdt Carl Nielsen sig en stor del af tiden i et hus ved navn Højbo i Tibberup nær Humlebæk, som han havde fået stillet til rådighed af ægteparret Vera og Carl Johan Michaelsen, hvem han tilegnede symfonien. De var meget interesserede i Carl Nielsens musik og var ham en stor støtte i denne periode. Her færdiggjorde han første sats i begyndelsen af marts 1921. Den 4. marts skrev han til sin kone Anne Marie Carl-Nielsen, at førstesatsen var færdig, og den 30. marts kunne han melde, at også renskriften af satsen var færdig, men han kunne ikke komme i gang med 2. sats: "For Tiden er jeg stoppet op i min Symfoni og har en temmelig stærk Følelse af at min gamle Evne er ved at svigte mig".⁷

I sommeren 1921 afbrød Carl Nielsen arbejdet med symfonien, fordi han havde lovet at skrive et værk til en tekst af Aage Berntsen. Dette værk, Fynsk Foraar, op. 42, var færdigt den 30. august 1921, og den 3. september skrev han til Anne Marie Carl-Nielsen: "Nu skal jeg til at fortsætte paa min

4 This edition appeared both as a pocket score where the preface is signed by both, and as a full-size score with printed parts and a preface signed by Tuxen alone. Both prefices are dated August 1950. It is evident from the prefaces that for the editing of the score the manuscripts CNS 66a and CNS 66b as well as the first edition were available.

Begge forord er dateret august 1950. Af forordene fremgår, at man ved revisionen af partituret har haft manuskriptene CNS 66a og CNS 66b samt førsteudgaven til rådighed.

Op. 42, was finished on 30th August 1921, and on 3rd September he wrote to Anne Marie Carl-Nielsen: "Now I am going to go on with my interrupted symphony".⁸ The work continued until the fair copy score of the symphony, after a huge effort, was finished on 15th January 1922.⁹

The symphony was given its first performance with the composer as conductor at the music society Musikforeningen in Copenhagen on 24th January 1922. Carl Nielsen was aware that the symphony was not easy to play, but the orchestra made careful preparations. Five rehearsals were held instead of the usual three, and there is no doubt that the symphony was the major work of the evening to which everyone was looking forward.¹⁰ On the day the newspaper Politiken had featured both an advance notice with a report from the rehearsals, predicting success, and an interview with the composer, where Nielsen spoke about the symphony, which unlike the previous ones had no title:

"– My first symphony was nameless too. But then came 'The Four Temperaments', 'Espansiva' and 'The Inextinguishable', actually just different names for the same thing, the only thing that music can express when all is said and done: the resting powers as opposed to the active ones.¹¹ If I were to find a name for this, my new fifth symphony, it would express something similar. I have been unable to get hold of the one word that is at the same time characteristic and not too pretentious – so I let it be.

– But the idea or thought that lies behind it?

– Yes, how should I explain it? I roll a stone up a hill, use the energy I have in me to get the stone up to a high point. And there the stone lies still. The energy is tied up in it - until I give it a kick, and the same energy is released and the stone rolls down again.

afbrudte Symfoni".⁸ Arbejdet fortsatte indtil det renskrevne partitur til symfonien efter en vældig kraftanstrengelse lå færdigt den 15. januar 1922.⁹

Symfonien fik sin uropførelse med komponisten som dirigent i Musikforeningen i København den 24. januar 1922. Carl Nielsen var klar over, at symfonien ikke var let at spille, men orkesteret forberedte sig omhyggeligt. Der blev holdt fem prøver i stedet for de sædvanlige tre, og der er ingen tvivl om, at symfonien var aftenens hovedværk, som alle så hen til.¹⁰ Politiken havde på dagen dels en foromtale, der refererede fra prøverne og spøede om succes, dels et interview med komponisten. Her fortalte Carl Nielsen om symfonien, der ikke som de foregående havde en titel:

"– Min første Symfoni var ogsaa navnløs. Men saa kom 'De fire Temperamenter', 'Espansiva' og 'Det Uudslukkelige', egentlig blot forskellige Navne paa det samme, det eneste, som Musiken til syvende og sidst kan udtrykke: de hvilende Kræfter i Mod-sætning til de aktive.¹¹ Skulde jeg finde en Betegnelse paa denne min femte og nye Symfoni, skulde den udtrykke noget lignende. Jeg har ikke kunnet faa fat paa det ene Ord, der paa samme Tid var karakteristisk og ikke for pretentiøst – og saa har jeg ladet det være.

– Men den Idé eller Tanke, der ligger til Grund for den?

– Ja, hvordan skal jeg forklare det? Jeg ruller en Sten op ad en Bakke, anvender de Kræfter, der er i mig, paa at bringe Stenen op paa et Højdepunkt. Dér ligger Stenen saa stille. Kræfterne er bundet i den – indtil jeg giver den et Spark, da samme Kræfter udløses og Stenen ruller ned igen.

Men De maa blot ikke opfatte det som et Program! Disse Forklaringer og Anvisninger paa, hvad Musiken 'forestiller', er kun af det onde, distraherer Tilhørerne og ødelægger den absolute Tilegnelse.

11 Jf. Carl Nielsens notat på indersiden af bindet til blyantskladden DK-Kk, CNS 66b: "Dunkle, hvilende Kræfter / Vaagne Kræfter".

But you just mustn't see this as a programme!

These explanations and instructions for what the music 'represents' can only be bad, they distract the listeners and spoil the absolute grasp of the work.

This time I have changed the form and I am content with two parts instead of the usual four movements. I've thought so much about this - that in the old symphonic form you usually said most of what you had on your mind in the first allegro. Then came the calm andante, which functioned as a contrast, but then it's the scherzo, where you get up too high again and spoil the mood for the finale, where the ideas have all too often run out.

I shouldn't wonder if Beethoven felt that in his 'Ninth', when he got some assistance from the human voice towards the end!

So what I have done this time is divided the symphony into two large, broad parts – the first, which begins slowly and calmly, and the second, more active. I've been told that my new symphony isn't like my earlier ones. I can't hear it myself. But perhaps it's true. I do know that it isn't all that easy to grasp, nor all that easy to play. We've had many rehearsals of it. Some people have even thought that now Arnold Schönberg can pack his bags and take a walk with his disharmonies. Mine were worse. I don't think so.¹²

This was not meant as an attack on Schönberg, as was evident from the end of the interview, where Carl Nielsen described Schönberg as a thoroughly honest musician whose music he considered excellent insofar as he understood it; and he therefore assumed that what he did not understand was also good.¹³ Schönberg was more likely mentioned to prepare the public for the fact that there were places in the Fifth Symphony that sounded unusual and harsh, and which broke with the traditional view of harmony.

The first performance was a great success, and the reviews were positive.¹⁴ The reviewers immediately accepted the first movement, while they were more hesitant about the 13 We know with certainty that Carl Nielsen had heard Schönberg's Chamber Symphony in 1915. That Nielsen's symphony was compared to Schönberg's music may be due to the fact that Schönberg's first string quartet, Verklärte Nacht and Pierrot lunaire were all performed in Copenhagen in the autumn of 1921 and were thus fresh in memory. Jeg har denne Gang ændret Formen og nøjes med to Dele i Stedet for de sædvanlige fire Satser. Jeg har tænkt saa meget over dette, at man i den gamle Symfoniform som Regel sagde det meste af det man havde paa Hjerte, i den første Allegro. Saal kom den rolige Andante, der virkede som Modsætning, men saa efter Scherzoen, hvor man igen kommer for højt op og ødelægger Stemningen i Finalen, hvor Idéerne alt for tidt er sluppet op.

Men ikke Beethoven har følt det i sin 'niende', da han tog Menneskestemmen til Hjælp mod Slutningen!

Jeg har altså gjort det denne Gang, at jeg har delt Symfonien i to store, brede Dele – den første, der begynder langsomt og roligt, og den anden mere aktive. Man har sagt mig, at min nye Symfoni ikke ligner mine tidligere. Jeg kan ikke selv høre det. Men maaske er det rigtigt. Jeg ved dog, at den er ikke saa helt nem at capere, heller ikke helt nem at spille. Vi har haft mange Prøver paa den. Nogle har endog ment, at nu kunde Arnold Schönberg godt pakke sammen med sine Disharmonier. Mine var værre. Det tror jeg dog ikke.¹²

Dette sidste var ikke ment som et angreb på Schönberg, hvilket fremgik af interviewets slutning, hvor Carl Nielsen karakteriserede Schönberg som en helt igennem ærlig musiker, hvis musik han fandt udmarket i den udstrækning, han forstod den, og derfor antog han, at det han ikke forstod, også var godt.¹³ Schönberg blev vel snarest nævnt for at forberede publikum på, at der var steder i femte symfoni, der lød usædvanligt og krast, og som brød med den traditionelle opfattelse af harmoni.

Førsteopførelsen blev en stor succes, og anmelderne var positive.¹⁴ Den første sats tog anmelderne straks til sig, mens de stod mere vaktlende over for symfoniens anden del. August Felsing's anmeldelse er karakteristisk for denne holdning:

12 Politiken, 24.1.1922. Interview af "G-bas" (Axel Kjerulf).

13 Det vides med sikkerhed, at Carl Nielsen har hørt Schönbergs kammersymfoni i 1915. At Carl Nielsens symfoni blev sammenlignet med Schönbergs musik kan skyldes, at såvel Schönbergs første strygekvartet som Verklärte Nacht og Pierrot lunaire blev opført i København i efteråret 1921 og dermed var i frisk erindring. second part of the symphony. August Felsing's review is characteristic of this attitude:

"Intellectual art is what the second part is, and it is a master who speaks. But the pact with the eternal in art which shines forth in the first part is broken here."¹⁵

In the years to come the symphony had a number of impressive performances. Within the first six years it was performed in nine places abroad and at a further two concerts in Copenhagen: after the first performance it was played in 1922 in Gothenburg and Berlin; in 1924 in Stockholm, and in both 1923 and 1925 in Copenhagen on the composer's birthday. In 1926 it was performed in Paris and Oslo, in 1927 at the ISCM World Music Days in Frankfurt am Main and in Leipzig, on both occasions conducted by Wilhelm Furtwängler; in Königsberg and finally by the Concertgebouw Orchestra in Amsterdam.¹⁶

"Intellektuel Kunst er den sidste Del, og det er en Mester, der taler. Men den Pagt med det evige i Kunsten, som lyser ud af første Del, brister her."¹⁵

I de følgende år fik symfonien en imponerende række af opførelser. I løbet de første seks år opførtes den ni steder i udlandet samt ved yderligere to koncerter i København: Efter uropførelsen blev den i 1922 spillet i Göteborg og Berlin, i 1924 i Stockholm, og såvel i 1923 som 1925 i København på komponistens fødselsdag. I 1926 opførtes den i Paris og Oslo, i 1927 på ISCM-festivalen i Frankfurt a.M samt i Leipzig, begge gange dirigeret af Wilhelm Furtwängler, samt i Königsberg og endelig af Concertgebouw-orkestret i Amsterdam.¹⁶

In the Critical Commentary the following conventions are used:

- 1 “by analogy with” is used when something has been “added”, “emended” or “omitted” by analogy with another passage in the main source. The analogy may be vertical. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more instruments, it is understood that the analogy is with the same place in the same bar(s).
Or it may be horizontal. When something is added “by analogy with” one or more bars, it is understood that the analogy is with a parallel place in the same instrument(s).
- 2 “as in” is used when something is “added”, “emended” or “omitted” to correspond to the same place in another source.
- 3 “in accordance with” is used in cases where there is no authoritative source, only a guideline – for example printed part material.

In the bar number column, the symbol “+” is used to indicate an upbeat to the bar in question.

The score was used as a conducting score by Carl Nielsen and probably also by other conductors for earlier performances. The music has many additions and changes in three different hands, a-c:

- a. Carl Nielsen: Additions and changes in pencil and in ink. The tamb.picc. solo, apart from the first four bars, has been added in ink; the text note at tamb.picc., 1st movement (b. 400), and the change in tr. at the beginning of the 2nd movement have similarly been added in ink.
- b. Emil Telmányi: Additions in red crayon and a few in ink, comprising articulation and dynamic markings, bowing and comments on proof-reading.
- c. Engraver's pencilled notes.

Title page: "[Carl Nielsen: Symfoni nr. 5. Op. 50]" added in pencil by the Royal Library.

34.5x27 cm. Cover in stiff board, 28 sheets and 2 folios written in pencil, and 2 unwritten folios. 1st movement: 10 sheets and 2 folios (pp. 9-10, pp. 32-33), in all 44 numbered pages; 2nd movement: 18 sheets and 1 unwritten folio, in all 71 numbered pages (1-13, 2 unnumbered pages, 16-17, 17, 19-71), of which p. 45 and p. 49 are negligibly cut. The cover originally only contained the second movement, and is perforated and tied together with string. The first movement was later put into the cover such that the title page and the folio after the first movement made up a sheet around the movement. Back cover recto: "De Dunkle, hvilende Kræfter / De Vaagne Kraefter" in autograph.⁴

Paper type:

1st movement: From 12 to 22 staves.

2nd movement: From 12 to 24 staves.

The manuscript has a few autograph additions and changes in blue crayon and in ink, and the articulation marking and phrasing are only sporadically indicated. Unison parts are not always written out. On empty music lines and in the margin, there are a number of sketches, some of which are used in the Fifth Symphony. The first movement has the tempo designation "Allo moderato", the movement number "I" and the heading "(Vegetatio>"; pp. 5, 9, 19 og 23 have the same heading, which seems to have been the working title up to the Adagio. The movement was at first written with the key signature for F major / D minor up to the number 3, but this was later crossed out again. The tamb.picc. solo from b.351 is only written out for the first four bars. The second movement has the heading "II Del" [Part II] and pp. 13, 17, 22 and 41 have the heading "Symf:". At the bottom of p. 1, "E-dur Fortegn? A Dur ?"⁵ is written. Below ob. and tr. "A Dur Fortegn!" is written.⁶ The tempo marking "(Allegro, [♩] = 72 a 76)" has been added in ink. The key signatures are only given at the beginning of the movements and at changes of signature. On pp. 10-14 Carl Nielsen has added parts and made changes in blue crayon. The phrase bb.667-668 has been added in ink, and two identical bars have also been added in ink after b.671, where B has b.672 added instead. The movement was once seven bars shorter; the original ending has been erased.

The set of parts was written out for the first performance, went to the publishers Borups Musikforlag in connection with the publication of the symphony in 1926, and was then used as rental material up to and including 1951; later they went to the Royal Library.

Tr.3 (pasted on in 2nd movement, bb.1-18) and tamb.picc. (1st movement from b.190) are autograph. There are three hands: Johannes Andersen, Fred. V. [Zenders?] and one unknown. The parts have numerous additions in other hands, and a few parts have autograph additions in pencil.

E, F and G, with the sketches in C, must be regarded as drafts directly related to C, which is a fully worked-out draft score. B is a fair copy of C, with clarification of articulation and phrasing. The parts for the first performances, D¹, were written on the basis of B, and after further work on the articulation marking and phrasing, B was used as the printing source for A, 1st edition. Both Carl Nielsen's and Emil Telmányi's additions are counted as part of the source text in B, since they were added on the instructions of Carl Nielsen before the manuscript was used as a printing source. Since Carl Nielsen himself took part in the proof-reading of the first edition, and thus must be considered to have approved the final form of the music, A is considered the main source for this edition.

D², H and I were all drawn up after the death of Carl Nielsen. In I there are corrections of H. It is evident from the preface to I that the editors of H and I had no sources available which have not been available for the present edition.
